Nixon 'Cannot Conceive' GOP Nomination

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Nixon says he can conceive of "no circumstances whatever" under which he would be a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination next year.

The former vice president says that if his name comes up as a possible candidate in the New Hampshire or Oregon primaries he will "do everything I can legally to get my name out."

Nixon told a news conference Monday night those primary races should be between New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, an announced candidate for the nomination, and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, who is expected to oppose him.

Nixon said he appreciates the remarks made about him by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower on a television program Sunday but he believes he can "best serve my party and my country as a constructive critic." He said he plans about one speech a month and will continue to write articles on current events but "there is no devious conspiratorial plan

Leftist-Leaning Cabinet Planned In Italian Move

By EUGENE LEVIN

ROME (AP)—Aldo Moro today undertook the job of bringing his Catholic Christian Democrats into a coalition government with Italy's Marxist Socialists.

Moro's aim was creation of a left-leaning government loyal to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and clearly opposed to communism.

The Communists didn't like it.

The General Confederation of Italian Labor, a union largely controlled by the Reds, called a half-day general strike in Rome. The confederation called the strike a protest against the rapidly rising cost of living, but other unions opposed it as a political action.

Because some confederation leaders are Socialists, the strike provided the right wing of the COSENZA, Italy (AP) — A slight earthquake rolled through a section of the Calabrian area of southern Italy today. It damaged some buildings, created panic but caused no injuries.

Thousands of persons ran into the streets when the two-second tremor occurred shortly after dawn.

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI)—Police Chief Patrick Murphy posted a letter on the station house bulletin board Monday from a citizen who received a ticket for disobeying a stop sign.

The letter read "I have never been treated with more courtesy or respect than when ticketed by your officer. He was so courteous that he almost made me like the traffic ticket."

Six Coal Miners In Hospital After Fire in Shaft

GLENWOOD SPRINGS (UPI) —Six coal miners caught in the middle of a flash fire when gas ignited in the Dutch Creek Mine near Redstone, Colo., remained in Valley View Hospital today. But they all were reported in satisfactory condition.

Three other miners were treated at the hospital after the accident Monday and released. The six still hospitalized were kept for observation.

A spokesman for Mid-Continent Coal and Coke Co., owner of the mine, said an unusually large gas pocket ignited, apparently from a spark off a machine the men were using. The fire was extinguished immediately and it caused no damage to the mine or equipment.

The mine was closed after the accident and inspectors were to go into it today.

Soviets Arrest Touring Yale Professor on Spying Charges

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP) — The Russians announced today the arrest of Prof. Fred C. Barghoorn of Yale University on a charge of spying—the first such case involving an American since the recent cold war thaw.

The U.S. Embassy got the news from the Foreign Office, which refused to give any information on where he is being held. The embassy was pressing for details of the charge against him.

The author of several books on the Soviet Union, the 52-year-old professor formerly was on the staff of the U.S. Embassy in Moscow. He arrived in the Soviet Union about Oct. 1 on a month's tourist visa. The Foreign Ministry said he was arrested several days ago.

Barghoorn went to Alma Ata, capital of the Central Asian republic of Kazakhstan at the time of an exhibition of American graphic arts there early in October.

An embassy official said he last saw Barghoorn Oct. 12 at Tbilisi (Tiflis), capital of the Georgian republic. That is the last time he was reported seen by any Westerner.

If the charge follows the usual pattern in cases of foreign

Air Force Asks Money to Build General's House

WASHINGTON (UPI)— The Air Force wants to use part of a $1.680 million housing appropriation request for Lowry Air Force Base to build a house for a general.

L. S. Kintner, a civilian official of the Air Force, disclosed the plan at a closed-door meeting of a House Appropriations subcommittee in July. The subcommittee made his testimony public today.

The official was testifying for money to finance a 100-unit housing project. Testimony was presented to show that even if the money were allowed, the base would be in a position to house, adequately, only 54.7 per cent of its eligible personnel.

Probe of Estes Is Resumed in U.S. Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — After more than a year in mothballs, a Senate investigation of Billie Sol Estes resumes today with the Texas promoter on the witness stand.

For months he was headline news as stories of his dealings under government farm programs, his huge discount sales of liquid fertilizer and clothing gifts to officials were unraveled.

The Senate Investigations subcommittee now hopes to learn from Estes whether political influence helped him amass a multimillion-dollar fortune at the age of 35.

His financial empire in early 1962 collapsed in bankruptcy, law suits and allegations of scandal. He has been convicted of state and federal fraud charges from which he is appealing.

Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., told a reporter Monday he understands that "even Estes' own lawyers don't know" whether the Pecos, Tex., wheeler and dealer will testify or invoke his constitutional right to decline to testify.

The hearings have been dormant since Sept. 22, 1962, when McClellan recessed them to avoid prejudicing Estes' trials in Texas on fraud charges, of which he was found guilty.

The charges dealt with the alleged juggling of mortgages on non-existent fertilizer storage tanks, a subject the subcommittee avoided in its hearings.

It dwelt, instead, on allegations that influence had helped the once politically potent Estes to reap large profits from federal farm aid programs.

Primary focus was on his acquisition of an additional 3,000 acres of valuable cotton acreage planting allotments in complex land purchases and lease deals the Agriculture Department subsequently called illegal. Estes insisted they were within the law.

$2 Million Apartment Shopping Center Planned

An apartment shopping center development ultimately costing $2 million is being planned for an area in southeast Colorado Springs by the Evergreen Development Co.

Ernest G. Green, company spokesman, disclosed to the City Council this morning that plans have been drawn for 100 three-bedroom units on a 2-4 acre site at 1000 S. Institute St. Walter Miller is architect for the project.

Green said that the three-and four-story apartments will principaly be for Negro housing but they will not be restricted. He said that ultimate plans call for a shopping center across the street from the apartment building, with the possible addition of a motel.

Green requested the council this morning to vacate a portion of South Institute Street in the vicinity of the Mt. Washington subdivision.

The council tabled action until a report is available from city attorney, F. T. Henry and adjacent property owners regarding access to the area.

This morning the City Council also accepted a petition for the annexation of 800 acres at the Maizeland Road intersection with Academy Boulevard, requested by L & L, Inc.

The council annexed on second reading a 316.24 acre tract east of South Circle Drive and south of Airport Road by Sproul Homes, Inc.

Western Radio Heard Clearly In Soviet Union

By GEORGE SYVERTSEN

MOSCOW (AP)—Western radio broadcasts in Russian are coming across the Iron Curtain loud and clear since the Kremlin quit jamming them last June 19.

The familiar antennae that dot the Soviet landscape have stopped interfering with the Voice of America, the British Broadcasting Co., Vatican radio and other Western stations.

But the airwaves in the Soviet Union still resound day and night with the pulsating drone of the jamming stations.

They still are cutting into the signals of the powerful million-kilowatt Radio Liberty transmitter on the Costa Brava in Spain.

It is not an easy job. Radio Liberty, run by the American Committee of Liberty, transmits the most powerful signal in the world.

Indonesia Uses U.S.-Built Planes Against Malaysia

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Oliver P. Bolton, R-Ohio, charged today that Indonesia was using late model U.S. transport planes to drop troops and supplies along the Malaysian border.

Bolton accused the administion of furthering the "avaricious territorial dreams" of Indonesia's President Sukarno by permitting shipment of spare parts for the Lockheed C130 planes.

"There is evidence to suggest that these aircraft would be grounded within about six months time if all future export licenses for spare parts and engines were, as a matter of policy, disapproved," Bolton said.

The Ohio Republican described the U.S. planes as the Indonesian Air Forces' "most potent military punch." He said they represented one of the most serious threats to the future independence of Malaysia.

Indonesia has staunchly opposed the creation of Malaysia, a federation comprised of the former British territories of Malaya, Singapore, North Borneo and Sarawak.

Stolen Gem Cache Found In New York

NEW YORK (AP)—A cache of diamonds, believed part of the loot from last Friday's $3-million jewel robbery here was found Monday night at a Manhattan demolition site.

It was the same site where the robbers had abandoned a hijacked jewelry messenger service car from which police recovered $2½ million worth of gems and gold bars.

The value of the newest find was not estimated immediately.

The demolition site, on West 40th Street, is a block away from where the car, carrying six unarmed guards, was robbed by five gunmen.

Indian Summer In State Has Clear Sailing

By United Press International

Indian Summer appeared to have clear sailing in Colorado today and Wednesday, and more than likely through the remainder of the week.

Grand Junction's 66 degrees was the warmest in the state Monday, but most towns and cities had highs in the fifties and lows early today in the twenties and thirties. Fraser and Alamosa were the coldspots with 14 degrees.

Forecasters said Colorado would remain generally fair at least through Wednesday with highs today between 50 and 60 on the Eastern Slope and between 55 and 65 west of the mountains.

The weather in the state's eastern section should be warmer Wednesday, forecasters said.

Atlanta White Man Set on Fire By Negro Youths

ATLANTA (AP) — A 39-year-old white man was seized by several Negro youths who dragged him several blocks and set his clothing afire, police reported.

The victim, William Lanigan, was reported in serious condition at a hospital Monday with third-degree burns over the upper part of his body.

Detectives said Lanigan was unable to give a coherent statement, but related that the youths dragged him to the rear of a residence and set his clothing on fire.

Hubert Johnson said he heard the man screaming outside his house and extinguished the flames with a coat.

News Is Mainly Controversies, Educator Claims

CHICAGO (UPI)—An educator said Monday he has found that news outlets are concerned chiefly with news that relates to controversies, contests and contentions.

Tom L. Popejoy, president of the University of New Mexico, said 90 to 95 per cent of all the stories in newspapers relate to:

1. Political and governmental actions. . . "the actions are voting contests, arguments, debates and discussions of issues," Popejoy said.

2. Past, present, future and cold wars, "all of which are based on conflict or possible conflict."

3. Scandals arguments, charges, segregation, integration, accidents, disasters, deaths, illnesses, beauty contests, intrigues, awards, crimes, law suits, separations, "all of which involve persons who are in conflict with other persons or things."

4. Sports contests, "which include all the competitive sports."

5. "Even the funnies are based on friction, argument, intrigue and embarrassment," Popejoy said.

6. "The society pages which announce engagements and weddings are an enigma to me, but maybe they anticipate controversy," Popejoy said.

Popejoy spoke to the council of presidents at the annual convention of the Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges.

Operation Big Lift Troops Returning Home

By LOYLA GOULD

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—The U.S. Air Force started flying the men of Operation Big Lift home today.

The first C135 jet returning troops of the 2nd Armored Division to the United States took off from Rhein-Main Air Force Base just before noon. Aboard were 73 men commanded by 1st Lt. Alden L. Haswell of White Plains, N.Y. Capt. Robert K. Potter of Salt Lake City was the pilot.

The C135 was scheduled to stop briefly at McGuire Air Force Base, N.J., and to reach Bergstrom Air Force Base in Texas at midafternoon (CST).

Approximately 222 flights are planned for the return of the 16,000 troops flown to Europe in the Big Lift maneuver.

Unlike the airlift to Europe — which began Oct. 22 and lasted only 63 hours and 20 minutes — the redeployment will take 10 days. The troops were rushed over in a demonstration of U.S. ability to ferry large quantities of men to overseas trouble spots quickly. After their arrival they engaged in maneuvers with the 3rd Armored Division, which is stationed in Germany.

The final airlift activity will take place Dec. 16-18, when the 2nd Armored's rear echelons are flown back.

Mom Bitter About Surgery For Cancer-Stricken Girl

By LARRY FRIEDMAN

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Blonde Lily Simko was confused, broken-hearted, but most of all she was bitter—at everyone. Three floors up in an operating room, surgeons were amputating the right leg of Christine, her 14-year-old daughter.

Seated in a corridor of metropolitan general hospital, Mrs. Simko remained unreconciled to the facts. "What kind of life can my daughter have now?" she said as sobs broke her voice.

Christine had a life-or-death question hanging over her. She had a malignant tumor in her right hip. Doctors agreed only removal of the entire leg, including the hip, could save the girl's life. Otherwise, life expectancy was reduced to 6-18 months.

Now Christine has a reasonable chance to be cured over a five-year period. Every week and month brings added hope, doctors say.

A team of four surgeons completed the operation in five hours Monday. All went smoothly. Christine will be out of bed in a few days. She will walk, first with crutches and then under physical therapy treatment with an artificial limb. Since her hip is gone, the limb will have to

Fast and Loose Spending of Tens of Millions Charged Against Kennedy Administration

By ROBERT S. ALLEN AND PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON, (Special) — President Kennedy has only himself to blame for the Senate's roughshod mauling of his multibillion dollar foreign aid authorization bill.

Startling disclosures by three Senators — Allen Ellender, D-La., Wayne Morse, D-Ore., and Ernest Bruening, D-Alaska, the last two former staunch foreign aid supporters — of fast and loose spending of tens of millions of dollars of contingency funds sparked the slashing crackdown.

Denunciations of the misuse of foreign aid contingency funds had been heard before. But this time the charges were spelled out in jarring detail, and they had explosive effect.

Bluntly and explicitly the three Senators accused the President and his administration of using contingency funds for purposes which Congress would not approve.

In other words, instead of these funds being utilized solely for emergencies and unforseen requirements, as Congress intended, they have been diverted to a wide variety of expenditures that could never pass congressional muster—a clear flouting of congressional will and aim.

As proof, Senator Ellender cited the fact that "through March 31, 1963, out of the $120 million that was obligated, only $35 million actually covered unforseen contingencies. Only $35 million of the $120 million was used for bona fide contingencies. The remaining $85 million was used to correct deficits in the budgets and the balance-of-payments of various countries."

Senator Morse was equally scathing in detailing the record of the "unauthorized" use of contingency funds in Latin America.

"To put it bluntly," he declared, "in Latin America they are 'bail out' money. They have been used to bail out Latin American governments that have not had the courage, determination or the political backing at home to undertake the reforms required to obtain funds through the Alliance for Progress.

"As I look down the list of countries that have received assistance out of the contingency funds, I am hard put to find a single one or a single purpose to which the money was put that anyone could possibly call an emergency. Balance of payment loans and budget support grants are a prominent use of contingency funds everywhere in the world."

Following are highlights of the glaring misuse of foreign aid contingency funds by the Kennedy Administration as brought into the open by Senator Ellender:

"I cannot name the country

By ROBERT S. ALLEN AND PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON, (Special) — President Kennedy has only himself to blame for the Senate's roughshod mauling of his multibillion dollar foreign aid authorization bill.

Startling disclosures by three Senators — Allen Ellender, D-La., Wayne Morse, D-Ore., and Ernest Bruening, D-Alaska, the last two former staunch foreign aid supporters — of fast and loose spending of tens of millions of dollars of contingency funds sparked the slashing crackdown.

Denunciations of the misuse of foreign aid contingency funds had been heard before. But this time the charges were spelled out in jarring detail, and they had explosive effect.

Bluntly and explicitly the three Senators accused the President and his administration of using contingency funds for purposes which Congress would not approve.

In other words, instead of these funds being utilized solely for emergencies and unforseen requirements, as Congress intended, they have been diverted to a wide variety of expenditures that could never pass congressional muster—a clear flouting of congressional will and aim.

As proof, Senator Ellender cited the fact that "through March 31, 1963, out of the $120 million that was obligated, only $35 million actually covered unforseen contingencies. Only $35 million of the $120 million was used for bona fide contingencies. The remaining $85 million was used to correct deficits in the budgets and the balance-of-payments of various countries."

Senator Morse was equally scathing in detailing the record of the "unauthorized" use of contingency funds in Latin America.

"To put it bluntly," he declared, "in Latin America they are 'bail out' money. They have been used to bail out Latin American governments that have not had the courage, determination or the political backing at home to undertake the reforms required to obtain funds through the Alliance for Progress.

"As I look down the list of countries that have received assistance out of the contingency funds, I am hard put to find a single one or a single purpose to which the money was put that anyone could possibly call an emergency. Balance of payment loans and budget support grants are a prominent use of contingency funds everywhere in the world."

Following are highlights of the glaring misuse of foreign aid contingency funds by the Kennedy Administration as brought into the open by Senator Ellender:

"I cannot name the country

Soviets Arrest Touring Yale Professor on Spying Charges

ARRESTED ON SPY CHARGES—The Russians announced today the arrest of Prof. Fred C. Barghoorn, 52, of Yale University, on a charge of spying. Barghoorn arrived in the Soviet Union about Oct. 1 on a month's tourist visa. (AP Wirephoto)

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP) — The Russians announced today the arrest of Prof. Fred C. Barghoorn of Yale University on a charge of spying—the first such case involving an American since the recent cold war thaw.

The U.S. Embassy got the news from the Foreign Office, which refused to give any information on where he is being held. The embassy was pressing for details of the charge against him.

The author of several books on the Soviet Union, the 52-year-old professor formerly was on the staff of the U.S. Embassy in Moscow. He arrived in the Soviet Union about Oct. 1 on a month's tourist visa. The Foreign Ministry said he was arrested several days ago.

Barghoorn went to Alma Ata, capital of the Central Asian republic of Kazakhstan at the time of an exhibition of American graphic arts there early in October.

An embassy official said he last saw Barghoorn Oct. 12 at Tbilisi (Tiflis), capital of the Georgian republic. That is the last time he was reported seen by any Westerner.

If the charge follows the usual pattern in cases of foreign

Air Force Asks Money to Build General's House

WASHINGTON (UPI)— The Air Force wants to use part of a $1.680 million housing appropriation request for Lowry Air Force Base to build a house for a general.

L. S. Kintner, a civilian official of the Air Force, disclosed the plan at a closed-door meeting of a House Appropriations subcommittee in July. The subcommittee made his testimony public today.

The official was testifying for money to finance a 100-unit housing project. Testimony was presented to show that even if the money were allowed, the base would be in a position to house, adequately, only 54.7 per cent of its eligible personnel.

Probe of Estes Is Resumed in U.S. Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — After more than a year in mothballs, a Senate investigation of Billie Sol Estes resumes today with the Texas promoter on the witness stand.

For months he was headline news as stories of his dealings under government farm programs, his huge discount sales of liquid fertilizer and clothing gifts to officials were unraveled.

The Senate Investigations subcommittee now hopes to learn from Estes whether political influence helped him amass a multimillion-dollar fortune at the age of 35.

His financial empire in early 1962 collapsed in bankruptcy, law suits and allegations of scandal. He has been convicted of state and federal fraud charges from which he is appealing.

Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., told a reporter Monday he understands that "even Estes' own lawyers don't know" whether the Pecos, Tex., wheeler and dealer will testify or invoke his constitutional right to decline to testify.

The hearings have been dormant since Sept. 22, 1962, when McClellan recessed them to avoid prejudicing Estes' trials in Texas on fraud charges, of which he was found guilty.

The charges dealt with the alleged juggling of mortgages on non-existent fertilizer storage tanks, a subject the subcommittee avoided in its hearings.

It dwelt, instead, on allegations that influence had helped the once politically potent Estes to reap large profits from federal farm aid programs.

Primary focus was on his acquisition of an additional 3,000 acres of valuable cotton acreage planting allotments in complex land purchases and lease deals the Agriculture Department subsequently called illegal. Estes insisted they were within the law.

$2 Million Apartment Shopping Center Planned

An apartment shopping center development ultimately costing $2 million is being planned for an area in southeast Colorado Springs by the Evergreen Development Co.

Ernest G. Green, company spokesman, disclosed to the City Council this morning that plans have been drawn for 100 three-bedroom units on a 2-4 acre site at 1000 S. Institute St. Walter Miller is architect for the project.

Green said that the three-and four-story apartments will principaly be for Negro housing but they will not be restricted. He said that ultimate plans call for a shopping center across the street from the apartment building, with the possible addition of a motel.

Green requested the council this morning to vacate a portion of South Institute Street in the vicinity of the Mt. Washington subdivision.

The council tabled action until a report is available from city attorney, F. T. Henry and adjacent property owners regarding access to the area.

This morning the City Council also accepted a petition for the annexation of 800 acres at the Maizeland Road intersection with Academy Boulevard, requested by L & L, Inc.

The council annexed on second reading a 316.24 acre tract east of South Circle Drive and south of Airport Road by Sproul Homes, Inc.

Western Radio Heard Clearly In Soviet Union

By GEORGE SYVERTSEN

MOSCOW (AP)—Western radio broadcasts in Russian are coming across the Iron Curtain loud and clear since the Kremlin quit jamming them last June 19.

The familiar antennae that dot the Soviet landscape have stopped interfering with the Voice of America, the British Broadcasting Co., Vatican radio and other Western stations.

But the airwaves in the Soviet Union still resound day and night with the pulsating drone of the jamming stations.

They still are cutting into the signals of the powerful million-kilowatt Radio Liberty transmitter on the Costa Brava in Spain.

It is not an easy job. Radio Liberty, run by the American Committee of Liberty, transmits the most powerful signal in the world.

Indonesia Uses U.S.-Built Planes Against Malaysia

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. Oliver P. Bolton, R-Ohio, charged today that Indonesia was using late model U.S. transport planes to drop troops and supplies along the Malaysian border.

Bolton accused the administration of furthering the "avaricious territorial dreams" of Indonesia's President Sukarno by permitting shipment of spare parts for the Lockheed C130 planes.

"There is evidence to suggest that these aircraft would be grounded within about six months time if all future export licenses for spare parts and engines were, as a matter of policy, disapproved," Bolton said.

The Ohio Republican described the U.S. planes as the Indonesian Air Forces' "most potent military punch." He said they represented one of the most serious threats to the future independence of Malaysia.

Indonesia has staunchly opposed the creation of Malaysia, a federation comprised of the former British territories of Malaya, Singapore, North Borneo and Sarawak.

Stolen Gem Cache Found In New York

NEW YORK (AP)—A cache of diamonds, believed part of the loot from last Friday's $3-million jewel robbery here was found Monday night at a Manhattan demolition site.

It was the same site where the robbers had abandoned a hijacked jewelry messenger service car from which police recovered $2½ million worth of gems and gold bars.

The value of the newest find was not estimated immediately.

The demolition site, on West 40th Street, is a block away from where the car, carrying six unarmed guards, was robbed by five gunmen.

Indian Summer In State Has Clear Sailing

By United Press International

Indian Summer appeared to have clear sailing in Colorado today and Wednesday, and more than likely through the remainder of the week.

Grand Junction's 66 degrees was the warmest in the state Monday, but most towns and cities had highs in the fifties and lows early today in the twenties and thirties. Fraser and Alamosa were the coldspots with 14 degrees.

Forecasters said Colorado would remain generally fair at least through Wednesday with highs today between 50 and 60 on the Eastern Slope and between 55 and 65 west of the mountains.

The weather in the state's eastern section should be warmer Wednesday, forecasters said.

Atlanta White Man Set on Fire By Negro Youths

ATLANTA (AP) — A 39-year-old white man was seized by several Negro youths who dragged him several blocks and set his clothing afire, police reported.

The victim, William Lanigan, was reported in serious condition at a hospital Monday with third-degree burns over the upper part of his body.

Detectives said Lanigan was unable to give a coherent statement, but related that the youths dragged him to the rear of a residence and set his clothing on fire.

Hubert Johnson said he heard the man screaming outside his house and extinguished the flames with a coat.

U.S. Convoy Not Hindered By Russians

BERLIN (AP)—A U.S. Army convoy traveled across East Germany today without hindrance from the Soviets, despite their recent attempts to tighten autobahn controls.

The convoy of 13 vehicles and 54 men arrived in West Germany from Berlin at midafternoon. It had left the checkpoint outside Berlin this morning.

News Is Mainly Controversies, Educator Claims

CHICAGO (UPI)—An educator said Monday he has found that news outlets are concerned chiefly with news that relates to controversies, contests and contentions.

Tom L. Popejoy, president of the University of New Mexico, said 90 to 95 per cent of all the stories in newspapers relate to:

1. Political and governmental actions . . . "the actions are voting contests, arguments, debates and discussions of issues," Popejoy said.

2. Past, present, future and cold wars, "all of which are based on conflict or possible conflict."

3. Scandals arguments, charges, segregation, integration, accidents, disasters, deaths, illnesses, beauty contests, intrigues, awards, crimes, law suits, separations, "all of which involve persons who are in conflict with other persons or things."

4. Sports contests, "which include all the competitive sports."

5. "Even the funnies are based on friction, argument, intrigue and embarrassment," Popejoy said.

6. "The society pages which announce engagements and weddings are an enigma to me, but maybe they anticipate controversy," Popejoy said.

Popejoy spoke to the council of presidents at the annual convention of the Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges.

By LOYLA GOULD

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—The U.S. Air Force started flying the men of Operation Big Lift home today.

The first C135 jet returning troops of the 2nd Armored Division to the United States took off from Rhein-Main Air Force Base just before noon. Aboard were 73 men commanded by 1st Lt. Alden L. Haswell of White Plains, N.Y. Capt. Robert K. Potter of Salt Lake City was the pilot.

The C135 was scheduled to stop briefly at McGuire Air Force Base, N.J., and to reach Bergstrom Air Force Base in Texas at midafternoon (CST).

Approximately 222 flights are planned for the return of the 16,000 troops flown to Europe in the Big Lift maneuver.

Unlike the airlift to Europe — which began Oct. 22 and lasted only 63 hours and 20 minutes — the redeployment will take 10 days. The troops were rushed over in a demonstration of U.S. ability to ferry large quantities of men to overseas trouble spots quickly. After their arrival they engaged in maneuvers with the 3rd Armored Division, which is stationed in Germany.

The final airlift activity will take place Dec. 16-18, when the 2nd Armored's rear echelons are flown back.

Mom Bitter About Surgery For Cancer-Stricken Girl

By LARRY FRIEDMAN

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Blonde Lily Simko was confused, broken-hearted, but most of all she was bitter—at everyone. Three floors up in an operating room, surgeons were amputating the right leg of Christine, her 14-year-old daughter.

Seated in a corridor of metropolitan general hospital, Mrs. Simko remained unreconciled to the facts. "What kind of life can my daughter have now?" she said as sobs broke her voice.

Christine had a life-or-death question hanging over her. She had a malignant tumor in her right hip. Doctors agreed only removal of the entire leg, including the hip, could save the girl's life. Otherwise, life expectancy was reduced to 6-18 months.

Now Christine has a reasonable chance to be cured over a five-year period. Every week and month brings added hope, doctors say.

A team of four surgeons completed the operation in five hours Monday. All went smoothly. Christine will be out of bed in a few days. She will walk, first with crutches and then under physical therapy treatment with an artificial limb. Since her hip is gone, the limb will have to

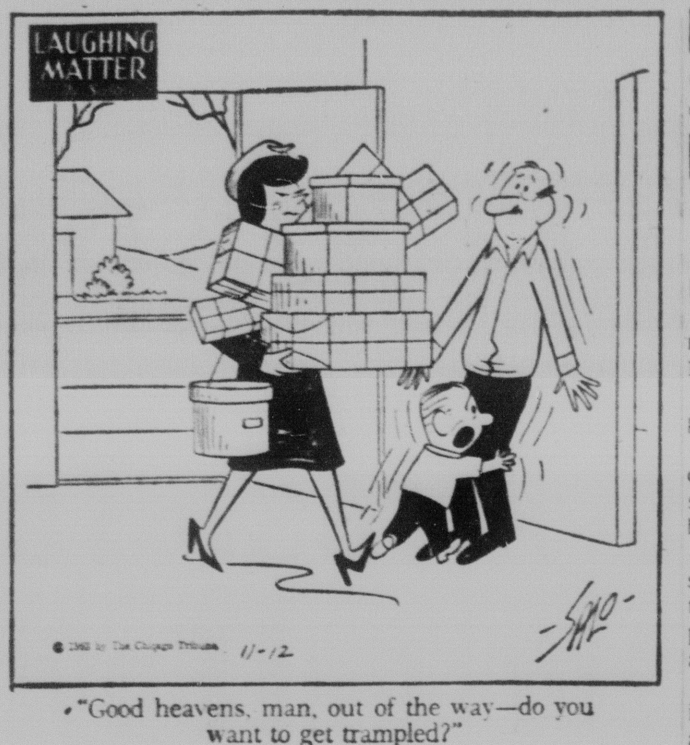
Injured Oil Worker May Never Recover

HOUSTON (UPI) — Henry Coates, 33, of Olla, La., an oil rig worker injured three months ago in an accident on his job, is still semi - conscious and may never recover, doctors said today.

Coates was struck on the head by a steel bar as he worked on a Zapata Oil Co. rig offshore at Brunei in northwestern Borneo. He was treated at Manila and then brought to the United States Sept. 13, a month after the accident. His wife and 2 - year-old son came to Houston with him and have moved into an apartment near Methodist Hospital so they can visit Coates frequently.

He shows pain in his eyes but no recognition, Mrs. Coates said.



"Good heavens, man, out of the way—do you want to get trampled?"

More Oil Production Urged by Chairman

CHICAGO (UPI)— The chairman of the Interstate Oil Compact Commission today charged the petroleum industry with the responsibility of placing production ahead of domestic demand.

Gov. Matthew E. Welsh of Indiana spoke at the first sesssion of the annual meeting of the American Petroleum Institute.

He said the health and vitality of the finding and producing segmets of the industry has a direct bearing on the nation's security.

Earlier this year, Welsh said, he appointed a board of governors to examine the functions of the commission.

Welsh said the committee plans to complete the evaluation "as soon as possible" and that an interim report will be made in Santa Fe, N.M., Dec. 10.

At the same meeting, a Commerce Department official called for "more definite standards and criteria" upon which proposed railroad merger can be approved.

More College Students Are Being Forecast

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Why college presidents get grey:

There will be 40 per cent more high school graduates in 1965 than there were in 1963.

A larger percentage of those graduates will go on to college.

Ninety percent of the American public believes all boys should go to college, 77 per cent believes all girls should.

National defense and space science threaten to dominate the campus scene, at the expnse of the humanities and arts.

These facts, figures and opinions are being discussed at the annual meeting of the Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges. The 97 institutions represented enroll 72 per cent of all the nation's college and university students.

William C. Eckermen of the University of Michigan told the meeting Sunday night a national survey indicates 96 per cent of the public believes a college education is more important now than it was 30 years ago.

But, he said, 72 per cent believe the most important thing about such an education is "training for a good job." The next most often quoted reasons for going to college were "social acceptance" and "getting to know the right people."

The survey, by Michigan's Survey Research Center is still under way. Final tabulations will be reported next summer.

Even those who approve of college education in general had some criticisms, Eckerman said.

The criticisms most often heard are that college education may create snobs, make youngsters think they are getting something for nothing and may tend to make them adopt radical ideas or break down their standards of morality.

Ike Tells How He Decided for Second Term

EDITOR'S NOTE: This story on Dwight D. Eisenhower's first volume of his memoirs of White House years is by an Associated Press newsman who covered Eisenhower from the time of his nomination in 1952 through his eight years as President.

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's Friday the 13th, January 1956. Dinner has just ended at the White House and President Eisenhower puts the big question to 12 key advisers:

Should he run for a second term?

Eleven of the 12 say yes. They argue it is Eisenhower's duty to bid for re-election.

The 12th man is the President's brother, Milton. On other occasions Milton has urged the President, still convalescing again.

This particular evening the President asks Milton to "state the negative case"—the case against a second term—and then to sum up the pros and cons for and against. The President ponders for the next six weeks what to do.

On Feb. 29 he announces he will seek re-election.

Word about the Jan. 13 dinner leaked out after a few days. So did reports that sentiment among the guests had been overwhelmingly in favor of a second-term try.

But now, almost seven years later, Eisenhower himself for the first time tells what went on at that intimate session. He does so in the first volume of his Memoirs of White House Years. Published by Doubleday, It's a 650-page book dealing with his first term, the campaign which led to his election in 1952, and the pre-campaign pulling and hauling which got Eisenhower out of an Army uniform and into politics.

Eisenhower's detailed story on his administration's record — how he and his aides dealt with scores of problems, domestic and international — is one he tells with obvious pride.

Writing at the start of the book on his first four years as President, 1953-56, Eisenhower says:

"They were prosperous years. In spite of one mild and one sharp recession the income and productivity of the nation advanced markedly; steady progress toward fiscal responsibility was made; the divisions over internal security were ended; existing wars were stopped, threatening ones halted before they started. And although the aggressive purposes of Moscow and Peiping remained unchanged, the rolling advance of communism came to a stop."

On the final page, in reporting his decision to run again as the crossing of "my personal political rubicon," Eisenhower's theme is the same:

"We had converted the United States of America from a nation at war to a nation at peace, productive and happy."

Before turning back to that Friday-the-13th White House dinner in January 1956, there is interesting background in the book on what Eisenhower's earlier thinking was regarding a second term.

He discloses that in January 1953 he wanted to write into his inaugural address a declaration that he would serve only one term. Advisers talked him out of that, saying it would be a political mistake at that stage.

But 11 months later the President wrote brother Milton that if ever he showed any signs of interest in running for re-election, "please call in a psychiatrist—or even the sheriff. I feel there can be no showing made that my 'duty' extends beyond a one -time performance."

And Republican seers wondering today whether Eisenhower has a preference for the 1964 presidential nomination might do some head scratching in reading another note he sent to Milton, in August 1955.

"Don't you know," Eisenhower wrote, "that long before I became President, you were my favorite candidate for that office?"

Milton now is president of Johns Hopkins University at Baltimore.

A month after that note Dwight Eisenhower suffered a heart attack.

Among those of us on hand that day in the press room at Denver, where the attack occurred Sept. 24, talk about likelihood of a second term bid shifted abruptly to whether Eisenhower would survive. There was little thought he ever would run again.

But came January and that dinner at the White House. The President, just back at work in Washington, was making a fine recovery. He called on 11 guests, one after the other, for their views on whether he should try for a second term.

One after another they urged him to do so—Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell; Leonard Hall, chairman of the Republican National Committee; Secretary of State John Foster Dulles; Henry Cabot Lodge, Ambassador to the United Nations; Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey; Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield; James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary; and Sherman Adams, Wilton B. Persons, Howard Pyle and Thomas E. Stephens, all presidential aides.

"All felt you were in a better position than anyone else to prevent global war and to work steadily toward global peace. It is believed that only you of all Republicans can be elected in 1956," Milton wrote to the President later in a memo summing up the views of the 11 men.

At the dinner, Milton—stating the negative case and apparently his personal convictions—argued, as the President puts it, "that I should be thinking more of my own health and of removing myself completely from the political caldron."

The four years of problems—massive, middle size and small—that Eisenhower recounts grappling with during his first term are sure to make readers of the book wonder why he disregarded his brother's advice. The presidential bug bites hard—and deep.

Key West, the popular winter resort at Florida's tip, owes its success to the depression. In the 1930's, some 12,000 residents were on relief. To restore prosperity, the city dressed itself up as a tropical resort by cleaning the beaches and redecorating its West Indies-style wooden houses.

New Explorer Launching Is Postponed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration postponed indefinitely today the launching of the IMP- — an interplanetary Explorer satellite on a radiation charting flight three-fourths of the way to the moon.

The agency said ground tests of the third stage of the Delta launch vehicle indicated that rocket exhaust, after burnout, might cause a spacecraft contamination problem.

"Changes in the separation sequence will be made to eliminate this possibility," NASA said.

"A new launch date has not been set."

The 138-pound satellite was scheduled for launching Tuesday on an elliptical orbit that would take it 173,000 miles out toward the moon and bring it back to within 125 miles of the earth.

Only a ninth of the Sahara Desert, which covers 3,500,000 square miles, is blanketed in golden, smooth, sharply crested sand dunes.

CHICAGO (AP) — Why college presidents get grey:

There will be 40 per cent more high school graduates in 1965 than there were in 1963.

A larger percentage of those graduates will go on to college.

Ninety percent of the American public believes all boys should go to college, 77 per cent believes all girls should.

National defense and space science threaten to dominate the campus scene, at the expnse of the humanities and arts.

These facts, figures and opinions are being discussed at the annual meeting of the Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges. The 97 institutions represented enroll 72 per cent of all the nation's college and university students.

William C. Eckermen of the University of Michigan told the meeting Sunday night a national survey indicates 96 per cent of the public believes a college education is more important now than it was 30 years ago.

But, he said, 72 per cent believe the most important thing about such an education is "training for a good job." The next most often quoted reasons for going to college were "social acceptance" and "getting to know the right people."

The survey, by Michigan's Survey Research Center is still under way. Final tabulations will be reported next summer.

Even those who approve of college education in general had some criticisms, Eckerman said.

The criticisms most often heard are that college education may create snobs, make youngsters think they are getting something for nothing and may tend to make them adopt radical ideas or break down their standards of morality.

Ike Tells How He Decided for Second Term

EDITOR'S NOTE: This story on Dwight D. Eisenhower's first volume of his memoirs of White House years is by an Associated Press newsman who covered Eisenhower from the time of his nomination in 1952 through his eight years as President.

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's Friday the 13th, January 1956. Dinner has just ended at the White House and President Eisenhower puts the big question to 12 key advisers:

Should he run for a second term?

Eleven of the 12 say yes. They argue it is Eisenhower's duty to bid for re-election.

The 12th man is the President's brother, Milton. On other occasions Milton has urged the President, still convalescing again.

This particular evening the President asks Milton to "state the negative case"—the case against a second term—and then to sum up the pros and cons for and against. The President ponders for the next six weeks what to do.

On Feb. 29 he announces he will seek re-election.

Word about the Jan. 13 dinner leaked out after a few days. So did reports that sentiment among the guests had been overwhelmingly in favor of a second-term try.

But now, almost seven years later, Eisenhower himself for the first time tells what went on at that intimate session. He does so in the first volume of his Memoirs of White House Years. Published by Doubleday, It's a 650-page book dealing with his first term, the campaign which led to his election in 1952, and the pre-campaign pulling and hauling which got Eisenhower out of an Army uniform and into politics.

Eisenhower's detailed story on his administration's record — how he and his aides dealt with scores of problems, domestic and international — is one he tells with obvious pride.

Writing at the start of the book on his first four years as President, 1953-56, Eisenhower says:

"They were prosperous years. In spite of one mild and one sharp recession the income and productivity of the nation advanced markedly; steady progress toward fiscal responsibility was made; the divisions over internal security were ended; existing wars were stopped, threatening ones halted before they started. And although the aggressive purposes of Moscow and Peiping remained unchanged, the rolling advance of communism came to a stop."

On the final page, in reporting his decision to run again as the crossing of "my personal political rubicon," Eisenhower's theme is the same:

"We had converted the United States of America from a nation at war to a nation at peace, productive and happy."

Before turning back to that Friday-the-13th White House dinner in January 1956, there is interesting background in the book on what Eisenhower's earlier thinking was regarding a second term.

He discloses that in January 1953 he wanted to write into his inaugural address a declaration that he would serve only one term. Advisers talked him out of that, saying it would be a political mistake at that stage.

But 11 months later the President wrote brother Milton that if ever he showed any signs of interest in running for re-election, "please call in a psychiatrist—or even the sheriff. I feel there can be no showing made that my 'duty' extends beyond a one -time performance."

And Republican seers wondering today whether Eisenhower has a preference for the 1964 presidential nomination might do some head scratching in reading another note he sent to Milton, in August 1955.

"Don't you know," Eisenhower wrote, "that long before I became President, you were my favorite candidate for that office?"

Milton now is president of Johns Hopkins University at Baltimore.

A month after that note Dwight Eisenhower suffered a heart attack.

Among those of us on hand that day in the press room at Denver, where the attack occurred Sept. 24, talk about likelihood of a second term bid shifted abruptly to whether Eisenhower would survive. There was little thought he ever would run again.

But came January and that dinner at the White House. The President, just back at work in Washington, was making a fine recovery. He called on 11 guests, one after the other, for their views on whether he should try for a second term.

One after another they urged him to do so—Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell; Leonard Hall, chairman of the Republican National Committee; Secretary of State John Foster Dulles; Henry Cabot Lodge, Ambassador to the United Nations; Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey; Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield; James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary; and Sherman Adams, Wilton B. Persons, Howard Pyle and Thomas E. Stephens, all presidential aides.

"All felt you were in a better position than anyone else to prevent global war and to work steadily toward global peace. It is believed that only you of all Republicans can be elected in 1956," Milton wrote to the President later in a memo summing up the views of the 11 men.

At the dinner, Milton—stating the negative case and apparently his personal convictions—argued, as the President puts it, "that I should be thinking more of my own health and of removing myself completely from the political caldron."

The four years of problems—massive, middle size and small—that Eisenhower recounts grappling with during his first term are sure to make readers of the book wonder why he disregarded his brother's advice. The presidential bug bites hard—and deep.

Key West, the popular winter resort at Florida's tip, owes its success to the depression. In the 1930's, some 12,000 residents were on relief. To restore prosperity, the city dressed itself up as a tropical resort by cleaning the beaches and redecorating its West Indies-style wooden houses.

New Explorer Launching Is Postponed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration postponed indefinitely today the launching of the IMP- — an interplanetary Explorer satellite on a radiation charting flight three-fourths of the way to the moon.

The agency said ground tests of the third stage of the Delta launch vehicle indicated that rocket exhaust, after burnout, might cause a spacecraft contamination problem.

"Changes in the separation sequence will be made to eliminate this possibility," NASA said.

"A new launch date has not been set."

The 138-pound satellite was scheduled for launching Tuesday on an elliptical orbit that would take it 173,000 miles out toward the moon and bring it back to within 125 miles of the earth.

Only a ninth of the Sahara Desert, which covers 3,500,000 square miles, is blanketed in golden, smooth, sharply crested sand dunes.

Popular Front Efforts Fail In France

PARIS (UPI) — Efforts to forge a "popular front" of all French opposition parties against President Charles de Gaulle today appeared to have failed.

Political observers said the failure of the opposition to unite could ruin hopes of defeating De Gaulle in his expected bid for a second term in 1965.

The front's first test—the National Assembly debate last week on an independent French nuclear force—indicated that middle-of-the - road opposition parties will refuse to join the Communists and Socialists, apparently through fear that Communists would dominate the grouping.

Some opposition leaders had proposed that the many opposition parties work together to prevent De Gaulle from having his own way in Parliament. The large number of Gaullist Union of the New Republic (UNR) legislators and their right-wing allies constitute a formidable voting bloc.

Passenger Is Blamed for Air Crash Deaths

WASHINGTON (AP)—Administrator N. E. Halaby of the Federal Aviation Agency said today that some of the victims of a 1961 crash landing at Denver died unnecessarily — in part because an unauthorized person tried to keep passengers in the plane momentarily.

Halaby referred to the July 11, 1961, landing crash of a United Air Lines DC8 jet with 120 persons aboard. The plane burst into flames, killing 16 of the passengers and the driver of a truck being driven near the runway.

The FFA chief mentioned the accident on a Westinghouse Broadcasting Co. radio program "Washington Viewpoint", while discussing action to improve the emergency evacuation of large jet planes. The program was prepared for broadcast over six stations.

After the plane swerved off the runway, sheared off its landing gear and some engines and came to half, "the situtation in the cabin was confused," Halaby said.

"One of the passengers volunteered, without any training or procedure, to sort of keep everyone in their seats," he said. "And the result was that some 16 people died unnecessarily.

"I was right there shortly after the accident and it had a shocking effect on me. So we've been working very steadily now, and have recently put out some proposed rules."

Halaby said one requirement is to make sure that the pilot asserts his responsibility as a commander, that he and his crew have proper emergency training, and to see that he is equipped with a megaphone and a flashlight.

Other rules, he said, require adequate exits in airplanes, chutes down which passengers may slide, adequate fire-fighting equipment at airports, and "firemen who don't just pitch horseshoes but know how to get into the cabin of an airplane and let people escape."

ONE WAY TO KEEP WOMEN HOME

The practice of binding the feet of Chinese women existed more than a thousand years. The fashion has become obsolete and it would be difficult to find this type of deformity in any gal under 30 years of age. No one knows how the custom started except that the ancient Chinese considered small and lotus-shaped feet the acme of beauty. Parents realized that girls with normal feet would be hard to marry off.

The deforming process was begun when the childen were between 2 and 6 years old; after it was completed these women could hardly walk. This was not the reason for binding but it did keep the women indoors and out of temptation and mischief.

It is difficult to describe the appearance of these poor feet. Molding and tight bandages raised the arches upward like a tent, and shortened the feet. The big toe was turned outward and the other four toes were bent under the soles. When the mutilation was complete, the heels and four smaller toes bore the weight of the body.

The Canadian Journal of Surgery carried an article on the subject by two Chinese physicians living in Hong Kong. These men say the gait had no resilience or spring and the women walked "with a stamping gait like wearing wooden stilts." It was almost impossible to go up and down stairs, walk on a slope, or run. Special shoes or boots with a raised heel had to be worn because of the misshapen front part of the foot.

Binding the feet in this way is extremely painful and not harmless. Pressure sores often developed during the process, especially when it was done by inexperienced persons. The bandages may have been put on so tightly, circulation was impaired and the ensuing gangrene required amputation. Fungal infections of the toes and nails were common because of the poor hygenic state of the feet. Tuberculosis of the bones of the feet occured also and ostemalacia (loss of calcioum) was encouraged because these housebound women never got any sunlight or out of door exercise.

I'm happy foot binding is out of style and I'm sure Chinese women are, too.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - addressed envelope accompanies request.

U.S.-Mexico Relations at High Point

By PHI LNEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Despite occasional differences over the treatment to be accorded Castro Cuba, United States-Mexico relations are at their highest point in years. The signs are that they are to improve still more.

The forecasts are based on the man who has been selected by the dominant Institutional Revolutionary party (PRI) to succeed Adolfo Lopez Mateos as president of Mexico in December, 1964.

He is Gustavo Diaz Ordaz, minister of the interior in the Lopez Mateos government. And since the PRI has not lost an election in more than 30 years, his election is considered assured.

As interior minister since 1958, Diaz Ordaz has cooperated closely with the United States so much so that Communists and Castroites have attacked him as "pro-Yanqui" and a leader of reactionary forces.

Mexico's refusal to go along with U.S. demands for a total break with Cuba, including an economic blockade, is well known.

Less well known is the firm crackdown on Communists and Communist agitation that has been carried out within Mexico under Diaz Ordaz's direction.

While most passengers traveling to Cuba simply use Mexico as a way-point, all have been closely checked for years. Their photographs are taken and their passports stamped.

Tons of Communist propaganda carried out of Cuba have been confiscated at the Mexico City airport.

The Mexican revolution dates from 1911 and Mexican political leaders still insist that theirs is a revolutionary state.

This in part explains Mexico's reluctance to intervene in Cuba, although it has declared international communism incompatible with free democratic institutions.

But Mexico has matured politically and its constitutional reforms given lands to previously landless peasants and spread national wealth among a growing middle class, it also has found it less necessary than some Latin American governments to exploit anti-U.S. sentiments.

Memories of U.S. occupation of Vera Cruz and the years of hard feelings which followed Mexican expropriation of U.S. and British oil companies now largely are only memories in a new period of friendly relations.

Mexico is far ahead of most other Latin American nations in her agricultural, educational and tax reforms.

Large-scale irrigation is opening up virgin lands in northern and central Mexico. A half million dollars a day goes into public education.

Since the start of the Alliance for Progress, the United States has extended more than $300 million to Mexico in direct loans and credits.

The fact that a single party has been able to dominate Mexican politicis for so many years in no sense establishes it as a basis of dictatorship.

There is no oppression of opposition parties. They simply have not been able to dent the popularity of the PRI which draws support from all sectors of society, economic, agricultural and labor. In the elections of 1961, the pro-Communist and pro - Castro Popular Socialist party was able to muster only about 25,000 votes out of 6.5 million.

Federal Control Of Gas Blasted By Spokesman

CHICAGO (AP) — The president of the American Petroleum Institute said today nine years of federal effort to control wellhead prices of natural gas have created a chaotic situation.

Frank N. Ikard, New York City, said there is a 'decided need for legislation 'to clarify such price-fixing authority but some federal agencies apparently want to expand the controls to include crude oil.

"The drums may be starting to beat for extension of federal controls over crude," he said. "Listen closely to the words of certain recent reports by government agencies."

Ikard, a former Texas congressman, made his observations in a report on his first year as head of the nation's largest oil and gas trade association. The report was placed before the opening session of the institute's 43rd annual meeting.

About 6,000 indpendent and major producers, refiners, marketers, and pipeliners are attending the three-day meeting.

Ikard's report did not mention any specific federal agency as advocating crude price controls but recent speeches by the industry's top spokesman have been critical of findings made by President Kennedy's Inter-Agency Petroleum Study Committee.

EDUCATIONAL FIRSTS

BOSTON (UPI) — The state of Massachusetts can claim a number of "firsts" in education. The first American grammar school was established in Boston in 1635, the first public high school was opened here in 1821 and the first compulsory school attendance law was enacted by Massachusetts in 1852, according to the Encyclopedia Americana.

California has 72 public junior colleges, serving an enrollment of approximately 430,000.

U.S.-Mexico Relations at High Point

By PHI LNEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Despite occasional differences over the treatment to be accorded Castro Cuba, United States-Mexico relations are at their highest point in years. The signs are that they are to improve still more.

The forecasts are based on the man who has been selected by the dominant Institutional Revolutionary party (PRI) to succeed Adolfo Lopez Mateos as president of Mexico in December, 1964.

He is Gustavo Diaz Ordaz, minister of the interior in the Lopez Mateos government. And since the PRI has not lost an election in more than 30 years, his election is considered assured.

As interior minister since 1958, Diaz Ordaz has cooperated closely with the United States so much so that Communists and Castroites have attacked him as "pro-Yanqui" and a leader of reactionary forces.

Mexico's refusal to go along with U.S. demands for a total break with Cuba, including an economic blockade, is well known.

Less well known is the firm crackdown on Communists and Communist agitation that has been carried out within Mexico under Diaz Ordaz's direction.

While most passengers traveling to Cuba simply use Mexico as a way-point, all have been closely checked for years. Their photographs are taken and their passports stamped.

Tons of Communist propaganda carried out of Cuba have been confiscated at the Mexico City airport.

The Mexican revolution dates from 1911 and Mexican political leaders still insist that theirs is a revolutionary state.

This in part explains Mexico's reluctance to intervene in Cuba, although it has declared international communism incompatible with free democratic institutions.

But Mexico has matured politically and its constitutional reforms given lands to previously landless peasants and spread national wealth among a growing middle class, it also has found it less necessary than some Latin American governments to exploit anti-U.S. sentiments.

Memories of U.S. occupation of Vera Cruz and the years of hard feelings which followed Mexican expropriation of U.S. and British oil companies now largely are only memories in a new period of friendly relations.

Mexico is far ahead of most other Latin American nations in her agricultural, educational and tax reforms.

Large-scale irrigation is opening up virgin lands in northern and central Mexico. A half million dollars a day goes into public education.

Since the start of the Alliance for Progress, the United States has extended more than $300 million to Mexico in direct loans and credits.

The fact that a single party has been able to dominate Mexican politicis for so many years in no sense establishes it as a basis of dictatorship.

There is no oppression of opposition parties. They simply have not been able to dent the popularity of the PRI which draws support from all sectors of society, economic, agricultural and labor. In the elections of 1961, the pro-Communist and pro - Castro Popular Socialist party was able to muster only about 25,000 votes out of 6.5 million.

Federal Control Of Gas Blasted By Spokesman

CHICAGO (AP) — The president of the American Petroleum Institute said today nine years of federal effort to control wellhead prices of natural gas have created a chaotic situation.

Frank N. Ikard, New York City, said there is a 'decided need for legislation 'to clarify such price-fixing authority but some federal agencies apparently want to expand the controls to include crude oil.

"The drums may be starting to beat for extension of federal controls over crude," he said. "Listen closely to the words of certain recent reports by government agencies."

Ikard, a former Texas congressman, made his observations in a report on his first year as head of the nation's largest oil and gas trade association. The report was placed before the opening session of the institute's 43rd annual meeting.

About 6,000 indpendent and major producers, refiners, marketers, and pipeliners are attending the three-day meeting.

Ikard's report did not mention any specific federal agency as advocating crude price controls but recent speeches by the industry's top spokesman have been critical of findings made by President Kennedy's Inter-Agency Petroleum Study Committee.

EDUCATIONAL FIRSTS

BOSTON (UPI) — The state of Massachusetts can claim a number of "firsts" in education. The first American grammar school was established in Boston in 1635, the first public high school was opened here in 1821 and the first compulsory school attendance law was enacted by Massachusetts in 1852, according to the Encyclopedia Americana.

California has 72 public junior colleges, serving an enrollment of approximately 430,000.

Christian Democrats with new ammunition for their campaign against a coalition with the Socialists.

Moro, 47, a law professor, agreed Monday night to try to form a new government, accepting the charge from President Antonio Segni. Premier Giovanni Leone's minority Christian Democrat government resigned a week ago.

Moro had appointments today for his first talks with the leaders of the Marxist Socialist, Democratic Socialist and Republican parties. He promised to try to form a coalition with these parties and his Christian Democrats.

He said such a government would be firmly tied to NATO and would seek to bring Italy out of a period of economic difficulty. He clearly drew the line against communism.

Almost 40 per cent of the Marxist Socialists, however, adhere to a pro-Communist faction that supported today's strike.

At least 10 per cent of the Christian Democrats oppose center-left government, largely because they suspect the Socialists. Perhaps half the party is only lukewarm to the idea.

The Communists said real leftist government was possible only if they participated. Their party central committee talked of mass action to bring about a "true leftist" government.

The political crisis could go on for weeks. Moro still must work out an agreement with party leaders on a program and a division of Cabinet seats.

Mom Bitter About Surgery For Cancer-Stricken Girl

be attached from a strap around the waist.

Mrs. Simko never consented to the operation. Doctors said they believe she feared Christine would one day blame her for the loss of the leg.

The girl was a ward of juvenile court. She had run away from home several times and presented a behavior problem. The mother, who is on state aid-to-dependent relief, does not work. When doctors couldn't get permission from Mrs. Simko, they asked juvenile court last week to allow the operation. Judge Walter G. Whitlach gave permission.

Because "everyone kept bugging me about the operation," the frightened Christine ran away from the hospital in her bedroom gown last Tuesday night. She was found across town in her East Cleveland home the next morning.

Christine returned to the hospital, saying she was ready to face her fate. But Mrs. Simko still blamed the court, the doctors, social workers and everyone connected with her daughter's case.

"Oh, why did everyone keep the facts from her and from me?" Mrs. Simko asked. "They said she always ran away and got into trouble. The doctors operated on her leg so she won't be able to run anymore. They'll always know where to find her—she'll always be in a chair."

During the past week, mail from well-wishers has poured into the hospital from almost every state and some foreign countries. "I know Christine will feel better when she reads the letters," Mrs. Simko said.

Mrs. Simko is a divorcee. Christine's father disappeared six years ago.

The blonde woman from Leicester, England, married an American GI. She came to America and had two children, a son who now is 15 and Christine.

The head surgeon spoke to newsmen an hour after the operation. He declined use of his name.

"We first explored the possibility of removing the tumor without amputation, but when it was evident that there was no chance to save both the leg and the girl's life, we had to resort to the radical surgery," he explained.

"The publicity of the past week proved to be a shock to her," the doctor said of Christine. "However, she is an amazingly adaptable young lady. She wants to go on living. She knows she couldn't live without the operation."

Car Antenna Used as Weapon In Fight

A case of malicious mischief was reported to the sheriff's office this morning by Gary Bartlett of the Old Corral night club.

Deputy Sheriffs Bob Walters and Barry said a fight broke out in the parking lot at the club. One of the men grabbed the antenna off a car parked in the lot and started swinging.

By the time the deputies arrived the fight had broken up and everyone had left. The owner of the car, Lelong Parker of Ft. Carson, said the damage amounted to $12.

Deputy Sheriff Ray Carey said the car was locked and that Atchley believed the person was trying to steal the tools in the back of the vehicle.

He also said this has happened before and on the previous occasion tools worth $100 were taken.

thereby to become a candidate."

Eisenhower said that if a deadlock developed at the Republican convention, Nixon would be "one of the likely persons" to be considered for the nomination because he is "a very knowledgable and a very courageous type of person."

"Deadlocks are a thing of the past," said Nixon, who lost the 1960 election to President Kennedy.

Asked about a "draft-Nixon" movement started in Los Angeles during the weekend, Nixon said Los Angeles is "likely to start almost any kind of movement." He said such a move had neither his knowledge nor approval.

Nixon said Goldwater is "obviously in the lead today" in New Hampshire, where Rockefeller has already started campaigning.

Nixon was asked if Rockefeller could stay in the nomination race if swamped in New Hampshire.

He replied: "Well, it would be very hard for Sen. Goldwater to be stopped, and very hard for Gov. Rockefeller to get going again. But it has been done before."

Western Radio Heard Clearly In Soviet Union

Soviet Union. They are so powerful that they sometimes bounce off the earth's surface, hit the ionosphere again, and come down a second time over Siberia.

Soivet countermeasures include several hundred ground jamming transmitters that send out a blanket signal totally effective over an area of seven kilometers — 4.3 miles. They usually are situated in and around heavily populated areas.

Also employed are skywave jammers — transmitters that bounce their signals off the ionosphere to come down over cities. They are mostly located beyond the Ural Mountains, several hundred miles from their target areas.

Western officials here say they are mystified by the sudden decision last June to cease jamming the Voice of America and BBC. Some have speculated that it was an economy measure. Others attribute the move to the relative thaw in East-West relations.

Highly placed Soviet officials claimed they decided to ease the jamming because Western stations had toned down their anti-Soviet attacks.

Western officials note that both the Voice of America and BBC had indeed eliminated from their Russian - language programs much material objected to by the Kremlin—but that was 2½ years ago.

There was some speculation last summer that the Russians would aim their jamming at Peking's anti - Soviet blasts in Russian. But Peking has come through unhindered, despite erroneous reports that the Russians were jamming its signals.

Fast and Loose Spending Charged Against Kennedy

because it is labeled 'secret.' But millions of dollars were granted to this country to cover, and this is the official justification, 'deficit in national budget to avoid serious political disturbances which would result from the government's inability to meet its immediate expenses.' In other words, American taxpayers' money was used, without congressional authorization to review, to subsidize governmental mismanagement in a foreign country."

Seventeen million dollars was made available to our staunch friend and ally,' President Sukarno of Indonesia, for the same purpose; namely to mitigate serious internal financial and balance-of-payments problems. About the same time these U.S. funds became available to him Sukarno bought some jet aircraft from Russia. By a strange coincidence those planes cost approximately $17 million."

"From those contingency funds, a grant of $2.7 million also was given him to equip and train a special unit of the Indonesian national police force to deal with civil disturbances I can only wonder where this special civil disturbance unit was when Indonesian mobs wrecked and burned the British embassy not long ago."

"25.5 million of these contingency funds was allotted to Brazil to aid her balance-of-payments problem. And $20 million was given to Argentina for the same purpose. I respectfully suggest to our administration that it can find balance-of-payments problems urgently in need of solution much closer at home."

"Several millions of dollars of these funds were given to the islands of Trinidad-Tobago. If they can be called undevelolped, then some of our Western European allies would also qualify in that category. Yet these islands have received substantial quantities of American aid ever since Great Britain saw fit to cut them loose to fend for themselves. It seems strange that whenever the British leave their former possessions and stop giving them aid, good old Uncle Sam walks in and takes over."

Senator Morse assailed contingency funds as a blank check and contended they should be cut to the bone.

"Every year during consideration of this question," he said, "we hear a great deal about the necessity of a large contingency fund for the President to use for purposes that are unforseen when the foreign aid bill is under consideration. But when a true emergency developes, the President comes to Congress and gets whatever he needs almost overnight.

"All the talk about the need for a huge contingency fund does not stem from an argument of need; it stems from an argument of convenience. Only a few thousand dollars have been used from the contingency fund for emergency public safety and for relief from natural disaster. Much of the rest in Latin America has gone for purpose that are emergencies only in the sense that the recipients have procrastinated and postponed the day of economic reckoning for so long that their economic condition became precarius.

"So they were bailed out (by the administration) with contingency funds."

Ellender also pointed out that there are "many gimmicks and gadgets in this bill which make available to the President hundreds of millions of dollars over and above the amount we authorize." As listed by the Louisianan they are:

Section 510, under which the President "may withdraw from the Department of Defense up to $300 million worth of military stocks for purposes of military assistance to be used as he sees fit."

Section 610, that permits the President to "transfer 10 per cent of the funds made available for any provision of this bill and consolidate it with funds for other purpses in this Act."

Section 614, gives the President "special authority to use up to $250 million and $100 million of foreign currencies (counterpart funds) for any purpose he deems appropriate. The only limitation placed on him under this section is that not more than $50 million can be spent in any one country in a fiscal year."

"Today there is in the foreign aid pipeline approximately $6.5 billion," said Ellender, "a considerable part of which can be used by the President as he sees fit. If we add the amount in this bill to the amount in the pipeline, it means that the administrators of the foreign aid program will have available approximately $10.3 billion, and the President will have the authority, under the sections I have cited, to transfer a considerable portion of this immense sum as he sees fit."

Soviets Arrest Yale Prof on Spying Charge

tourists accused of espionage, a camera might have gotten Barghoorn in trouble. The usual charge is photographing military installations, and in the Soviet Union that can mean almost anything, such as a bridge.

Barghoorn is a resident of New Haven, Conn. He is a brother of Prof. Elso Sterrenberg Barghoorn, a Harvard botanist.

He is professor in the Political Science Department at Yale.

He was on the staff of the American Embassy in Moscow from 1942 to 1947, with the State Department in Germany from 1949 to 1951, an has been a lecturer at several universities.

The arrest of Barghoorn was the first Soviet spy charge involving an American since the signing last July of the limited treaty on banning nuclear tests.

The signing was followed by an easing of international tensions—and the release of two Americans imprisoned in the Soviet Union.

(In Washington the State Department said it had no report on Barghoorn from the embassy in Moscow.

(There was no formal comment immediately but one official expressed some surprise that Barghoorn had obtained a Soviet visa in view of his critical assessments of that country.)

(In New Haven, Conn., his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Barghoorn, said the professor always was careful on trips behind the Iron Curtain and never carried a camera.

("They have it in for him on account of his books," she said. "The books have been very critical."

(She also thought it possible his arrest was retaliation for arrests of Russians in the United States.)

ville L. Freeman, Undersecretary Charles S. Murphy and other top Agriculture Department officials have sworn Estes never got a dime out of their agency through political influence.

They acknowledged they had made errors in their own investigations of what Estes was doing, however.

N. Battle Hales, an Agriculture Department employe, swore that he believed Estes got favored treatment.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., and several other Congress members questioned, among other things, why top department officials overroad subordinates' warnings and appointed Estes to the National Cotton Advisory Committee, which gave him entry and a good listening post in the agency. Freeman testified "it was a mistake."

Five Thefts Reported To Sheriff

Five cases of theft were reported to the sheriff's department Monday.

Reva McPherson of 923 Cheyenne Blvd., told undersheriff Doyle McCammon that three cashmere sweaters worth $30 each had been taken from the front porch of her home.

The porch is glassed in and there was no sign of forced entry. The sweaters are described as blue, pink and a light green. All of them carry the Bernard Altman brand-name.

The second incident happened at the Manor Nursing Home. Pete Anderson, an employee at the home reported three shirts were stolen from his car which was parked in front of the building.

Bob D. Quinalty of the WW Trailer Court reported the third occurrence. According to Deputy Sheriffs Bob Walters and Franklin D. Ripley, Quinalty parked his car at the rear of the Ivywild Inn Monday night. When he returned he noticed two of his hubcaps had been stolen.

They are the three bar, lancer type, marked W9557 and worth $10 each.

The fourth theft was reported by Fred Ager of the Ager Construction Co. who told Deputy Sheriff Bob Snuggs that a flashing warning barricade had been taken from a construction site at Templeton Gap Road and Fillmore Street.

The light is mounted in on a car wheel, is painted yellow and flashes yellow. The value is unknown.

Mom Bitter About Surgery For Cancer-Stricken Girl

be attached from a strap around the waist.

Mrs. Simko never consented to the operation. Doctors said they believe she feared Christine would one day blame her for the loss of the leg.

The girl was a ward of juvenile court. She had run away from home several times and presented a behavior problem. The mother, who is on state aid-to-dependent relief, does not work. When doctors couldn't get permission from Mrs. Simko, they asked juvenile court last week to allow the operation. Judge Walter G. Whitlach gave permission.

Because "everyone kept bugging me about the operation," the frightened Christine ran away from the hospital in her bedroom gown last Tuesday night. She was found across town in her East Cleveland home the next morning.

Christine returned to the hospital, saying she was ready to face her fate. But Mrs. Simko still blamed the court, the doctors, social workers and everyone connected with her daughter's case.

"Oh, why did everyone keep the facts from her and from me?" Mrs. Simko asked. "They said she always ran away and got into trouble. The doctors operated on her leg so she won't be able to run anymore. They'll always know where to find her—she'll always be in a chair."

During the past week, mail from well-wishers has poured into the hospital from almost every state and some foreign countries. "I know Christine will feel better when she reads the letters," Mrs. Simko said.

Mrs. Simko is a divorcee. Christine's father disappeared six years ago.

The blonde woman from Leicester, England, married an American GI. She came to America and had two children, a son who now is 15 and Christine.

The head surgeon spoke to newsmen an hour after the operation. He declined use of his name.

"We first explored the possibility of removing the tumor without amputation, but when it was evident that there was no chance to save both the leg and the girl's life, we had to resort to the radical surgery," he explained.

"The publicity of the past week proved to be a shock to her," the doctor said of Christine. "However, she is an amazingly adaptable young lady. She wants to go on living. She knows she couldn't live without the operation."

Car Antenna Used as Weapon In Fight

A case of malicious mischief was reported to the sheriff's office this morning by Gary Bartlett of the Old Corral night club.

Deputy Sheriffs Bob Walters and Barry said a fight broke out in the parking lot at the club. One of the men grabbed the antenna off a car parked in the lot and started swinging.

By the time the deputies arrived the fight had broken up and everyone had left. The owner of the car, Lelong Parker of Ft. Carson, said the damage amounted to $12.

Break-in Attempt Damages Car Monday

Deryl Atchley of 420 E. Brookside St. reported to the sheriff's office this morning that someone made an unsuccessful attempt to break into his car Monday night, and burst the vent on the passenger's side.

Deputy Sheriff Ray Carey said the car was locked and that Atchley believed the person was trying to steal the tools in the back of the vehicle.

He also said this has happened before and on the previous occasion tools worth $100 were taken.

thereby to become a candidate."

Eisenhower said that if a deadlock developed at the Republican convention, Nixon would be "one of the likely persons" to be considered for the nomination because he is "a very knowledgable and a very courageous type of person."

"Deadlocks are a thing of the past," said Nixon, who lost the 1960 election to President Kennedy.

Asked about a "draft-Nixon" movement started in Los Angeles during the weekend, Nixon said Los Angeles is "likely to start almost any kind of movement." He said such a move had neither his knowledge nor approval.

Nixon said Goldwater is "obviously in the lead today" in New Hampshire, where Rockefeller has already started campaigning.

Nixon was asked if Rockefeller could stay in the nomination race if swamped in New Hampshire.

He replied: "Well, it would be very hard for Sen. Goldwater to be stopped, and very hard for Gov. Rockefeller to get going again. But it has been done before."

Western Radio Heard Clearly In Soviet Union

Soviet Union. They are so powerful that they sometimes bounce off the earth's surface, hit the ionosphere again, and come down a second time over Siberia.

Soivet countermeasures include several hundred ground jamming transmitters that send out a blanket signal totally effective over an area of seven kilometers — 4.3 miles. They usually are situated in and around heavily populated areas.

Also employed are skywave jammers — transmitters that bounce their signals off the ionosphere to come down over cities. They are mostly located beyond the Ural Mountains, several hundred miles from their target areas.

Western officials here say they are mystified by the sudden decision last June to cease jamming the Voice of America and BBC. Some have speculated that it was an economy measure. Others attribute the move to the relative thaw in East-West relations.

Highly placed Soviet officials claimed they decided to ease the jamming because Western stations had toned down their anti-Soviet attacks.

Western officials note that both the Voice of America and BBC had indeed eliminated from their Russian - language programs much material objected to by the Kremlin—but that was 2½ years ago.

There was some speculation last summer that the Russians would aim their jamming at Peking's anti - Soviet blasts in Russian. But Peking has come through unhindered, despite erroneous reports that the Russians were jamming its signals.

because it is labeled 'secret.' But millions of dollars were granted to this country to cover, and this is the official justification: 'deficit in national budget to avoid serious political disturbances which would result from the government's inability to meet its immediate expenses.' In other words, American taxpayers' money was used, without congressional authorization to review, to subsidize governmental mismanagement in a foreign country."

Seventeen million dollars was made available to our staunch friend and ally,' President Sukarno of Indonesia, for the same purpose: namely to mitigate serious internal financial and balance-of-payments problems. About the same time these U.S. funds became available to him Sukarno bought some jet aircraft from Russia. By a strange coincidence those planes cost approximately $17 million."

"From those contingency funds, a grant of $2.7 million also was given him to equip and train a special unit of the Indonesian national police force to deal with civil disturbances. I can only wonder where this special civil disturbance unit was when Indonesian mobs wrecked and burned the British embassy not long ago."

"25.5 million of these contingency funds was allotted to Brazil to aid her balance-of-payments problem. And $20 million was given to Argentina for the same purpose. I respectfully suggest to our administration that it can find balance-of-payments problems urgently in need of solution much closer at home."

"Several millions of dollars of these funds were given to the islands of Trinidad-Tobago. If they can be called undevelolped, then some of our Western European allies would also qualify in that category. Yet these islands have received substantial quantities of American aid ever since Great Britain saw fit to cut them loose to fend for themselves. It seems strange that whenever the British leave their former possessions and stop giving them aid, good old Uncle Sam walks in and takes over."

Senator Morse assailed contingency funds as a blank check and contended they should be cut to the bone.

"Every year during consideration of this question," he said, "we hear a great deal about the necessity of a large contingency fund for the President to use for purposes that are unforseen when the foreign aid bill is under consideration. But when a true emergency developes, the President comes to Congress and gets whatever he needs almost overnight.

"All the talk about the need for a huge contingency fund does not stem from an argument of need; it stems from an argument of convenience. Only a few thousand dollars have been used from the contingency fund for emergency public safety and for relief from natural disaster. Much of the rest in Latin America has gone for purpose that are emergencies only in the sense that the recipients have procrastinated and postponed the day of economic reckoning for so long that their economic condition became precarious.

"So they were bailed out (by the administration) with contingency funds."

Ellender also pointed out that there are "many gimmicks and gadgets in this bill which make available to the President hundreds of millions of dollars over and above the amount we authorize." As listed by the Louisianan they are:

Section 510, under which the President "may withdraw from the Department of Defense up to $300 million worth of military stocks for purposes of military assistance to be used as he sees fit."

Section 610, that permits the President to "transfer 10 per cent of the funds made available for any provision of this bill and consolidate it with funds for other purpses in this Act."

Section 614, gives the President "special authority to use up to $250 million and $100 million of foreign currencies (counterpart funds) for any purpose he deems appropriate. The only limitation placed on him under this section is that not more than $50 million can be spent in any one country in a fiscal year."

"Today there is in the foreign aid pipeline approximately $6.5 billion," said Ellender, "a considerable part of which can be used by the President as he sees fit. If we add the amount in this bill to the amount in the pipeline, it means that the administrators of the foreign aid program will have available approximately $10.3 billion, and the President will have the authority, under the sections I have cited, to transfer a considerable portion of this immense sum as he sees fit."

Soviets Arrest Yale Prof on Spying Charge

tourists accused of espionage, a camera might have gotten Barghoorn in trouble. The usual charge is photographing military installations, and in the Soviet Union that can mean almost anything, such as a bridge.

Barghoorn is a resident of New Haven, Conn. He is a brother of Prof. Elso Sterrenberg Barghoorn, a Harvard botanist.

He is professor in the Political Science Department at Yale.

He was on the staff of the American Embassy in Moscow from 1942 to 1947, with the State Department in Germany from 1949 to 1951, an has been a lecturer at several universities.

The arrest of Barghoorn was the first Soviet spy charge involving an American since the signing last July of the limited treaty on banning nuclear tests.

The signing was followed by an easing of international tensions—and the release of two Americans imprisoned in the Soviet Union.

(In Washington the State Department said it had no report on Barghoorn from the embassy in Moscow.

(There was no formal comment immediately but one official expressed some surprise that Barghoorn had obtained a Soviet visa in view of his critical assessments of that country.)

(In New Haven, Conn., his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Barghoorn, said the professor always was careful on trips behind the Iron Curtain and never carried a camera.

("They have it in for him on account of his books," she said. "The books have been very critical."

(She also thought it possible his arrest was retaliation for arrests of Russians in the United States.)

ville L. Freeman, Undersecretary Charles S. Murphy and other top Agriculture Department officials have sworn Estes never got a dime out of their agency through political influence.

They acknowledged they had made errors in their own investigations of what Estes was doing, however.

N. Battle Hales, an Agriculture Department employe, swore that he believed Estes got favored treatment.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., and several other Congress members questioned, among other things, why top department officials overroad subordinates' warnings and appointed Estes to the National Cotton Advisory Committee, which gave him entry and a good listening post in the agency. Freeman testified "it was a mistake."

Five Thefts Reported To Sheriff

Five cases of theft were reported to the sheriff's department Monday.

Reva McPherson of 923 Cheyenne Blvd., told undersheriff Doyle McCammon that three cashmere sweaters worth $30 each had been taken from the front porch of her home.

The porch is glassed in and there was no sign of forced entry. The sweaters are described as blue, pink and a light green. All of them carry the Bernard Altman brand-name.

The second incident happened at the Manor Nursing Home. Pete Anderson, an employee at the home reported three shirts were stolen from his car which was parked in front of the building.

Bob D. Quinalty of the WW Trailer Court reported the third occurrence. According to Deputy Sheriffs Bob Walters and Franklin D. Ripley, Quinalty parked his car at the rear of the Ivywild Inn Monday night. When he returned he noticed two of his hubcaps had been stolen.

They are the three bar, lancer type, marked W9557 and worth $10 each.

The fourth theft was reported by Fred Ager of the Ager Construction Co. who told Deputy Sheriff Bob Snuggs that a flashing warning barricade had been taken from a construction site at Templeton Gap Road and Fillmore Street.

The light is mounted in on a car wheel, is painted yellow and flashes yellow. The value is unknown.

GAZETTE TELEGRAPH

Your Freedom Newspaper

Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Human Rights

We know of no task more difficult, and few more important, than the task relative to the finding of a satisfactory definition for human rights.

Every time we feel that we have finally gotten out feet on bed rock in this area, someone comes forward to indicate that somehow we have not managed to convey what we intended. Or possibly we conveyed what we intended, all right, but failed to reach a definitive position thru some oversight.

Our own Declaration of Independence gives us the base for our position. But there are large areas of confusion even insofar as this basic document is concerned.

When we begin by asking someone to tell us what a human right is, the normal reaction is for that person to say: "Well, it is something that all men have in common." But that tells us nothing at all. All men have many things in common.

All men have two arms and two legs (unless deformed or crippled). Every man has one head, a heart, a spleen and a liver. Are all these things rights? Obviously, this is not meant at all.

But certainly what is meant is that there is something implicit in the concept of rights which separates that something from a definition that would include the idea of privilege.

So let us begin by recognizing that a human right is not the same thing as a human privilege. Let us also recognize that a human right is a kind of relationship. . .a concept which falls somehow into the moral realm and which tells us what a man may and may not rightfully do.

A right is not a physical thing. It is not a head, a heart or a wishbone. A human right is a relationship involving human beings. And to capture the universality intended by this usage of the word, it is incumbent to explain that human rights are equally shared by every human being on earth.

Thus, a right has nothing whatever to do with the condition of the man. He may be young or old, rich or poor, unknown or famous. Also, he may belong to any race or creed, have any color of skin, be a taxpayer in any country, belong to scores of organizations or belong to none. In each case, his rights are precisely the same as the rights of any other person.

Thus, for a concept of human rights to exist and to be generally believed, we must establish at the outset that rights have nothing whatever to do with a man's background, his circumstances or even his behavior.

One man may be wise and another man foolish. Both have equal rights.

One man may make few if any errors; another may make many errors and cause all kinds of problems. Both have equal rights.

One man may be at the prime of life, able to enforce his will on others by dint of his own muscles, or his own position in life. Another may be a child, unable to enforce his will on anyone, possibly even the victim of elders who are stronger than he. Yet, all have equal rights.

This is a difficult concept to grasp for most of us are quite accustomed to imagine that rights cannot have existence unless they can be enforced. But this is not the case. To imagine that rights arise only from the concept of enforcement is to say that only the strong have rights and the weak may be rightfully ruled or exploited by the strong. This would destroy the only valid usefulness there is in the idea of equal rights.

The concept of rights becomes meaningful only in relation to what ought to be. It is obviously true that almost anyone at any time can conduct himself in such a way that he disregards the rights of others. The point is that while he is physically capable of such disregard, he may not RIGHTFULLY disregard the rights of others.

Stifled

Progress has been the product of intense effort at all levels of enterprise. If effort ceases, business and industry will cease. If the desire to make effort is stifled by the governmental removal of initiative, the lights of the nation will begin to go out, one by one.

Rights and Privileges

In the foregoing we have tried to develop the universality of human rights. But this is only one factor that is implied when we speak of human rights. Another, already alluded to, is the difference between a right and a privilege.

What is a privilege? It is a special relationship which is NOT universal.

Men create privileges for themselves and for each other. Governments deal almost entirely in privileges. The concept is useful but it must be recognized as being entirely different from a concept of human rights.

A privilege is a special prerogative to do or not to do a certain thing.

You will extend to certain intimate friends the privilege of calling on you at any hour, even of walking into your home unannounced. If someone not your friend were to do this, you would experience a sense of outrage. You have not granted privileges to everyone. And if everyone assumed to have the privilege, you would feel imposed upon and out of sorts.

Government says that certain persons may vote. It also says that certain other persons may not vote. In this sense, voting is a political privilege. We are prone, in this country, to refer to voting as a right. But if it were a right, it would be universal and government could not rightfully remove it.

In point of fact, government grants the privilege to some and withholds it from others depending on their age, their lack of a criminal record, and so on. This may be one reason we confuse rights with privileges.

A particular firm may grant to one of its salesmen the "exclusive franchise" to deal in a certain area with a certain product. This franchise is a privilege.

All privileges are subject to being withdrawn by the grantor. Rights may not be withdrawn. Privileges are specific acts dealing with specific circumstances relating to specific performance. A right goes beyond a privilege, for all men have rights tho many men may have no privileges at all.

We suspect that many people confuse these things imagining that a right is merely a privilege with an enlarged area of application.

To make certain that we are not confused in this area, we must examine the source from whence privileges and rights arise. The Declaration proclaims in bold terms that rights are the endowment of the Creator; in short, that every man has the same rights which come from the very source from whence man springs. Rights then are co-existent with man. They come into being with man and they endure with him.

Privileges, on the contrary, are never equal. Nor are they co-existent with men. Privileges cannot be equal. If privileges become equal, they are no longer privileges. The only merit to the concept of privilege is that some men may do or may refuse to do something that all other men may not do or, conversely, are compelled to do. The privileged status is the unique and separate status which some may achieve but others may not.

A right is a natural endowment proceeding from the source of all life and being equated with life itself. A right is thus seen to be universal whereas a privilege is unique and separate.

Privileges are usually viewed as a special advantage to some that others may not (rightfully) share. A right is a general advantage which may not (rightfully) be removed from any.

We talk a good deal these days, not only of voting rights (which are really political privileges) but of "states' rights." The usage is in error. States have no rights. States are the creations of men and men may not endow their creations with rights. States are instruments of privilege and not of rights.

What is meant, of course, is that the states are supposed to have certain powers which the federal government is not supposed to have. But this is a far cry from a "right" and should not be confused with it.

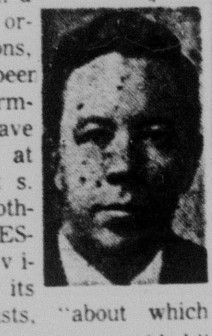
New Light on UNESCO

By THURMAN SENSING

Time and again, when concerned Americans have voiced doubt as to the propriety of UNESCO and associated organizations, they have been dubbed alarmists who have not looked at the facts. "There's nothing in UNESCO's activities," say its U.S. apologists, "about which good citizens need be troubled."



Well, these apologists, if they are sincere in their complacency, should take a look at an article "The Cold War in the Classroom" published in the June, 1963, issues of War-Peace Report. This slick magazine, published in the United States, provides a forum for the disarmers and so - called peace workers. The author of the article in question is Mrs. Elise Boulding, a research associate at the Center for Research on Conflict Resolution.

Mrs. Boulding's thesis is that American children have long been taught a stereotype of the "enemy." She tells how some teachers are seeking ways and means to present a radically different view of America's cold war enemy. Her hymn of praise is for UNESCO and its programs. The reason Mrs. Boulding likes UNESCO is she believes it will help get rid of the stereotypes of which she disapproves. "A few beginning efforts have been made," she wrote, "to give students a more universal view of the world. This was one of the hopes of UNESCO at its founding in 1950."

Highly revealing is Mrs. Boulding's account of a "World Forum of Women" held in Brussels, Belgium, last November, to discuss "The Education of Children and Youth in the Spirit of Friendship and Understanding Among Peoples." Nice sounding, isn't? it Ninety women were present, including representatives from the Soviet Union, Yugoslavia, Hungary, Bulgaria, Romania, and other Iron Curtain countries. "This was a conference of educators," she said, "concerned with the practical aspects of preparing children to live in a world in which armed might would be replaced by a subtler and more complex means of resolving differences." Imagine making a statement of that sort about a conference where communist countries were heavily represented!

In describing the work of the conference, Mrs. Boulding deplored the representation of the Soviet Union in U.S. text books. She said one text teaches:

"In the Soviet Union, a few persons in the Communist Party, not elected by the people, have most of the power." She added this comment:

"Without information to the contrary (which they are not likely to see) American schoolchildren grow up believing that the Soviet people are ruled capriciously by a few power-mad men." One wonders how Mrs. Boulding explains away the examples of Dictators Stalin and Khrushchev, the bloody purges and rocket-rattling.

Particularly interesting is her account of something called the Liaison Bureau, which she said "is undertaking the organization of national commissions on children's books until such time as UNESCO will be able to add this to its roster of projects." The aim of this bureau, in her words, is "to make it possible for children around the world to read the same books in their separate countries." This, she says, "will help them find their international identity in tomorrow's world."

Note this! Mrs. Boulding is not proposing that the Russian children read books that expound the value of freedom. She is proposing that Soviet and U.S. children read the same books, which is a very different thing.

It is deeply tragic that, after more than 40 years of communist deceit and tyranny, some Americans still refuse to realize that every instance of Soviet "co-operation" with the West is an effort by the Reds to subvert freedom. The whole massive record of communist activity proves that any joint book project with the Russians would end up as an attempt to brainwash U.S. school children.

Question Box

QUESTION No. 364: "Why do you think California's Governor Edmund Brown told about 1000 members of the AF of L-CIO Council On Political Education that increased productivity thru automation is contributing to unemployment?"

Answer: Mostly because he wants votes. He wants to flatter and misguide the vested interests in labor unions. Automation is just a better use of machinery and more efficient machines. If we didn't have any machines there would be a great deal less employment than there is today because there would be fewer people living. Of course, everyone would be working for himself and very few people would survive and their lives would be short.

It is hard to believe that Gov. Brown is so naive or stupid that he does not understand that more efficient machines are the only way that we can increase total production, total employment, and total wages and profits.

Employment is paid for by production. The more production the more and better automation we can have, and the more we will produce. Thus, every working man will be better off.

It would seem to us that Brown is either a typical hypocrite who cares about nothing but power for himself, or an economic illiterate. If his philosophy of more and more collectivism, bigger and bigger government and more and more powerful labor unions which deprive individuals of their inalienable rights to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness were put into practice we would be in very bad shape. It is too bad that we have this kind of miseducation. The UPI article refers to "political education" and it certainly is "political education" which is not education at all but propaganda to get votes and to keep power.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that affect the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

New 'Fairness' Doctrine

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The Manion Forum of South Bend, Indiana, which specializes in giving voice to good conservatives on its radio and TV programs, is very much worried about the new "fairness" doctrine being emphasized in a recent ruling of the Federal Communications Commission. The doctrine, so Mr. L. F. Reardon, a vice president of the Manion Forum, fears, will be invoked to badger all sorts of right-wingers and keep them from telling their side of the story in their broadcasts.

Well, it's taken long enough for the conservative movement in the United States to make a comeback after the ideological debacle of the 1930's, and one can see why conservatives should have gotten into the habit of looking apprehensively over their shoulders.

But just how much does the FCC "fairness" rule menace conservative broadcasters? Cannot some swift and effective counter remedy be found?

The new "doctrine," as Dean Manion's vice president Reardon puts it, "attempts to enforce an unlawful rule that equal time be given to those who oppose any point of view expressed over radio or TV. This rule, in practice, has been applied only to conservatives. . . left-wing extremists of every ilk are clamoring to 'answer' our program."

Everything that Mr. Reardon says may be true insofar as it applies to his own predicament. But if the conservatives limit themselves to the defensive in this matter of protesting the "fairness" directive, which was issued on July 26, they are bound to lose the fight.

THREE TO ONE

It seems to this columnist, who listens sporadically to both TV and radio political programs, that for every conservative on the air, there are at least three "liberals," to use the word in its contemporary sense. Now, obviously, if the "fairness" criterion is to be applied with any fairness by the FCC commissioners, this means that conservatives would have the opportunity to cash in on a ratio that is 3-to-1 in their favor.

What they should do to combat any adverse application of the "equal time" policy is to organize a domestic monitoring service comparable to the one maintained by Radio Liberty for keeping tabs on what is being said on the air inside Russia. Every time a conservative individual or organization is mentioned in a derogatory way by a liberal commentator, the monitoring organization could tip somebody to complain loudly and at length. The demand for "equal time" would absolutely swamp the "liberals" since they have more programs going for them anyway.

Just think of the ensuing chaos if the "fairness" doctrine were enforced to the letter of a crazy law. Anytime the "Birchers" are decried by somebody, the chief of the John Birch Society, Robert Welch, could demand the right to answer. The New York conservative party, in its effort to field the attacks made on it over the air, would have a 24-hour job on its hands. But it would also have a 24-hour opportunity to get its own publicity. And the U.S. Congress, to back up the ruling of the FCC, would have to legislate a change in the calendar to put forty-eight hours into every official radio or TV day. The way to have any palpably absurd ruling or law taken off the books is to campaign for its complete and impartial enforcement. If conservatives will only get on the ball about this, they can have the FCC sprinting to take cover. If nobody can mention a person or an organization on the air without guaranteeing equal time for reply, how could the Messrs. Huntley and Brinkley ever put on a show? How could Walter Cronkite say anything pertinent? How could Howard Smith operate?

The FCC ruling is particularly silly coming in a year when various political parties and personalities are revving up for their campaigns. Before November of 1964 is here everybody will be mentioning everybody. There simply aren't enough airwaves or hours to go around to permit a just enforcement of the "fairness doctrine." And we are certain the FCC doesn't want to give all that free time to the John Birch Society, any government.

VARIOUS GODS

To the Editor:

The editor is correct in his sum-up of religion as being a particular pattern in accordance with human judgment. There are many religions and they have different and various kinds of Gods. Read Deut. 32.-16-21 (note verse 15); Matt. 23.5-28; I Cor. 8.7-8; Prov. 11.9; Ps. 96.5; 11 Tim. 3.1-5; and Verses 7 and 8 Isa. 66.3-4; Jer. 50.38; Acts 17.22-33; Ps. 73.1-11; and Verse 20; Rom. 10.1-4; 11 Peter 3.3-7 and Verse 9; Isa. 44.15-17; Isa. 45-20; Isa. 31.6-8; Ex. 12.12; Ex. 20-23; Jer. 2-11-13; John 5.35-47; John 15.22-27; Rom. 1.-16-23; Psalms 106.19-27; 11 Cor. 4.3-4. The scripture teaches there are many Gods. It is very prevalent that most people believe in "a God" but few believe in and on "the true God." 1 Cor. 8.3-10. Salvation is of God, Gen. 49.18. See the Salvation of God. Ex. 14-13; II Chron. 15.2. The Lord hath wrought salvation, I Sam. 11.13; Ps. 27.1; Ps. 3.8; Ps. 25.5.

We learn from this scripture that salvation is a reality, a living faith based on and in divinity. The prayer of faith is that of David in Verse 7. Salvation is explained in Ps. 62 and in Chapt. 35 and 37, 39, 40.10-11; Ps. 70.4. God's people believe what he says in Ps. 78, Verses 1-8. Salvation is a saviour, a deliverer. . .it redeems, as explained in Isa. 26.1-4. Zach. 9.-9-10 gives the explanation of salvation of faith. Without this faith people are utterly lost. Luke 1.69-80; Luke 2.21-32; Luke 19.1-14. Salvation is based on a person and that person is the divine Son of God, Jesus Christ the Lord, who was with God the Father from the beginning, and he said to His Son Jesus, let us make man in our own image. Gen. 1.26. And He said His Son Jesus is like unto Melchisedee, without beginning. Deut. 16-22, or end. Heb. 5.5-10. Jesus said He and the Father are One, John 17.5. Abraham is called the faithful one and people who have salvation obtain it thru faith in God's Son, Jesus. As Abraham, Isaiah, David and all the prophets believed on Him and told of His coming to appear before men. Heb. 11.1-10; John 8.16-18. Read the whole chapter. Note Verses 47 and 56. Rom. 9.1-8; 1 Tim. 2.5; 1 Tim. 3.16; 1 Thess. 1.9-10; 1 John 5.-18-21; Ps. 73.23-28; 11 Cor. 2.11; Deut. 33.27; Matt. 1.23; Rom. 3.3-4; Dan. 3.11. Read all the chapter. Note Eph. 4.1-18; Heb. 10. God has a plan for his people. It is recorded in the 17th chapter of John, 11 Tim. 3.14-17, Deut. 16.22.

Space will not permit going further into this subject, but these scriptures will suffice to show the difference between religion and salvation. Satan is a very religious fellow. Lenin had a religion but he hated Jehovah God, Christ His Son, the Holy One of Israel. As long as one believes in the Christ, God the Father, he will not be a communist. Lenin might destroy all the idol worshippers and all their idols but he could not take God out of his people. Jesus said those who put their trust in Him shall never perish.

PRO OR ANTI

To the Editor

If giving wheat to the Khrushchev government, giving foreign aid and selling warplanes to the Communist Tito government, giving aid to the Soviet satellite Poland, protecting the Castro-run Soviet held base in Cuba against the Free Cubans seeking to liberate and regain their nation, protecting Mao's Communist government in China from the Free Chinese forces on Formosa, along with the Soviets and the Fidelists supporting the leftist-democratic governments of Latin America, cutting off aid and recognition from the anti-Communist governments which take over to save Latin American nations from Communism, giving foreign aid to other governments including those which are Communist and near-Communist to make them strong enough to resist Communism, denying the crucial nuclear weapons our reliable allies need to defend themselves, failing to carry out the law requiring U. S. registration as foreign agents of all Communists and Communist - frontiers, disregarding their oaths of office to defend the country and its Constitution by supporting anti - national UN'ism and internationalism over nation and Constitution, attacking and smearing anti - Communists and American Rightists, if all this is anti - Communism then what would pro-Communism be?

TRIANON

To the Editor:

We express our extreme gratitude for the help you have given every citizen of Colorado to assist in our efforts to save the most beautiful and priceless show place, not only in Colorado, but in the entire United States. It would be a desecration and a sacrilege for such a valuable asset to be relegated to oblivion as a thing of no importance. All of those beautiful priceless possessions beggar description and we cannot allow a single item to leave Colorado.

It is high time each and every citizen of this potentially great country of our is re-evaluating the worth-while standards of life which have so miserably deteriorated in our country.

OUT OF THE FRYING PAN

To the Editor:

Manitou voters seem to have voted themselves out of the frying pan and into the fire on the mis-named Home Rule Amendment.

Proponents of the amendment gently stated it was just an advisory vote and no further action was contemplated at this time. I hope it stays that way. I doubt it.

Under home rule, the people of Manitou stand to lose control of their city government. There will be MORE council men with NO election for mayor. He will be appointed from the council, by the council. One third will be up for re-election every two years instead of all of them as now; plus, a city manager imported from Timbuktu to run the city.

I have talked to quite a few people who have said they refrained from voting on the amendment because they did not know what it was all about.

Nothing was said, pro or con, about it during the campaign.

After explaining it to them, all of them have stated they would vote it down every time it is brought up. And it will take a vote of the people to put it over.

I doubt if Manitou stands still for it.

The good man rose with as much dignity as possible, gained complete control of himself and said to the fun-makers, "Would one of you sinners kindly say something appropriate to the occasion?"

Don't You Mean Extreme Good Sense?

Face

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, PhD

Embarking on a plan which practically ignored a representative of an existing goverment made it possible for the government of this country to cause the leaders of the far eastern government to lose face. To add emphasis to the situation, a touring communist dictator, also visiting unofficially, was honored.

About 1925 I became acquainted with a Chinese gentleman who was, in his words, a scholar. He was also a well known educator and philosopher. Quite frequently I would meet this man as he waked slowly along Hollywood Boulevard, enjoying the smog-free California sunshine. He would ask me to join him and we walked side by side. Generally, he talked and I listened. From time to time I encountered my friend in a restaurant where he usually dined alone and after several months I realized I always spoke first when we met in public. The routine never varied. My friend would see and recognize me and make some very small sign of recognition, a little gesture with his sensitive hands, and I would speak. After a few months had elapsed, I asked, "Why do you never speak first when we meet in public? When I arrive at your home, you always welcome me quickly. When we meet on the boulevard or in a restaurant, you do not speak first."

My friend explained in a soft voice, "It is my protection, I must not lose face. If I should speak at a time when, perhaps, you might not wish to recognize me, I would lose face," and then he chuckled. "I have lived a long time with this face and while it is not much, as faces go, it is the only one I have and I prefer not to lose it."

Naturally I asked why I should not also worry about losing face. He replied, "Ah, but you would not lose face. You would simply say to yourself something about your friend becoming a jerk or something of that kind and that would be the end of it. Some Americans think they lose face if they can't keep up with their neighbors but this is not a serious blow to their dignity."

But, a politician may lose face and that's serious, to the politician.

One of the local political figures made quite a point of presuming to imagine I would respond if he spoke to me in public. When I did not, he became a little furtive about the whole thing. On more than one accasion another public office holder has paused and smiled, awaiting some slight sign of recognition which I invariably withhold. The man looks a little hurt and puzzled and slowly walks away. Sure, they keep trying. If a politician is alone he may try a little smile for size or nod. My reaction is always the same; I always ignore them. When a politician is with someone, he is much more cautious; he doesn't want to take a chance on being ignored.

I hope this procedure is beginning to make sense to you. If I stopped a public office holder on the street and scolded him in a loud voice, complete with gestures, such an action would be a public admission of the importance of the politician. As a matter of fact, any recognition of a politician may be construed as an admission of his importance and the only importance a politician has for me is as a nuisance value and I prefer not to spend time or a nod or a smile on this particular type of nuisance. I am as considerate of the tender feelings of a politician as he is of my inborn desire and right to be free.

And so it is at the ballot box. Every vote gains face for the system, and politicians. The system and politicians depend upon you to gain face. Ignore candidates and the system, and the loss of face will become readily apparent and worrisome.

About 1940 I discovered how to use my press camera as a defensive weapon. At a large public gathering, a particularly obnoxious character who liked to think of himself as a motion picture star popped up in front of my viewfinder, every time I attempted to take a picture. Consistently, I either waved him out of the scene or moved to a different angle. Finally he approached me smiling, "Guess you don't know who I am." I replied, "I do know who you are," and walked away. Later he tried his hand at politics.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

COLORADO SPRINGS
GAZETTE TELEGRAPH
Your Freedom Newspaper
Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Human Rights

We know of no task more difficult, and few more important, than the task relative to the finding of a satisfactory definition for human rights.

Every time we feel that we have finally gotten out feet on bed rock in this area, someone comes forward to indicate that somehow we have not managed to convey what we intended. Or possibly we conveyed what we intended, all right, but failed to reach a definitive position thru some oversight.

Our own Declaration of Independence gives us the base for our position. But there are large areas of confusion even insofar as this basic document is concerned.

When we begin by asking someone to tell us what a human right is, the normal reaction is for that person to say: "Well, it is something that all men have in common." But that tells us nothing at all. All men have many things in common.

All men have two arms and two legs (unless deformed or crippled). Every man has one head, a heart, a spleen and a liver. Are all these things rights? Obviously, this is not meant at all.

But certainly what is meant is that there is something implicit in the concept of rights which separates that something from a definition that would include the idea of privilege.

So let us begin by recognizing that a human right is not the same thing as a human privilege. Let us also recognize that a human right is a kind of relationship. . .a concept which falls somehow into the moral realm and which tells us what a man may and may not rightfully do.

A right is not a physical thing. It is not a head, a heart or a wishbone. A human right is a relationship involving human beings. And to capture the universality intended by this usage of the word, it is incumbent to explain that human rights are equally shared by every human being on earth.

Thus, a right has nothing whatever to do with the condition of the man. He may be young or old, rich or poor, unknown or famous. Also, he may belong to any race or creed, have any color of skin, be a taxpayer in any country, belong to scores of organizations or belong to none. In each case, his rights are precisely the same as the rights of any other person.

Thus, for a concept of human rights to exist and to be generally believed, we must establish at the outset that rights have nothing whatever to do with a man's background, his circumstances or even his behavior.

One man may be wise and another man foolish. Both have equal rights.

One man may make few if any errors; another may make many errors and cause all kinds of problems. Both have equal rights.

One man may be at the prime of life, able to enforce his will on others by dint of his own muscles, or his own position in life. Another may be a child, unable to enforce his will on anyone, possibly even the victim of elders who are stronger than he. Yet, all have equal rights.

This is a difficult concept to grasp for most of us are quite accustomed to imagine that rights cannot have existence unless they can be enforced. But this is not the case. To imagine that rights arise only from the concept of enforcement is to say that only the strong have rights and the weak may be rightfully ruled or exploited by the strong. This would destroy the only valid usefulness there is in the idea of equal rights.

The concept of rights becomes meaningful only in relation to what ought to be. It is obviously true that almost anyone at any time can conduct himself in such a way that he disregards the rights of others. The point is that while he is physically capable of such disregard, he may not RIGHTFULLY disregard the rights of others.

Stifled

Progress has been the product of intense effort at all levels of enterprise. If effort ceases, business and industry will cease. If the desire to make effort is stifled by the governmental removal of initiative, the lights of the nation will begin to go out, one by one.

Rights and Privileges

In the foregoing we have tried to develop the universality of human rights. But this is only one factor that is implied when we speak of human rights. Another, already alluded to, is the difference between a right and a privilege.

What is a privilege? It is a special relationship which is NOT universal.

Men create privileges for themselves and for each other. Governments deal almost entirely in privileges. The concept is useful but it must be recognized as being entirely different from a concept of human rights.

A privilege is a special prerogative to do or not to do a certain thing.

You will extend to certain intimate friends the privilege of calling on you at any hour, even of walking into your home unannounced. If someone not your friend were to do this, you would experience a sense of outrage. You have not granted privileges to everyone. And if everyone assumed to have the privilege, you would feel imposed upon and out of sorts.

Government says that certain persons may vote. It also says that certain other persons may not vote. In this sense, voting is a political privilege. We are prone, in this country, to refer to voting as a right. But if it were a right, it would be universal and government could not rightfully remove it.

In point of fact, government grants the privilege to some and withholds it from others depending on their age, their lack of a criminal record, and so on. This may be one reason we confuse rights with privileges.

A particular firm may grant to one of its salesmen the "exclusive franchise" to deal in a certain area with a certain product. This franchise is a privilege.

All privileges are subject to being withdrawn by the grantor. Rights may not be withdrawn. Privileges are specific acts dealing with specific circumstances relating to specific performance. A right goes beyond a privilege, for all men have rights tho many men may have no privileges at all.

We suspect that many people confuse these things imagining that a right is merely a privilege with an enlarged area of application.

To make certain that we are not confused in this area, we must examine the source from whence privileges and rights arise. The Declaration proclaims in bold terms that rights are the endowment of the Creator; in short, that every man has the same rights which come from the very source from whence man springs. Rights then are co-existent with man. They come into being with man and they endure with him.

Privileges, on the contrary, are never equal. Nor are they co-existent with men. Privileges cannot be equal. If privileges become equal, they are no longer privileges. The only merit to the concept of privilege is that some men may do or may refuse to do something that all other men may not do or, conversely, are compelled to do. The privileged status is the unique and separate status which some may achieve but others may not.

A right is a natural endowment proceeding from the source of all life and being equated with life itself. A right is thus seen to be universal whereas a privilege is unique and separate.

Privileges are usually viewed as a special advantage to some that others may not (rightfully) share. A right is a general advantage which may not (rightfully) be removed from any.

We talk a good deal these days, not only of voting rights (which are really political privileges) but of "states' rights." The usage is in error. States have no rights. States are the creations of men and men may not endow their creations with rights. States are instruments of privilege and not of rights.

What is meant, of course, is that the states are supposed to have certain powers which the federal government is not supposed to have. But this is a far cry from a "right" and should not be confused with it.

New Light on UNESCO

By THURMAN SENSING

Time and again, when concerned Americans have voiced doubt as to the propriety of UNESCO and associated organizations, they have been dubbed alarmists who have not looked at the facts. "There's nothing in UNESCO's activities," say its U.S. apologists, "about which good citizens need be troubled."

Well, these apologists, if they are sincere in their complacency, should take a look at an article "The Cold War in the Classroom" published in the June, 1963, issues of War-Peace Report. This slick magazine, published in the United States, provides a forum for the disarmers and so-called peace workers. The author of the article in question is Mrs. Elise Boulding, a research associate at the Center for Research on Conflict Resolution.

Mrs. Boulding's thesis is that American children have long been taught a stereotype of the "enemy." She tells how some teachers are seeking ways and means to present a radically different view of America's cold war enemy. Her hymn of praise is for UNESCO and its programs. The reason Mrs. Boulding likes UNESCO is she believes it will help get rid of the stereotypes of which she disapproves. "A few beginning efforts have been made," she wrote, "to give students a more universal view of the world. This was one of the hopes of UNESCO at its founding in 1950."

Highly revealing is Mrs. Boulding's account of a "World Forum of Women" held in Brussels, Belgium, last November, to discuss "The Education of Children and Youth in the Spirit of Friendship and Understanding Among Peoples." Nice sounding, isn't it! Ninety women were present, including representatives from the Soviet Union, Yugoslavia, Hungary, Bulgaria, Romania, and other Iron Curtain countries. "This was a conference of educators," she said, "concerned with the practical aspects of preparing children to live in a world in which armed might would be replaced by a subtler and more complex means of resolving differences." Imagine making a statement of that sort about a conference where communist countries were heavily represented!

In describing the work of the conference, Mrs. Boulding deplored the representation of the Soviet Union in U.S. text books. She said one text teaches:

"In the Soviet Union, a few persons in the Communist Party, not elected by the people, have most of the power." She added this comment:

"Without information to the contrary (which they are not likely to see) American schoolchildren grow up believing that the Soviet people are ruled capriciously by a few power-mad men." One wonders how Mrs. Boulding explains away the examples of Dictators Stalin and Khrushchev, the bloody purges and rocket-rattling.

Particularly interesting is her account of something called the Liaison Bureau, which she said "is undertaking the organization of national commissions on children's books until such time as UNESCO will be able to add this to its roster of projects." The aim of this bureau, in her words, is "to make it possible for children around the world to read the same books in their separate countries." This, she says, "will help them find their international identity in tomorrow's world."

Note this! Mrs. Boulding is not proposing that the Russian children read books that expound the value of freedom. She is proposing that Soviet and U.S. children read the same books, which is a very different thing.

It is deeply tragic that, after more than 40 years of communist deceit and tyranny, some Americans still refuse to realize that every instance of Soviet "co-operation" with the West is an effort by the Reds to subvert freedom. The whole massive record of communist activity proves that any joint book project with the Russians would end up as an attempt to brainwash U.S. school children.

Question Box

QUESTION No. 364: "Why do you think California's Governor Edmund Brown told about 1000 members of the AF of L-CIO Council On Political Education that increased productivity thru automation is contributing to unemployment?"

Answer: Mostly because he wants votes. He wants to flatter and misguide the vested interests in labor unions. Automation is just a better use of machinery and more efficient machines. If we didn't have any machines there would be a great deal less employment than there is today because there would be fewer people living. Of course, everyone would be working for himself and very few people would survive and their lives would be short.

It is hard to believe that Gov. Brown is so naive or stupid that he does not understand that more efficient machines are the only way that we can increase total production, total employment, and total wages and profits.

Employment is paid for by production. The more production the more and better automation we can have, and the more we will produce. Thus, every working man will be better off.

It would seem to us that Brown is either a typical hypocrite who cares about nothing but power for himself, or an economic illiterate. If his philosophy of more and more collectivism, bigger and bigger government and more and more powerful labor unions which deprive individuals of their inalienable rights to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness were put into practice we would be in very bad shape. It is too bad that we have this kind of miseducation. The UPI article refers to "political education" and it certainly is "political education" which is not education at all but propaganda to get votes and to keep power.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

New 'Fairness' Doctrine

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The Manion Forum of South Bend, Indiana, which specializes in giving voice to good conservatives on its radio and TV programs, is very much worried about the new "fairness" doctrine being emphasized in a recent ruling of the Federal Communications Commission. The doctrine, so Mr. L. F. Reardon, a vice president of the Manion Forum, fears, will be invoked to badger all sorts of right-wingers and keep them from telling their side of the story in their broadcasts.

Well, it's taken long enough for the conservative movement in the United States to make a comeback after the ideological debacle of the 1930's, and one can see why conservatives should have gotten into the habit of looking apprehensively over their shoulders.

But just how much does the FCC "fairness" rule menace conservative broadcasters? Cannot some swift and effective counter remedy be found?

The new "doctrine," as Dean Manion's vice president Reardon puts it, "attempts to enforce an unlawful rule that equal time be given to those who oppose any point of view expressed over radio or TV. This rule, in practice, has been applied only to conservatives. . . left-wing extremists of every ilk are clamoring to 'answer' our program."

Everything that Mr. Reardon says may be true insofar as it applies to his own predicament. But if the conservatives limit themselves to the defensive in this matter of protesting the "fairness" directive, which was issued on July 26, they are bound to lose the fight.

THREE TO ONE

It seems to this columnist, who listens sporadically to both TV and radio political programs, that for every conservative on the air, there are at least three "liberals," to use the word in its contemporary sense. Now, obviously, if the "fairness" criterion is to be applied with any fairness by the FCC commissioners, this means that conservatives would have the opportunity to cash in on a ratio that is 3-to-1 in their favor.

What they should do to combat any adverse application of the "equal time" policy is to organize a domestic monitoring service comparable to the one maintained by Radio Liberty for keeping tabs on what is being said on the air inside Russia. Every time a conservative individual or organization is mentioned in a derogatory way by a liberal commentator, the monitoring organization could tip somebody to complain loudly and at length. The demand for "equal time" would absolutely swamp the "liberals" since they have more programs going for them anyway.

Just think of the ensuing chaos if the "fairness" doctrine were enforced to the letter of a crazy law. Anytime the "Birchers" are decried by somebody, the chief of the John Birch Society, Robert Welch, could demand the right to answer. The New York conservative party, in its effort to field the attacks made on it over the air, would have a 24-hour job on its hands. But it would also have a 24-hour opportunity to get its own publicity. And the U.S. Congress, to back up the ruling of the FCC, would have to legislate a change in the calendar to put forty-eight hours into every official radio or TV day.

The way to have any palpably absurd ruling or law taken off the books is to campaign for its complete and impartial enforcement. If conservatives will only get on the ball about this, they can have the FCC sprinting to take cover. If nobody can mention a person or an organization on the air without guaranteeing equal time for reply, how could the Messrs. Huntley and Brinkley ever put on a show? How could Walter Cronkite say anything pertinent? How could Howard Smith operate?

The FCC ruling is particularly silly coming in a year when various political parties and personalities are revving up for their campaigns. Before November of 1964 is here everybody will be mentioning everybody. There simply aren't enough airwaves or hours to go around to permit a just enforcement of the "fairness doctrine." And we are certain the FCC doesn't want to give all that free time to the John Birch Society, anyway.

VARIOUS GODS

To the Editor:

The editor is correct in his sum-up of religion as being a particular pattern in accordance with human judgment. There are many religions and they have different and various kinds of Gods. Read Deut. 32.-16-21 (note verse 15); Matt. 23.5-28; I Cor. 8.7-8; Prov. 11.9; Ps. 96.5; 11 Tim. 3.1-5; and Verses 7 and 8 Isa. 66.3-4; Jer. 50.38; Acts 17.22-33; Ps. 73.1-11; and Verse 20; Rom. 10.1-4; 11 Peter 3.3-7 and Verse 9; Isa. 44.15-17; Isa. 45-20; Isa. 31.6-8; Ex. 12.12; Ex. 20-23; Jer. 2-11-13; John 5.35-47; John 15.22-27; Rom. 1.-16-23; Psalms 106.19-27; 11 Cor. 4.3-4. The scripture teaches there are many Gods. It is very prevalent that most people believe in "a God" but few believe in and on "the true God." 1 Cor. 8.3-10. Salvation is of God, Gen. 49.18. See the Salvation of God. Ex. 14-13; II Chron. 15.2. The Lord hath wrought salvation, I Sam. 11.13; Ps. 27.1; Ps. 3.8; Ps. 25.5.

We learn from this scripture that salvation is a reality, a living faith based on and in divinity. The prayer of faith is that of David in Verse 7. Salvation is explained in Ps. 62 and in Chapt. 35 and 37, 39, 40.10-11; Ps. 70.4. God's people believe what he says in Ps. 78, Verses 1-8. Salvation is a saviour, a deliverer. . .it redeems, as explained in Isa. 26.1-4. Zach. 9.-9-10 gives the explanation of salvation of faith. Without this faith people are utterly lost. Luke 1.69-80; Luke 2.21-32; Luke 19.1-14. Salvation is based on a person and that person is the divine Son of God, Jesus Christ the Lord, who was with God the Father from the beginning, and he said to His Son Jesus, let us make man in our own image. Gen. 1.26. And He said His Son Jesus is like unto Melchisedec, without beginning, Deut. 16-22, or end. Heb. 5.5-10. Jesus said He and the Father are One. John 17.5. Abraham is called the faithful one and people who have salvation obtain it thru faith in God's Son, Jesus. As Abraham, Isaiah, David and all the prophets believed on Him and told of His coming to appear before men. Heb. 11.1-10; John 8.16-18. Read the whole chapter. Note Verses 47 and 56. Rom. 9.1-8; 1 Tim. 2.5; 1 Tim. 3.16; 1 Thess. 1.9-10; 1 John 5.-18-21; Ps. 73.23-28; 11 Cor. 2.11; Deut. 33.27; Matt. 1.23; Rom. 3.3-4; Dan. 3.11. Read all the chapter. Note Eph. 4.1-18; Heb. 10. God has a plan for his people. It is recorded in the 17th chapter of John, 11 Tim. 3.14-17, Deut. 16.22.

Space will not permit going further into this subject, but these scriptures will suffice to show the difference between religion and salvation. Satan is a very religious fellow. Lenin had a religion but he hated Jehovah God, Christ His Son, the Holy One of Israel. As long as one believes in the Christ, God the Father, he will not be a communist. Lenin might destroy all the idol worshippers and all their idols but he could not take God out of his people. Jesus said those who put their trust in Him shall never perish.

If giving wheat to the Khrushchev government, giving foreign aid and selling warplanes to the Communist Tito government, giving aid to the Soviet satellite Poland, protecting the Castro-run Soviet held base in Cuba against the Free Cubans seeking to liberate and regain their nation, protecting Mao's Communist government in China from the Free Chinese forces on Formosa, along with the Soviets and the Fidelists supporting the leftist-democratic governments of Latin America, cutting off aid and recognition from the anti-Communist governments which take over to save Latin American nations from Communism, giving foreign aid to other governments including those which are Communist and near-Communist to make them strong enough to resist Communism, denying the crucial nuclear weapons our reliable allies need to defend themselves, failing to carry out the law requiring U.S. registration as foreign agents of all Communists and Communist-frontiers, disregarding their oaths of office to defend the country and its Constitution by supporting anti-national UN'ism and internationalism over nation and Constitution, attacking and smearing anti-Communists and American Rightists, if all this is anti-Communism then what would pro-Communism be?

TRIANON

To the Editor:

We express our extreme gratitude for the help you have given every citizen of Colorado to assist in our efforts to save the most beautiful and priceless show place, not only in Colorado, but in the entire United States. It would be a desecration and a sacrilege for such a valuable asset to be relegated to oblivion as a thing of no importance. All of those beautiful priceless possessions beggar description and we cannot allow a single item to leave Colorado.

It is high time each and every citizen of this potentially great country of our is re-evaluating the worth-while standards of life which have so miserably deteriorated in our country.

OUT OF THE FRYING PAN

To the Editor:

Manitou voters seem to have voted themselves out of the frying pan and into the fire on the mis-named Home Rule Amendment.

Proponents of the amendment gently stated it was just an advisory vote and no further action was contemplated at this time. I hope it stays that way. I doubt it.

Under home rule, the people of Manitou stand to lose control of their city government. There will be MORE council men with NO election for mayor. He will be appointed from the council, by the council. One third will be up for re-election every two years instead of all of them as now; plus, a city manager imported from Timbuktu to run the city.

I have talked to quite a few people who have said they refrained from voting on the amendment because they did not know what it was all about.

Nothing was said, pro or con, about it during the campaign.

After explaining it to them, all of them have stated they would vote it down every time it is brought up. And it will take a vote of the people to put it over.

I doubt if Manitou stands still for it.

The good man rose with as much dignity as possible, gained complete control of himself and said to the fun-makers, "Would one of you sinners kindly say something appropriate to the occasion?"

Don't You Mean Extreme Good Sense?

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, PhD

Embarking on a plan which practically ignored a representative of an existing governent made it possible for the government of this country to cause the leaders of the far eastern government to lose face. To add emphasis to the situation, a touring communist dictator, also visiting unofficially, was honored.

About 1925 I became acquainted with a Chinese gentleman who was, in his words, a scholar. He was also a well known educator and philosopher. Quite frequently I would meet this man as he waked slowly along Hollywood Boulevard, enjoying the smog-free California sunshine. He would ask me to join him and we walked side by side. Generally, he talked and I listened. From time to time I encountered my friend in a restaurant where he usually dined alone and after several months I realized I always spoke first when we met in public. The routine never varied. My friend would see and recognize me and make some very small sign of recognition, a little gesture with his sensitive hands, and I would speak. After a few months had elapsed, I asked, "Why do you never speak first when we meet in public? When I arrive at your home, you always welcome me quickly. When we meet on the boulevard or in a restaurant, you do not speak first."

My friend explained in a soft voice, "It is my protection, I must not lose face. If I should speak at a time when, perhaps, you might not wish to recognize me, I would lose face," and then he chuckled. "I have lived a long time with this face and while it is not much, as faces go, it is the only one I have and I prefer not to lose it."

Naturally I asked why I should not also worry about losing face. He replied, "Ah, but you would not lose face. You would simply say to yourself something about your friend becoming a jerk or something of that kind and that would be the end of it. Some Americans think they lose face if they can't keep up with their neighbors but this is not a serious blow to their dignity."

But, a politician may lose face and that's serious, to the politician.

One of the local political figures made quite a point of presuming to imagine I would respond if he spoke to me in public. When I did not, he became a little furtive about the whole thing. On more than one accasion another public office holder has paused and smiled, awaiting some slight sign of recognition which I invariably withhold. The man looks a little hurt and puzzled and slowly walks away. Sure, they keep trying. If a politician is alone he may try a little smile for size or nod. My reaction is always the same; I always ignore them. When a politician is with someone, he is much more cautious; he doesn't want to take a chance on being ignored.

I hope this procedure is beginning to make sense to you. If I stopped a public office holder on the street and scolded him in a loud voice, complete with gestures, such an action would be a public admission of the importance of the politician. As a matter of fact, any recognition of a politician may be construed as an admission of his importance and the only importance a politician has for me is as a nuisance value and I prefer not to spend time or a nod or a smile on this particular type of nuisance. I am as considerate of the tender feelings of a politician as he is of my inborn desire and right to be free.

And so it is at the ballot box. Every vote gains face for the system, and politicians. The system and politicians depend upon you to gain face. Ignore candidates and the system, and the loss of face will become readily apparent and worrisome.

About 1940 I discovered how to use my press camera as a defensive weapon. At a large public gathering, a particularly obnoxious character who liked to think of himself as a motion picture star popped up in front of my viewfinder, every time I attempted to take a picture. Consistently, I either waved him out of the scene or moved to a different angle. Finally he approached me smiling, "Guess you don't know who I am." I replied, "I do know who you are," and walked away. Later he tried his hand at politics.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	4 ♡	4 NT
Pass	5 ♣	5 ♡	Pass
Pass	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

The unusual notrump is one of the more colorful conventions to be devised in recent years. It provides that, where a player has made a notrump overcall that cannot possibly have a natural meaning, the notrump bid is to be construed as a take-out double for the minor suits. Partner is expected to respond in either diamonds or clubs for, if the notrump bidder wished to hear a major suit, he would have made a take-out double.

When South opened the bidding with four hearts in the third position, it was West's desire to compete in one of the minor suits, but he wasn't certain which one, so he bid four notrump in order to solicit his partner's opinion. The four notrump bid could hardly be Blackwood after South's opening bid and, since West has bypassed spades to make his call, it is clear that he has both clubs and diamonds and wishes East to take his choice.

East dutifully responded with five clubs and South, who felt he had not yet given his all, persisted to five hearts. West had already done his duty, and passed this bid around to his partner. East chose to double for penalties, inasmuch as he had some high card strength and his relative shortness in West's suits indicated that the latter's values would not be entirely duplicated.

West was anxious to obtain a spade ruff but, in order to do so, he must at one and the same time put East in the lead and communicate to partner that he had a void. He decided to play East for the king of clubs, and therefore chose the eight of clubs for his opening lead.

When East's king of clubs held the first trick, he realized that his partner, by underleading the ace, was desperately trying to communicate some message. It did not take him very long to determine that West must be void in spades, for East had his own and dummy's length in the suit to support the inference to be made from the opening lead. A spade was returned for West to ruff, and the latter quickly produced his ace of clubs to score the setting trick.

Had West led the king of diamonds originally, South would have ruffed in his hand, drawn trump and discarded a club on dummy's fourth spade to score an overtrick. Even with the ace of clubs lead and a club continuation, East would be put to a very tough test in deciding whether to try for a spade ruff or attempt to cash the ace of diamonds. If he makes the wrong choice, South will easily run off with the balance of the tricks.

Gen. Gerhart Will Sponsor UF Concert and Ball Nov. 27

Thanksgiving Eve, Wednesday, Nov. 27, NORAD Commander-in-Chief, Gen. John K. Gerhart, in cooperation with the United Fund Committee, will host approximately 1,200 leading Colorado Springs citizens — both civilian and military — at the famous Broadmoor Hotel International Center.

The black tie social event, called the "Pikes Peak United Fund Concert and Ball," will highlight the outstanding cooperation between Colorado Springs civic leaders and all of the local military organizations in making this United Fund drive one of the most successful charity drives ever held in the city's history.

The invited guests at the formal gathering initially will be entertained by the internationally famous NORAD Band, led by Lt. Col. Mark Azzolina, as it presents a concert of outstanding musical arrangements. Following that, the guests will then dance to the music of the NORAD Commanders, the popular twenty-piece "band from within a band. There will be live TV coverage of part of the program, including an announcement of the total collected in the United Fund Drive for which Gen. Garhart served as honorary chairman.

The invited guests will hear a 90-piece musical organization which has just returned from a most successful tour of Canada, and which has established a reputation of outstanding performances since its inception on April 15, 1959. In addition to appearing at military installations in Canada and the United States, the bandsmen are veterans of U. S. national television having appeared on The Bell Telphone Hour, The Dinah Shore Show, and The Steve Allen Show. For nearly three years they have presented a weekly radio show for the Mutual Broadcasting System; they have appeared at the Canadian Exhibition, Toronto, Toronto, Canada; Eastern States Exposition, Springfield, Mass.; Michigan State Fair, Detroit, the Chicago Trade Fair; and at New York City's famed Carnegie Hall.

The NORAD Band holds a public concert each year for the citizens of Colorado Springs. This concert will be held at the City Auditorium next spring.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	4 ♥	4 NT
Pass	5 ♣	5 ♥	Pass
Pass

The unusual notrump is one of the more colorful conventions to be devised in recent years. It provides that, where a player has made a notrump overcall that cannot possibly have a natural meaning, the notrump bid is to be construed as a take-out double for the minor suits. Partner is expected to respond in either diamonds or clubs for, if the notrump bidder wished to hear a major suit, he would have made a take-out double.

When South opened the bidding with four hearts in the third position, it was West's desire to compete in one of the minor suits, but he wasn't certain which one, so he bid four notrump in order to solicit his partner's opinion. The four notrump bid could hardly be Blackwood after South's opening bid and, since West has bypassed spades to make his call, it is clear that he has both clubs and diamonds and wishes East to take his choice.

East dutifully responded with five clubs and South, who felt he had not yet given his all, persisted to five hearts. West had already done his duty, and passed this bid around to his partner. East chose to double for penalties, inasmuch as he had some high card strength and his relative shortness in West's suits indicated that the latter's values would not be entirely duplicated.

West was anxious to obtain a spade ruff but, in order to do so, he must at one and the same time put East in the lead and communicate to partner that he had a void. He decided to play East for the king of clubs, and therefore chose the eight of clubs for his opening lead.

When East's king of clubs held the first trick, he realized that his partner, by underleading the ace, was desperately trying to communicate some message. It did not take him very long to determine that West must be void in spades, for East had his own and dummy's length in the suit to support the inference to be made from the opening lead. A spade was returned for West to ruff, and the latter quickly produced his ace of clubs to score the setting trick.

Had West led the king of diamonds originally, South would have ruffed in his hand, drawn trump and discarded a club on dummy's fourth spade to score an overtrick. Even with the ace of clubs lead and a club continuation, East would be put to a very tough test in deciding whether to try for a spade ruff or attempt to cash the ace of diamonds. If he makes the wrong choice, South will easily run off with the balance of the tricks.

Gen. Gerhart Will Sponsor UF Concert and Ball Nov. 27

Thanksgiving Eve, Wednesday, Nov. 27, NORAD Commander-in-Chief, Gen. John K. Gerhart, in cooperation with the United Fund Committee, will host approximately 1,200 leading Colorado Springs citizens — both civilian and military — at the famous Broadmoor Hotel International Center.

The black tie social event, called the "Pikes Peak United Fund Concert and Ball," will highlight the outstanding cooperation between Colorado Springs civic leaders and all of the local military organizations in making this United Fund drive one of the most successful charity drives ever held in the city's history.

The invited guests at the formal gathering initially will be entertained by the internationally famous NORAD Band, led by Lt. Col. Mark Azzolina, as it presents a concert of outstanding musical arrangements. Following that, the guests will then dance to the music of the NORAD Commanders, the popular twenty-piece "band from within a band." There will be live TV coverage of part of the program, including an announcement of the total collected in the United Fund Drive for which Gen. Garhart served as honorary chairman.

The invited guests will hear a 90-piece musical organization which has just returned from a most successful tour of Canada, and which has established a reputation of outstanding performances since its inception on April 15, 1959. In addition to appearing at military installations in Canada and the United States, the bandsmen are veterans of U. S. national television having appeared on The Bell Telphone Hour, The Dinah Shore Show, and The Steve Allen Show. For nearly three years they have presented a weekly radio show for the Mutual Broadcasting System; they have appeared at the Canadian Exhibition, Toronto, Toronto, Canada; Eastern States Exposition, Springfield, Mass.; Michigan State Fair, Detroit, the Chicago Trade Fair; and at New York City's famed Carnegie Hall.

The NORAD Band holds a public concert each year for the citizens of Colorado Springs. This concert will be held at the City Auditorium next spring.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Folks:

Remember the good old dressing that grandma used to make for her Waldorf Salad? Well, I found a good substitute that requires no cooking and very little effort. Every time I buy a pint of mayonnaise (not salad dressing) I divide it in half and make a wonderful facsimile of grandma's old - fashioned Waldorf dressing which I use on nearly everything nowadays.

Here it is:

1 cup of mayonnaise
One-half cup sugar
One-fourth cup vinegar

Mix well and set aside for a few days. The "longer" the better, because as this dressing ages it gets thicker and thicker. After a few months (if you can keep it that long) it is even better.

This is a sweet and sour dressing and may be used on fruit salads, cabbage slaw, carrot and raisin salad or even poured over head lettuce. Yum, yum.... —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I made some old Turkish towels into pillow-cases and used them while traveling on our vacation. They do not get dirty and nasty looking like the conventional white ones. They are easily washed and need not be ironed! —Joyce

Dear Heloise:

As a former instructor in judo and self-defense, here's a way that a housewife can defend herself with a simple weapon usually found in most homes. The house broom!

Just thrust the bristle part of the broom toward the face of any attacker and he will become discouraged very fast! As a weapon it is very effective and there is no good defense against it. —A Friend

"Letter of Laughter"

Dear Heloise:

One day my memory went that-a-way . . . as it has started to do frequently. I went to the doctor and he laughed at me. He told me to quit being so sweet all the time, so that night I "blew up" and threw a real temper tantrum.

After one or two episodes my memory stayed with me! Also, I now have two teen age children who think twice before ignoring my wishes. —Mother of Two

Dear Heloise:

When arranging flowers in a vase, (plastic or fresh) did you know that you could cut up an old sponge and cram the pieces around the neck of the vase to hold the flowers in place? —Melissa Homes

No, I did not know this. You were mighty sweet to tell us. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Did you ever get home with a box of eggs and find two or three of them cracked and leaking?

Perhaps you do not want to use these eggs right away. My solution is to take a piece of tape and plaster the hole or crack in the egg shell to prevent further leaking. —Leakage Solved

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

A 'Lousy' Complainer!

DEAR ABBY: My husband is one of those fussy eaters who likes to complain about my cooking, but he never tells me what is wrong with it, or what he would prefer. He just says, "It's lousy!" I have even gone to cooking school to learn nutrition, balanced meals and the art of interesting cooking. People tell me I am a good cook, and I think I am. But what can I do with a husband who keeps telling me the dinner is lousy? —CAN'T WIN

DEAR CAN'T: When your husband comes home for dinner, greet him with, "Don't take your hat off, Honey—we are eating out. And if the food is lousy you can complain to the manager."

DEAR ABBY: I am a G.I. serving in the Army very far from home. Why is it that I do not need my parents' consent to marry, but I need my Commanding Officer's consent? He refused to give it to me, and if I go ahead and marry this girl (she is a Korean) it will cost me my stripes. I don't think this is fair. I love this girl. What should I do? —G.I. JACK

DEAR G.I.: Hang on to your stripes. You've got G.I. fever. If your temperature doesn't return to normal after you get home, write me another letter. In the meantime, let your chaplain mediate.

DEAR ABBY: Happiness is knowing your parents won't almost kill you if you come home a little late. Happiness is having your own bedroom. Happiness is having your parents trust you. Happiness is getting the telephone call you've been praying for. Happiness is getting good grades and making your parents proud of you. Happiness is being included in the popular circle. Happiness is having parents who don't fight. Happiness is knowing you are as well-dressed as anybody. Happiness is something I don't have. —FIFTEEN AND UNHAPPY

CONFIDENTIAL TO "Little Lu": Don't go back to him unless he promises to treat you like a human being. From your description of his past behavior, I think he'd be just as happy with a dog for companionship on the week-ends.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Home Tour Workers Make Intricate Tree Ornaments

With only two Thursday Workshop Days left before the Broadmoor Community Church Home Tour, members of the Women's Fellowship have been busily wrapping packages and making decorations to be used in the four homes on the tour. Mrs. Gordon Riegel is Workshop Chairman.

The women have been meeting at the church every Thursday for the past month to make hundreds of intricate decorations for Christmas trees, mantle pieces, tables and hallways. Among the most interesting are the gold topiary trees made from styrofoam balls and tin can lids. There are approximately 35 tin can "roses" on each tree and each rose requires three lids. The lids are cut with wire clippers, sprayed gold and fastened to the trees. These will be sold during the tour.

Beautifully wrapped packages, each with a different design, will be displayed at the Russell home and also under the tree at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Harold Runyan, 2410 Parkview Blvd.

Tickets for the tour, which opens Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m. Dec. 4, and continues from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. on Thursday Dec. 5, may be obtained in the north end of the city from Mrs. John Kanas, 1428 Alamo Ave., in the northeast from Mrs. William Martin, 3110 Lees Ln. and in Skyway from Mrs. Keith Munroe. They are also available at the church, Lake Ave. and Old Broadmoor Road.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Folks:

Remember the good old dressing that grandma used to make for her Waldorf Salad? Well, I found a good substitute that requires no cooking and very little effort. Every time I buy a pint of mayonnaise (not salad dressing) I divide it in half and make a wonderful facsimile of grandma's old - fashioned Waldorf dressing which I use on nearly everything nowadays.

Here it is:

1 cup of mayonnaise
One-half cup sugar
One-fourth cup vinegar

Mix well and set aside for a few days. The "longer" the better, because as this dressing ages it gets thicker and thicker. After a few months (if you can keep it that long) it is even better.

This is a sweet and sour dressing and may be used on fruit salads, cabbage slaw, carrot and raisin salad or even poured over head lettuce. Yum, yum.... —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I made some old Turkish towels into pillow-cases and used them while traveling on our vacation. They do not get dirty and nasty looking like the conventional white ones. They are easily washed and need not be ironed! —Joyce

Dear Heloise:

As a former instructor in judo and self-defense, here's a way that a housewife can defend herself with a simple weapon usually found in most homes. The house broom!

Just thrust the bristle part of the broom toward the face of any attacker and he will become discouraged very fast! As a weapon it is very effective and there is no good defense against it. —A Friend

"Letter of Laughter"

Dear Heloise:

One day my memory went that-a-way . . . as it has started to do frequently. I went to the doctor and he laughed at me. He told me to quit being so sweet all the time, so that night I "blew up" and threw a real temper tantrum.

After one or two episodes my memory stayed with me! Also, I now have two teen age children who think twice before ignoring my wishes. —Mother of Two

Dear Heloise:

When arranging flowers in a vase, (plastic or fresh) did you know that you could cut up an old sponge and cram the pieces around the neck of the vase to hold the flowers in place? —Melissa Homes

No, I did not know this. You were mighty sweet to tell us. —Heloise

---

Dear Heloise:

Did you ever get home with a box of eggs and find two or three of them cracked and leaking?

Perhaps you do not want to use these eggs right away. My solution is to take a piece of tape and plaster the hole or crack in the egg shell to prevent further leaking. —Leakage Solved

Centennial Champs To Meet East Denver

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

Pueblo Centennial, supercharged champion of the South Central League for 1963, carries the conference's colors into the state AAA playoffs Nov. 23 against defending champion East Denver and there are those who believe that the Bulldogs may have jelled into a club which could go all the way.

Centennial wrapped up the title last Friday with its second straight explosive performance, drubbing Pueblo South, 48-0. Less than a week earlier, the Bulldogs had snapped a two-way tie for the SCL lead by crushing Wasson, 41-7.

Regardless of the brilliance of their final two efforts in what is considered as the state's toughest AAA conference, Centennial will undoubtedly enter the East Denver game as no better than a one touchdown underdog. The Denver champion won the state's highest AAA prize last fall and is reputed to have an even stronger club this time out.

Nevertheless, the Angels will be hard-pressed to excel in the fireworks department. East gained its Denver League championship in a conference that can number only about half of its teams in the dangerous class. Meanwhile, Centennial slid past the majority of the SCL opposition by narrow margins before the outburst in the final two weeks.

East will be much heavier, especially in the line, but that about encompasses the Angels' advantages. Centennial has great breakaway speed, excellent experience, and superior competition to draw upon.

The Bulldogs didn't need all those points last weekend, but they certainly did need a victory. Gib Funk's defending champion Wasson team kept the pressure on by refusing to give in. Wasson stepped past Pueblo East 12-7 in an excellent game in Colorado Springs, thereby forcing a Centennial victory to assure the championship.

Other windup action saw Palmer come from behind to whack Pueblo Central 21-13 and clinch third place. Trinidad moved into a tie for fourth by dropping Grand Junction, 13-0, in Trinidad.

Centennial's brilliant array of backs laid South to rest in the first six minutes of the opening quarter in Pueblo. The Bulldogs romped across the goal line three times in the first five plays they ran from scrimmage and South was never even close to being in the ball game. Centennial halfback, Bob Armijo, scored four touchdowns — and a couple of those were accidental as the Bulldogs proved to have just too much for their opponents. It was so ridiculous in the second half that Armijo, in to punt, missed the snap, picked up the ball and raced 82 yards for the final score.

Wasson, rebounding well from its disasterous night against Centennial, returned to a familiar formula to defeat Mel Spence's tough Eagles. The T-Birds pulled the lever on their ball control game and shut East off with 35 plays from scrimmage while Wasson ran 68.

Fullback Mike Teague closed a tremendous career by turning in his finest effort with 144 yards from scrimmage. That snapped Doug Dienelt's one game mark of 141 and also boosted Teague to 1.032 yards for the season, easily the best one season record in Wasson history. Wasson had a two touchdown lead when Bill Meeks slipped away for a 59 yard scoring run just before halftime. The Eagles had one last shot in the final two periods but Jim Smith picked off a pass at his own nine and Wasson then ate up the clock with a 19 play drive that was at the East two when the gun ended.

Palmer, reeling behind a 13-0 score in Pueblo Saturday night, sent quarterback Walt Hylton and halfback Alan Snyder Wildcat hunting and they came back with a kill. Hylton threw T.D strikes of 61 and 88 yards to the nimble Hylton on a pair of sensational plays just before halftime as Palmer took control of the game and rolled to its seventh victory of the season.

Trinidad an up-and-down team thruout the campaign, responded to the Dutch Nogel whip the final week of the season and climbed back into the first division with a pair of second quarter touchdowns and stout work by the always-tough defense.

The final week of action left the topsy-turvy conference with nearly the same first division as a year ago. Centennial, 2-4-1, in 1962, was the only replacement, forcing Junction down the ladder. Wasson, first a year ago, fell to second; Palmer remained third; and Trinidad fell from second into a tie for fourth.

'Shotgun' in AFA Arsenal

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

The hunting season this fall runs two more weeks as far as the Cadets from the Air Force Academy are concerned. And they'll be out to bag a suddenly ferocious Lobo and a Buffalo — both with a newly loaded shotgun.

The AFA brought the "shotgun" out of its arsenal last weekend against UCLA and it worked so well in the 48-21 victory over the Bruins that now it's a sure bet that the Falcons will use the new formation as a regular weapon the rest of the season.

The new formation, a form of the short punt with spread ends and wingback, makes use of the talents of Terry Isaacson to the utmost. Taking a direct snap from center in the tailback slot, Isaacson ran and passed for 258 yards last week against the Uclans — four yards short of the all-time AFA single game total offense record.

"It's part of our offense now," scouting coach Jim Bowman told the local quarterback club on Monday. "You can expect to see it against New Mexico and Colorado in our last two games."

Monday, the Falcons looked at movies of the UCLA conquest and heard Bowman's report on the Lobos, the next AFA opponent at Albuquerque this Saturday. A two-hour workout was on the schedule for today.

"New Mexico has a lot of speed in its backfield," Bowman said. "They will be hard to contain and now that they've won their last three games they'll have a lot of spirit for our game."

In their last three, the Lobos have beaten Montana (24-6), Colorado State University (25-0), and last weekend upset highly respected Wyoming, 17-6.

At Albuquerque, Coach Bill Weeks told his team they "will have to play even harder against the Falcons than they did in the game against Wyoming." The New Mexico team came thru last weekend without injuries, however, and will be at full strength for the AFA.

Monday, New Mexico practiced an hour and then viewed films of their Wyoming game. In that one, the Lobos ran for 186 yards against the Pokes' rugged defense and held Wyoming's passing attack down by limiting them to but seven completions in 22 attempts for 89 yards.

Guard Jack Abendschan, despite a cast on his arm, opened the scoring with a 40-yard field goal, and the Lobos had a 17-0 lead on two touchdowns by halfback Bucky Stallings before Wyoming was able to dent the scoreboard in the fourth period.

It was New Mexico's fourth victory in seven games and kept them in the race for Western Athletic Conference honors with a 1-1 record. The weekend following the Air Force invasion, New Mexico travels to Arizona for a showdown with the Wildcats, undefeated leaders of the WAC.

Besides Isaacson's sensational play from both the "shotgun" formation and the regular Flexible-T of Coach Ben Martin's system, the Falcons had fine performance by halfback Dick Czarnota, fullback Steve Amdor and halfback Paul Wargo. All of them had more rushing yardage than the entire UCLA team combined.

Martin explained that many of the things that worked so well against UCLA last Saturday were actually planned for Army, the previous week. That included the "shotgun" formation, and the halfback pass from Kenny Jaggers to another sophomore, end Fritz Greenlee, that clicked for a 67-yard scoring play.

"We were just never in position to use them effectively against Army," Martin said. "But we'd been working on them. Against UCLA, tho, Terry really got the feel of the new formation."

The victory gave the AFA a record of five wins against three defeats this fall and a chance to finish with the best mark since the undefeated team of 1958.

AAU-NCAA Feud Rages Before Olympic Group

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Olympic Committee has ended its last session before the 1964 Olympics with no permanent solution in sight for the split between the Amateur Athletic Union and the colleges.

Neither the AAU nor the National Collegiate Athletic Association showed any letup during the two-day biennial meeting of the hostilities that once threatened to wreck America's hopes next year in Tokyo. The meeting ended Monday.

Aftr mediation by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, both sides agreed earlier this year to a truce in their conflict until after the 1964 Olympics.

However, this didn't stop both sides from maneuvering for more power on the Olympic Committee. They kept up a running battle throughout the two days.

Just before final adjournment, committee president Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson commented:

"I leave here with a heavy hart . . . I was sincere in my plea that we should not have bloc voting, that we should consider each issue on its merits."

The conflict began Sunday when AAU forces reversed the committee's board of directors on the question of granting a newly formed federation sanction to represent the United States on the International Federation for Baseball.

The NCAA backed the high schools and junior colleges in seeking more votes in the new organization. The AAU opposed and it was voted down.

The NCAA wanted President Kennedy given authority to name three members of the board of dirctors to represent the public and help mediate the disput. The AAU, which once favored this, opposed it and it was beaten.

As adopted by the committee, the armed forces membership was increased from one to four on the board of directors, and President Kennedy will name one non-voting member to represent the inter-agency committee on international sports.

The AAU remained in complete command throughout the session, winning every vote. And the net effect of the voting realignment is to give it further strength.

Texas Tops College AP Poll

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — As the only major college team still unbeaten and untied, despite the slender margins of victory, Texas retained its spot as the nation's No. 1 football team this week.

The Longhorns were first on 48 of 53 ballots and took the top spot for the fifth straight week by a comfortable margin.

The panel of sports writers and broadcasters voting in the weekly Associated Press poll also meted out recognition as due to other winners and losers. Navy, Michigan State, Oklahoma and Pitt rose in the rankings while Illinois, Auburn and Ohio State went down.

Texas, winning its eighth straight game, had to go all out to win a squeaker from Baylor 7-0. That was the fourth in a row won by no more than a touchdown. Instead of discounting the Longhorns because of those margins, the experts gave them a whopping total of 526 points on the scoring basis of 10 points for a first place vote, nine for second, etc. That came on 48 firsts, four seconds and one vote for fifth.

Navy moved up from fourth to second with 446 points, replacing Illinois, which skidded far down the list after a 14-8 loss to Michigan.

Kathy Whitworth Wins Civitan Golf Playoff

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)— Kathy Whitworth of Jal, N.M., parred the first hole of a sudden death playoff Monday and won the $8,500 San Antonio Civitan golf tournament over resurging Mickey Wright of Dallas.

Miss Wright overcame a three-stroke deficit to tie Miss Whitworth in the final round of the 72-hole meet. The Dallas woman bogied the playoff when she landed in a sand trap at the Pecan Valley course.

Ruth Jessen of Seattle, tied for the lead at the end of 54 holes, shot a 76 for 300 and took third place. The two leaders carded 299 at the end of the 72 holes regulation play.

Miss Whitworth won $1,300 for a $24,533 season total and Miss Wright pocketed $1,000 for $29,399.50 total.

Mongo Dominates Kelso; Wins International Race

By GEORGE BOWEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—A handy guide for bettors is "Horses for Courses." Mongo re-emphasized it Monday by taking the measure of champion Kelso in the Washington, D.C., International.

The course is grass.

Mongo had been beaten only once in five previous races on the turf. Kelso had won only once, a minor event at Saratoga in the same number of outings on grass.

Half of Kelso's grass races now have been in the International and each time he's been runnerup. He wasn't given a chance to try the turf between last year's International and the 12th running.

Mongo and Kelso together turned the International into a strictly American match race against eight others from six foreign nations. It was a dozen lengths back to the third place Nyrcos from France.

After the first half mile, during which Mongo twice repulsed Ireland's Christmas Island, there was only Kelso to make it a race. The champ also made two passes at Mongo but failed by one-half length.

Jockey Ismael Valenzuela tried to win for Kelso through a foul claim. All it did was hold up Mongo's $90,000 bite of the $15,000 in prize money for 23 nervous minutes.

For Mrs. Richard C. duPont, owner of Kelso, the $25,000 second prize was a solace as it left her 6-year-old gelding only less than $500,000 away from being the first earner of $2 million.

Kelso has earned $1,581,702 45 races, 31 of which he's won.

Mongo, two years younger, is still only half way to his first million.

Dickinson Cops Pro-Am Title at Sinatra Tourney

By JOE ST. AMANT

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Frank Sinatra, the thin singer, has gotten his feet wet in the game of sponsoring a golf tournament, and he seemed today to be enjoying the memory of it.

The five-day tournament—variously known as the Sinatra fun-rest and swing-fest at the Canyon Country Club — ended Monday with an 18-hole pro-amateur event.

Gardner Dickinson, a slim southerner who resembles Ben Hogan, took top individual honors and won $1,070. He had won $1,760 for this sixth-place tie in the open which ended Sunday so his total loot was $2,830. He shot a six-under-par 65 in the pro-am.

The preceding day in the open he had a triple-bogey eight on the same hole — and this cost him about $1,000.

Second in individual pro scoring in the pro-am was Gay Brewer, 31-year old Dallas, Tex. pro, who won $870 to go with the $110 he picked up in the open. He had a 66 in the pro-am.

Third pro-am man was Tony Lema who had a 67 and won $770 to go with the $875 he won in the open.

Sinatra, a golfer for only about three years, played in the pro-am event and had a ball. His team, headed by pro Bo Wininger, finished out of the money with a best ball net of 60 but no one seemed to care.

Winning pro-am team was led by Mason Rudolph who won $800 in addition to the $2,800 he got for a third-place tie in the open.

Bing Crosby, Ray Milland, Bob Wagner, Danny Thomas, Andy Williams, Dean Martin, Howard Keel and Frankie Laine took their shots with the pros.

Corrigan May Be Lost To Wildcats

By United Press International

As if Kansas State doesn't have enought football problems already, coach Doug Weaver said today starting quarterback Larry Corrigan probably will miss Saturday's game against Iowa State.

Corrigan, whose passing has provided Kansas State with its only offensive threat of the year, was injured last week when Texas Tech bombed the Wildcats 51-13. The injury, a pulled muscle, has not responded to treatment.

Iowa State, meanwhile, ran through a 50 - minute drill Monday to work out some kinks in its offensive patterns. Coach Clay Stapleton was disappointed that his team was unable to put together a sustained drive in last week's 27 - 14 loss to Oklahoma.

The coaches of Oklahoma and Missouri, who meet Saturday in a Big Eight showdown match, thoroughly soaked their crying towels Monday.

"At Colorado, we played as well as we know how," said Missouri coach Dan Devine, speaking of his team's 28-7 victory over the Buffaloes last week.

"But I doubt if that will be good enough to beat Oklahoma."

Assistant Oklahoma coach Jerry Thompson, who scouted Missouri's victory over Colorado, warned the Sooners that Missouri is "probably the best team we've met this year, with exception of Texas."

"Defensively, they are the best team we've played against," said Thompson.

Coach Bud Wilkinson agreed and added that Oklahoma was not playing up to his expectations.

"It's a matter of consistency," he said. "We'll play quite well for a while, then miss a handoff, a block or a tackle."

Oklahoma State heard a scouting report on Nebraska Monday, then ran through a short drill.

Palmer Still Leads Golf Money Winners

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI) — Arnold Palmer, who won the Wills Masters of Australia last weekend, remained first among golf's leading money earners in PGA sanctioned tournaments.

Although Palmer's Australian earnings did not count, he still has totaled $128,230 to lead Jack Nicklaus' runnerup total of $98,990.

'CU Plan' To Produce Win Team

DENVER (UPI)—"The Colorado Plan," an ambitious blueprint to produce a winning football team at the University of Colorado, was outlined Monday by ex-Gov. Dan Thornton.

The former governor, a strong supporter of CU athletics, told the Buffalo Club in Denver a goal of $100,000 has been set to underwrite athletic scholarships, primarily for football. The program will be conducted in strict compliance with NCAA and Big Eight Conference rules, he said.

"This is the kind of program that will entice the right kind of students—high class athletes —who will be future leaders of this state," Thornton said. "We hope this plan will gain national recognition. . . . It is an honorable program."

The Buffalo Club already has raised $50,000—half the money needed to get the operation started. Business firms in the state will be asked for $35,000 and a goal of $15,000 has been set for the school's alumni.

Tribe Meets Durango In State Semi-Finals

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

The Indians of Cheyenne Mountain, undefeated winners of the 1963 Pikes Peak League championship, are preparing for an invasion of the Western Slope in search of State Class AA honors.

Eldon Helm's Tribe is slated to battle Durango this Saturday in the state semi-finals. Durango defeated Cortez, 25-13, Monday afternoon to cop the Southwestern League title and a berth in the state semi-finals. The winner of the Cheyenne-Durango playoff contest will host the winner of the Lamar-Thornton game (also scheduled for Saturday) the following week, Saturday, Nov. 23, on its home field.

Durango scored three of its touchdowns on passes. Two of the scoring passes were thrown by Randy Blackman, and one by Rick Beitler.

But a siege of injuries may hinder the Indians' chances against Durango. With the exception of triple-threat quarterback, Gary Graham, the entire starting backfield is ailing. The Tribe's fullback, bread-'n-butter man Greg Cramblit, sat out the last two games because of a cleet spike infection in the shin. Cramblit was hospitalized last week, and Helm is uncertain whether or not the 182-pound junior will be able to play against Durango.

In addition, the Indians' fastest runner, Bob Richardson, is nursing a hip pointer along with the other starting halfback, Chuck McGee. Both lads saw limited action playing on the second half against St. Mary's last Saturday.

Cheyenne concluded its 1963 regular schedule with an 8-0-1 won-lost-tied record as the Pirates of St. Mary's deadlocked the Tribe, 2-20, last Saturday in a non-league encounter.

Altho the Tribe was beset by a siege of injuries which took its toll on eight key Cheyenne players including Cramblit, Helm's charges were beaten to the punch by an aroused Pirate team in the first half.

In addition to taking a 13-0 halftime margin, the Bucs took the advantage in statistics as St. Mary's halfback Dave Adamson and fullback Sam Zavatti rammed thru the Indians' unorganized defenses in that opening first half to dominate the offensive play.

But Helm went to his ailing first team halfbacks, Richardson and McGee, to pull out the victory. However, it was Graham that guided the Cheyenne team on both offense and defense to deadlock St. Mary's in the annual inter-city rivalry.

Terry MacKey's Panthers of Harrison, rated the loop's "dark horse" at the onset of the 1963 PPL season, was the most improved squad in the loop to cop second place behind Cheyenne. The Panthers only dropped one contest, losing that game to the potent Indians, 56-0, while the Harrison aggregation deadlocked last year's runner-ups, Florence, (6-6) to compile its 6-1-1 won-lost-tied record.

Altho the Panthers possessed a capable line, their main attack came from the backfield with field general Danny Gieck leading the forward charge at quarterback. But it was Harrison's 155-pound halfback, Lonie Mayo, that ignited the Panther drive. The talented Mayo established a PPL total rushing yardage record when he accumulated a whopping 1,519 yards in 10 games to surpass last year's mark set by former Widefield star, Rusty Henninger, who compiled 1,300 yards.

But the Panthers' line proved the spark plug that pulled out the runner-up slot for the Harrison team when the defensive wall stopped defending PPL kingpins from Air Academ High, 20-13. Defensive, tackle Tom Elliott and Mayo provided key tackles that stifled further scoring threats. Elliott proved a consistent menace on defense along with end Eddie Hook, and guard Mike Gilliland.

In addition to his scoring prowess, Mayo also captured the PPL individual scoring race with 117 points via 17 touchdowns and 15 conversions in eight league games. Against Manitou Springs, Mayo went on a scoring spree as he tallied 40 points to lead the Panthers over the Mustangs, 47-6.

The Kadets concluded their slate with a 6-2 mark to finish in third place behind the strong running of fullback Roger Karolick, halfback Rob Stockhouse, and the passing of sophomore Mike Owens.

Florence nabbed fourth place despite a host of early season injuried which sidelined Husky speedster, Mike Lebya. Dick Shadwell developed into a strong runner towards the end of the season at fullback, while qaurterback Terry Stevens directed the forward attack with authority.

The league's most disappointing squad, Widefield, nailed down the sixth place in loop standing altho they boasted two capable runners in fullback Rodney Coates, and halfback Claude Burke. The Spartans of Salida could only manage a 3-5 record despite their hefty line averaging 196 pounds, and big Ed Ehmke lugging the pigskin from the fullback position.

Meanwhile, Centennial slid past the majority of the SCL opposition by narrow margins before the outburst in the final two weeks.

East will be much heavier, especially in the line, but that about encompasses the Angels' advantages. Centennial has great breakaway speed, excellent experience, and superior competition to draw upon.

The Bulldogs didn't need all those points last weekend, but they certainly did need a victory. Gib Funk's defending champion Wasson team kept the pressure on by refusing to give in. Wasson stepped past Pueblo East 12-7 in an excellent game in Colorado Springs, thereby forcing a Centennial victory to assure the championship.

Other windup action saw Palmer come from behind to whack Pueblo Central 21-13 and clinch third place. Trinidad moved into a tie for fourth by dropping Grand Junction, 13-0, in Trinidad.

Centennial's brilliant array of backs laid South to rest in the first six minutes of the opening quarter in Pueblo. The Bulldogs romped across the goal line three times in the first five plays they ran from scrimmage and South was never even close to being in the ball game. Centennial halfback, Bob Armijo, scored four touchdowns — and a couple of those were accidental as the Bulldogs proved to have just too much for their opponents. It was so ridiculous in the second half that Armijo, in to punt, missed the snap, picked up the ball and raced 82 yards for the final score.

Wasson, rebounding well from its disasterous night against Centennial, returned to a familiar formula to defeat Mel Spence's tough Eagles. The T-Birds pulled the lever on their ball control game and shut East off with 35 plays from scrimmage while Wasson ran 68.

Fullback Mike Teague closed a tremendous career by turning in his finest effort with 144 yards from scrimmage. That snapped Doug Dienelt's one game mark of 141 and also boosted Teague to 1,032 yards for the season, easily the best one season record in Wasson history. Wasson had a two touchdown lead when Bill Meeks slipped away for a 59 yard scoring run just before halftime. The Eagles had one last shot in the final two periods but Jim Smith picked off a pass at his own nine and Wasson then ate up the clock with a 19 play drive that was at the East two when the gun ended.

Palmer, reeling behind a 13-0 score in Pueblo Saturday night, sent quarterback Walt Hylton and halfback Alan Snyder Wildcat hunting and they came back with a kill. Hylton threw TD strikes of 61 and 88 yards to the nimble Hylton on a pair of sensational plays just before halftime as Palmer took control of the game and rolled to its seventh victory of the season.

Trinidad an up-and-down team thruout the campaign, responded to the Dutch Nogel whip the final week of the season and climbed back into the first division with a pair of second quarter touchdowns and stout work by the always-tough defense.

The final week of action left the topsy-turvy conference with nearly the same first division as a year ago. Centennial, 2-4-1, in 1962, was the only replacement, forcing Junction down the ladder. Wasson, first a year ago, fell to second; Palmer remained third; and Trinidad fell from second into a tie for fourth.

AAU-NCAA Feud Rages Before Olympic Group

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Olympic Committee has ended its last session before the 1964 Olympics with no permanent solution in sight for the split between the Amateur Athletic Union and the colleges.

Neither the AAU nor the National Collegiate Athletic Association showed any letup during the two-day biennial meeting of the hostilities that once threatened to wreck America's hopes next year in Tokyo. The meeting ended Monday.

Aftr mediation by Gen. Douglas MacArthur, both sides agreed earlier this year to a truce in their conflict until after the 1964 Olympics.

However, this didn't stop both sides from maneuvering for more power on the Olympic Committee. They kept up a running battle throughout the two days.

Just before final adjournment, committee president Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson commented:

"I leave here with a heavy hart . . . I was sincere in my plea that we should not have bloc voting, that we should consider each issue on its merits."

The conflict began Sunday when AAU forces reversed the committee's board of directors on the question of granting a newly formed federation sanction to represent the United States on the International Federation for Baseball.

The NCAA backed the high schools and junior colleges in seeking more votes in the new organization. The AAU opposed and it was voted down.

The NCAA wanted President Kennedy given authority to name three members of the board of dirctors to represent the public and help mediate the disput. The AAU, which once favored this, opposed it and it was beaten.

As adopted by the committee, the armed forces membership was increased from one to four on the board of directors, and President Kennedy will name one non-voting member to represent the inter-agency committee on international sports.

The AAU remained in complete command throughout the session, winning every vote. And the net effect of the voting realignment is to give it further strength.

Kathy Whitworth Wins Civitan Golf Playoff

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—Kathy Whitworth of Jal, N.M., parred the first hole of a sudden death playoff Monday and won the $8,500 San Antonio Civitan golf tournament over resurging Mickey Wright of Dallas.

Miss Wright overcame a three-stroke deficit to tie Miss Whitworth in the final round of the 72-hole meet. The Dallas woman bogied the playoff when she landed in a sand trap at the Pecan Valley course.

Ruth Jessen of Seattle, tied for the lead at the end of 54 holes, shot a 76 for 300 and took third place. The two leaders carded 299 at the end of the 72 holes regulation play.

Miss Whitworth won $1,300 for a $24,533 season total and Miss Wright pocketed $1,000 for $29,399.50 total.

'Shotgun' in AFA Arsenal

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

The hunting season this fall runs two more weeks as far as the Cadets from the Air Force Academy are concerned. And they'll be out to bag a suddenly ferocious Lobo and a Buffalo — both with a newly loaded shotgun.

The AFA brought the "shotgun" out of its arsenal last weekend against UCLA and it worked so well in the 48-21 victory over the Bruins that now it's a sure bet that the Falcons will use the new formation as a regular weapon the rest of the season.

The new formation, a form of the short punt with spread ends and wingback, makes use of the talents of Terry Isaacson to the utmost. Taking a direct snap from center in the tailback slot, Isaacson ran and passed for 258 yards last week against the Uclans — four yards short of the all-time AFA single game total offense record.

"It's part of our offense now," scouting coach Jim Bowman told the local quarterback club on Monday. "You can expect to see it against New Mexico and Colorado in our last two games."

Monday, the Falcons looked at movies of the UCLA conquest and heard Bowman's report on the Lobos, the next AFA opponent at Albuquerque this Saturday. A two-hour workout was on the schedule for today.

"New Mexico has a lot of speed in its backfield," Bowman said. "They will be hard to contain and now that they've won their last three games they'll have a lot of spirit for our game."

In their last three, the Lobos have beaten Montana (24-6), Colorado State University (25-0), and last weekend upset highly respected Wyoming, 17-6.

At Albuquerque, Coach Bill Weeks told his team they "will have to play even harder against the Falcons than they did in the game against Wyoming." The New Mexico team came thru last weekend without injuries, however, and will be at full strength for the AFA.

Monday, New Mexico practiced an hour and then viewed films of their Wyoming game. In that one, the Lobos ran for 186 yards against the Pokes' rugged defense and held Wyoming's passing attack down by limiting them to but seven completions in 22 attempts for 89 yards.

Guard Jack Abendschan, despite a cast on his arm, opened the scoring with a 40-yard field goal, and the Lobos had a 17-0 lead on two touchdowns by halfback Bucky Stallings before Wyoming was able to dent the scoreboard in the fourth period.

It was New Mexico's fourth victory in seven games and kept them in the race for Western Athletic Conference honors with a 1-1 record. The weekend following the Air Force invasion, New Mexico travels to Arizona for a showdown with the Wildcats, undefeated leaders of the WAC.

Besides Isaacson's sensational play from both the "shotgun" formation and the regular Flexible-T of Coach Ben Martin's system, the Falcons had fine performance by halfback Dick Czarnota, fullback Steve Amdor and halfback Paul Wargo. All of them had more rushing yardage than the entire UCLA team combined.

Martin explained that many of the things that worked so well against UCLA last Saturday were actually planned for Army, the previous week. That included the "shotgun" formation, and the halfback pass from Kenny Jaggers to another sophomore, end Fritz Greenlee, that clicked for a 67-yard scoring play.

"We were just never in position to use them effectively against Army," Martin said. "But we'd been working on them. Against UCLA, tho, Terry really got the feel of the new formation."

The victory gave the AFA a record of five wins against three defeats this fall and a chance to finish with the best mark since the undefeated team of 1958.

Texas Tops College AP Poll

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — As the only major college team still unbeaten and untied, despite the slender margins of victory, Texas retained its spot as the nation's No. 1 football team this week.

The Longhorns were first on 48 of 53 ballots and took the top spot for the fifth straight week by a comfortable margin.

The panel of sports writers and broadcasters voting in the weekly Associated Press poll also meted out recognition as due to other winners and losers. Navy, Michigan State, Oklahoma and Pitt rose in the rankings while Illinois, Auburn and Ohio State went down.

Texas, winning its eighth straight game, had to go all out to win a squeaker from Baylor 7-0. That was the fourth in a row won by no more than a touchdown. Instead of discounting the Longhorns because of those margins, the experts gave them a whopping total of 526 points on the scoring basis of 10 points for a first place vote, nine for second, etc. That came on 48 firsts, four seconds and one vote for fifth.

Navy moved up from fourth to second with 446 points, replacing Illinois, which skidded far down the list after a 14-8 loss to Michigan.

Mongo Dominates Kelso; Wins International Race

By GEORGE BOWEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—A handy guide for bettors is "Horses for Courses." Mongo re-emphasized it Monday by taking the measure of champion Kelso in the Washington, D.C., International.

The course is grass.

Mongo had been beaten only once in five previous races on the turf. Kelso had won only once, a minor event at Saratoga in the same number of outings on grass.

Half of Kelso's grass races now have been in the International and each time he's been runnerup. He wasn't given a chance to try the turf between last year's International and the 12th running.

Mongo and Kelso together turned the International into a strictly American match race against eight others from six foreign nations. It was a dozen lengths back to the third place Nyrcos from France.

After the first half mile, during which Mongo twice repulsed Ireland's Christmas Island, there was only Kelso to make it a race. The champ also made two passes at Mongo but failed by one-half length.

Jockey Ismael Valenzuela tried to win for Kelso through a foul claim. All it did was hold up Mongo's $90,000 bite of the $15,000 in prize money for 23 nervous minutes.

For Mrs. Richard C. duPont, owner of Kelso, the $25,000 second prize was a solace as it left her 6-year-old gelding only less than $500,000 away from being the first earner of $2 million.

Kelso has earned $1,581,702 45 races, 31 of which he's won.

Mongo, two years younger, is still only half way to his first million.

Dickinson Cops Pro-Am Title at Sinatra Tourney

By JOE ST. AMANT

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Frank Sinatra, the thin singer, has gotten his feet wet in the game of sponsoring a golf tournament, and he seemed today to be enjoying the memory of it.

The five-day tournament—variously known as the Sinatra fun-rest and swing-fest at the Canyon Country Club — ended Monday with an 18-hole pro-amateur event.

Gardner Dickinson, a slim southerner who resembles Ben Hogan, took top individual honors and won $1,070. He had won $1,760 for this sixth-place tie in the open which ended Sunday so his total loot was $2,830. He shot a six-under-par 65 in the pro-am.

The preceding day in the open he had a triple-bogey eight on the same hole — and this cost him about $1,000.

Second in individual pro scoring in the pro-am was Gay Brewer, 31-year old Dallas, Tex. pro, who won $870 to go with the $110 he picked up in the open. He had a 66 in the pro-am.

Third pro-am man was Tony Lema who had a 67 and won $770 to go with the $875 he won in the open.

Sinatra, a golfer for only about three years, played in the pro-am event and had a ball. His team, headed by pro Bo Wininger, finished out of the money with a best ball net of 60 but no one seemed to care.

Winning pro-am team was led by Mason Rudolph who won $800 in addition to the $2,800 he got for a third-place tie in the open.

Bing Crosby, Ray Milland, Bob Wagner, Danny Thomas, Andy Williams, Dean Martin, Howard Keel and Frankie Laine took their shots with the pros.

Palmer Still Leads Golf Money Winners

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UPI) — Arnold Palmer, who won the Wills Masters of Australia last weekend, remained first among golf's leading money earners in PGA sanctioned tournaments.

Although Palmer's Australian earnings did not count, he still has totaled $128,230 to lead Jack Nicklaus' runnerup total of $98,990.

Corrigan May Be Lost To Wildcats

By United Press International

As if Kansas State doesn't have enought football problems already, coach Doug Weaver said today starting quarterback Larry Corrigan probably will miss Saturday's game against Iowa State.

Corrigan, whose passing has provided Kansas State with its only offensive threat of the year, was injured last week when Texas Tech bombed the Wildcats 51-13. The injury, a pulled muscle, has not responded to treatment.

Iowa State, meanwhile, ran through a 50 - minute drill Monday to work out some kinks in its offensive patterns. Coach Clay Stapleton was disappointed that his team was unable to put together a sustained drive in last week's 27 - 14 loss to Oklahoma.

The coaches of Oklahoma and Missouri, who meet Saturday in a Big Eight showdown match, thoroughly soaked their crying towels Monday.

"At Colorado, we played as well as we know how," said Missouri coach Dan Devine, speaking of his team's 28-7 victory over the Buffaloes last week.

"But I doubt if that will be good enough to beat Oklahoma."

Assistant Oklahoma coach Jerry Thompson, who scouted Missouri's victory over Colorado, warned the Sooners that Missouri is "probably the best team we've met this year, with exception of Texas."

"Defensively, they are the best team we've played against," said Thompson.

Coach Bud Wilkinson agreed and added that Oklahoma was not playing up to his expectations.

"It's a matter of consistency," he said. "We'll play quite well for a while, then miss a handoff, a block or a tackle."

'CU Plan' To Produce Win Team

DENVER (UPI)—"The Colorado Plan," an ambitious blueprint to produce a winning football team at the University of Colorado, was outlined Monday by ex-Gov. Dan Thornton.

The former governor, a strong supporter of CU athletics, told the Buffalo Club in Denver a goal of $100,000 has been set to underwrite athletic scholarships, primarily for football. The program will be conducted in strict compliance with NCAA and Big Eight Conference rules, he said.

"This is the kind of program that will entice the right kind of students—high class athletes—who will be future leaders of this state," Thornton said. "We hope this plan will gain national recognition. . . . It is an honorable program."

The Buffalo Club already has raised $50,000—half the money needed to get the operation started. Business firms in the state will be asked for $35,000 and a goal of $15,000 has been set for the school's alumni.

Tribe Meets Durango In State Semi-Finals

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

The Indians of Cheyenne Mountain, undefeated winners of the 1963 Pikes Peak League championship, are preparing for an invasion of the Western Slope in search of State Class AA honors.

Eldon Helm's Tribe is slated to battle Durango this Saturday in the state semi-finals. Durango defeated Cortez, 25-13, Monday afternoon to cop the Southwestern League title and a berth in the state semi-finals. The winner of the Cheyenne-Durango playoff contest will host the winner of the Lamar-Thornton game (also scheduled for Saturday) the following week, Saturday, Nov. 23, on its home field. Durango scored three of its touchdowns on passes. Two of the scoring passes were thrown by Randy Blackman, and one by Rick Beitler.

But a siege of injuries may hinder the Indians' chances against Durango. With the exception of triple-threat quarterback, Gary Graham, the entire starting backfield is ailing. The Tribe's fullback, bread-'n-butter man Greg Cramblit, sat out the last two games because of a cleet spike infection in the shin. Cramblit was hospitalized last week, and Helm is uncertain whether or not the 182-pound junior will be able to play against Durango.

In addition, the Indians' fastest runner, Bob Richardson, is nursing a hip pointer along with the other starting halfback, Chuck McGee. Both lads saw limited action playing on the second half against St. Mary's last Saturday.

Cheyenne concluded its 1963 regular schedule with an 8-0-1 won-lost-tied record as the Pirates of St. Mary's deadlocked the Tribe, 2-20, last Saturday in a non-league encounter.

Altho the Tribe was beset by a siege of injuries which took its toll on eight key Cheyenne players including Cramblit, Helm's charges were beaten to the punch by an aroused Pirate team in the first half.

In addition to taking a 13-0 halftime margin, the Bucs took the advantage in statistics as St. Mary's halfback Dave Adamson and fullback Sam Zavatti rammed thru the Indians' unorganized defenses in that opening first half to dominate the offensive play.

But Helm went to his ailing first team halfbacks, Richardson and McGee, to pull out the victory. However, it was Graham that guided the Cheyenne team on both offense and defense to deadlock St. Mary's in the annual inter-city rivalry.

Terry MacKey's Panthers of Harrison, rated the loop's "dark horse" at the onset of the 1963 PPL season, was the most improved squad in the loop to cop second place behind Cheyenne. The Panthers only dropped one contest, losing that game to the potent Indians, 56-0, while the Harrison aggregation deadlocked last year's runner-ups, Florence, (6-6) to compile its 6-1-1 won-lost-tied record.

Altho the Panthers possessed a capable line, their main attack came from the backfield with field general Danny Gieck leading the forward charge at quarterback. But it was Harrison's 155-pound halfback, Lonie Mayo, that ignited the Panther drive. The talented Mayo established a PPL total rushing yardage record when he accumulated a whopping 1,519 yards in 10 games to surpass last year's mark set by former Widefield star, Rusty Henninger, who compiled 1,300 yards.

But the Panthers' line proved the spark plug that pulled out the runner-up slot for the Harrison team when the defensive wall stopped defending PPL kingpins from Air Academ High, 20-13. Defensive, tackle Tom Elliott and Mayo provided key tackles that stifled further scoring threats. Elliott proved a consistent menace on defense along with end Eddie Hook, and guard Mike Gilliland.

In addition to his scoring prowess, Mayo also captured the PPL individual scoring race with 117 points via 17 touchdowns and 15 conversions in eight league games. Against Manitou Springs, Mayo went on a scoring spree as he tallied 40 points to lead the Panthers over the Mustangs, 47-6.

The Kadets concluded their slate with a 6-2 mark to finish in third place behind the strong running of fullback Roger Karolick, halfback Rob Stockhouse, and the passing of sophomore Mike Owens.

Florence nabbed fourth place despite a host of early season injuried which sidelined Husky speedster, Mike Lebya. Dick Shadwell developed into a strong runner towards the end of the season at fullback, while qaurterback Terry Stevens directed the forward attack with authority.

The league's most disappointing squad, Widefield, nailed down the sixth place in loop standing altho they boasted two capable runners in fullback Rodney Coates, and halfback Claude Burke. The Spartans of Salida could only manage a 3-5 record despite their hefty line averaging 196 pounds, and big Ed Ehmke lugging the pigskin from the fullback position.

Grudge Battle on Mat Card Tonite

A grudge battle involving entirely different techniques will be the highlight of tonight's professional wrestling show at the City Auditorium when Wildman Bill Fletcher and Rocky Smith meet in the card's feature.

The first of three bouts is slated for 8:30 p.m., with the feature the final match. Tickets are available at the City Auditorium box office.

Since coming to Colorado, Smith has been defeated by only one human — that being Fletcher. Thus Smith, a popular wrestler who likes to stick with the rules and regulations, has asked for this return bout. They'll go for the best two of three falls over an hour's time limit.

Last week, Smith stepped into the ring to pinch-hit for Fletcher when the latter failed to show up for his scheduled battle with Victor, the 400-pound wrestling bear. Fletcher claims he "had car trouble" in getting to the match, but Promoter Abe Marylander has slapped a $500 bond on the 222-pounder from Seattle to make sure he's here this week.

Marylander feels that Fletcher may have been "scared of the bear and purposely failed to appear." So it's a sure bet that Fletcher will make the bout tonight with the 214-pound Smith from Little Rock, Ark. Fletcher likes the roughouse tactics, but probably thought Victor was even a little too rough for him.

Smith was pinned for the second time in his Colorado career by Victor.

In the semi-main event, Jose Quintero will pit his 228 pounds, direct from Havana, Cuba, against giant Hercules McIntyre of Chicago. McIntyre, one of the roughest and strongest men in the business, weighs in at 260 pounds. He's recently been in main events in Chicago, Boston and several of the large arenas in Florida.

Hercules is reputed to be the strongest man in wrestling and has demonstrated his skill by pulling an automobile with his hair or teeth, lifting a motor (over 450 pounds) or by letting a man break a boulder with a sledge hammer on his chest. He depends strictly on this strength to win matches.

Quintero, a bearded badman from Cuba, has had a tough time winning since coming to this state. He complains that most of his opponents so far have "been too small." Quintero thinks he'll do better against a bigger man "who doesn't run around the ring so much."

In the first match of the evening, Ricardo Cortez of Juarez, Mex., will test Danny Loos, Jr., of Denver in one fall ofer a 30-minute time limit. Cortez will come into the ring at 212 pounds and Loos at 215.

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

For the most part, the calibre of bowling in this locale has been considerable lower than last year at this same time. But last Wednesday, Jim Davidson, bowling in the Kings Handicap League at Peak Bowl, turned in the area's first "700" scratch series for the season when he put together games of 212, 224, and 267 for a 703.

Presently carting a 179 average, Davidson established a new high scratch series record in the Kings Handicap League. The previous high set was a 697 in that loop.

Prior to the magic "700" series, Davidson recorded a 643 paced by a 257 game. Last year's All-Events champion in the City Tournament was also a member of the winning team that won first place in that same tourney with a 3080 score.

Ohl, Egan Lead Pistons Past Lakers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bailey Howell had a bad hand, but Don Ohl and John Egan had hot hands.

Howell was out of the Detroit line-up Monday night but Ohl and Egan each scored 27 points and led the Pistons to a 116-109 National Basketball Association victory over the Los Angeles Lakers.

The Lakers, however, held onto the Western Division lead as the second-place St. Louis Hawks lost to Boston's Eastern Division front-runners 116-110 in the only other game scheduled. It was the ninth victory in 10 games for the Celtics.

Ohl put the Pistons ahead to stay early in the second quarter. Then Egan led a third quarter spurt after three baskets by Elgin Baylor had pulled Los Angeles to within four points at 65-61. Baylor led the Lakers with 28 points and Dick Barnett chipped in with 27.

Olympic Skiers Hunting for Snow

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — The snow-starved United States Olympic ski team left here Monday night for whiter pastures in the high Sierra of California.

For the next 11 days, the eight men and six women will train at Mammoth Mountain, where there reportedly is two feet of snow. Colorado resorts have only a few inches of cover, so far.

Guided by coach Bob Beattie, the team has been training at St. Mary's Glacier, southwest of here, since Oct. 1.

Beattie's wife said the team would return here Nov. 22 and depart two days later for Europe. The skiers will take part in pre-Olympic races and get in some downhill training before the Olympics start at Innsbruck, Austria, in late January.

The Chicago White Sox won seven of nine games in Cleveland last season.

Grudge Battle on Mat Card Tonite

A grudge battle involving entirely different techniques will be the highlight of tonight's professional wrestling show at the City Auditorium when Wildman Bill Fletcher and Rocky Smith meet in the card's feature.

The first of three bouts is slated for 8:30 p.m., with the feature the final match. Tickets are available at the City Auditorium box office.

Since coming to Colorado, Smith has been defeated by only one human — that being Fletcher. Thus Smith, a popular wrestler who likes to stick with the rules and regulations, has asked for this return bout. They'll go for the best two of three falls over an hour's time limit.

Last week, Smith stepped into the ring to pinch-hit for Fletcher when the latter failed to show up for his scheduled battle with Victor, the 400-pound wrestling bear. Fletcher claims he "had car trouble" in getting to the match, but Promoter Abe Marylander has slapped a $500 bond on the 222-pounder from Seattle to make sure he's here this week.

Marylander feels that Fletcher may have been "scared of the bear and purposely failed to appear." So it's a sure bet that Fletcher will make the bout tonight with the 214-pound Smith from Little Rock, Ark. Fletcher likes the roughouse tactics, but probably thought Victor was even a little too rough for him.

Smith was pinned for the second time in his Colorado career by Victor.

In the semi-main event, Jose Quintero will pit his 228 pounds, direct from Havana, Cuba, against giant Hercules McIntyre of Chicago. McIntyre, one of the roughest and strongest men in the business, weighs in at 260 pounds. He's recently been in main events in Chicago, Boston and several of the large arenas in Florida.

Hercules is reputed to be the strongest man in wrestling and has demonstrated his skill by pulling an automobile with his hair or teeth, lifting a motor (over 450 pounds) or by letting a man break a boulder with a sledge hammer on his chest. He depends strictly on this strength to win matches.

Quintero, a bearded badman from Cuba, has had a tough time winning since coming to this state. He complains that most of his opponents so far have "been too small." Quintero thinks he'll do better against a bigger man "who doesn't run around the ring so much."

In the first match of the evening, Ricardo Cortez of Juarez, Mex., will test Danny Loos, Jr., of Denver in one fall ofer a 30-minute time limit. Cortez will come into the ring at 212 pounds and Loos at 215.

Ohl, Egan Lead Pistons Past Lakers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bailey Howell had a bad hand, but Don Ohl and John Egan had hot hands.

Howell was out of the Detroit line-up Monday night but Ohl and Egan each scored 27 points and led the Pistons to a 116-109 National Basketball Association victory over the Los Angeles Lakers.

The Lakers, however, held onto the Western Division lead as the second-place St. Louis Hawks lost to Boston's Eastern Division front-runners 116-110 in the only other game scheduled. It was the ninth victory in 10 games for the Celtics.

Ohl put the Pistons ahead to stay early in the second quarter. Then Egan led a third quarter spurt after three baskets by Elgin Baylor had pulled Los Angeles to within four points at 65-61. Baylor led the Lakers with 28 points and Dick Barnett chipped in with 27.

Olympic Skiers Hunting for Snow

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — The snow-starved United States Olympic ski team left here Monday night for whiter pastures in the high Sierra of California.

For the next 11 days, the eight men and six women will train at Mammoth Mountain, where there reportedly is two feet of snow. Colorado resorts have only a few inches of cover, so far.

Guided by coach Bob Beattie, the team has been training at St. Mary's Glacier, southwest of here, since Oct. 1.

Beattie's wife said the team would return here Nov. 22 and depart two days later for Europe. The skiers will take part in pre-Olympic races and get in some downhill training before the Olympics start at Innsbruck, Austria, in late January.

The Chicago White Sox won seven of nine games in Cleveland last season.

Grain Market

CHICAGO (AP) — Nearly all grain futures contracts traded in a weaker range today on the Board of Trade.

New crop wheat months held onto small gains in the early afternoon after having posted advances of well over a cent in early activity.

Hedge seling weakened corn, and soybeans eased on profit-cashing as traders were inclined to await the government monthly crop report to be issued Tuesday after the close of the market.

Carlot receipts were estimated at: wheat 15, corn 478, oats none, rye 1, barley 38, soybeans 14.

SALISBURY — Judge, jury and lawyers all ate ice cream during a recent trial in Rhodesia to determine patent rights to an ice cream making machine.

Rail Advance Featured in Irregular Trade

NEW YORK (AP)—A continued advance by rails featured an irregular stock market early this afternoon.

Fractional gains and losses were the general rule for most key stocks.

Rails still were encouraged by the apparent agreement on sale of U.S. wheat to Russia which would involve an increase in carloadings.

No particular leadership was displayed by other groups, however.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .3 at 282.1 with industrials off .1, rails up .7 and utilities up .1.

Baltimore & Ohio gained a full point while fractional gains were made by New York Central, Pennsylvania Railroad, (ex dividend).

Sugar stocks also moved generally higher.

Profits were taken by traders in some recent gainers. CBS and Bulova lost more than a point each while Xerox slipped more than 3. U.S. Smelting dropped a point.

IBM advanced more than 5 and Polaroid better than 2.

Active fractional gainers included American Photocopy, Tidewater Oil, Schick and General Time.

Also affected by profit-taking, Chrysler slipped nearly a point. Other leading auto stocks showed scant change. Steels were slightly lower on balance.

Airlines continued mostly higher although Eastern was down a fraction in further reaction to its reported nine-months loss. Pan American rose nearly a point.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .21 at 753.56.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate and U.S. government bonds were irregular.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Alexander Hamilton Institute says that "with the market in a confused state and with sentiment on the outlook about evenly divided, investors would be wise to have some liquid assets and await developments."

The institute notes that the market—as represented by fair-to-good quality stocks — presents a curious situation. "On the one hand," it explains, "many blue chip issues that have led the market's advance appear to have discounted near-term prospects and, at present prices, provide mediocre yields. On the other hand, a large number of good quality issues among the chemicals, steels, tobaccos and papers provide better returns and appear headed for gradual earnings and price improvement. These could prove to be the market leaders in 1964, provided general business continues at a high level."

E. F. Hutton & Co. says that "all in all the market has taken a number of body blows over the last few days in a manner which suggests that it is quite healthy indeed and capable of moving forward in time. Business statistics continue to be most encouraging."

Investment adviser James Dines says that "the only thing one can be certain of is that while the market is currently treacherous, selective, and one in which it is very hard to operate profitably, it will again become reliable and predictable. This is all part of the cyclical nature of the beast we deal with. Also, the longer these stalemates last, the larger the subsequent swing. We are looking forward to some real excitement."

The Dow Theory Trader says he sees no reason to be anything but bullish for the vast majority of stocks into late this year and the first half of 1964.

L. O. Hooper of W. E. Hutton & Co. says that "it would be strange if the outstanding stocks of 1964 should be the same stocks which have led the market this year. Probably we face a change in leadership, if the rises to continue. But this change is more likely to come gradually rather than to develop over a few weeks. This is a time when it may be better to feel one's way along rather than to follow an assertive policy in either direction."

CAIRO — The United Arab Republic will open bids soon for equipment to be used on the Hamrawein phosphate mine project.

Rail Advance Featured in Irregular Trade

NEW YORK (AP)—A continued advance by rails featured an irregular stock market early this afternoon.

Fractional gains and losses were the general rule for most key stocks.

Rails still were encouraged by the apparent agreement on sale of U.S. wheat to Russia which would involve an increase in carloadings.

No particular leadership was displayed by other groups, however.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .3 at 282.1 with industrials off .1, rails up .7 and utilities up .1.

Baltimore & Ohio gained a full point while fractional gains were made by New York Central, Pennsylvania Railroad, (ex dividend).

Sugar stocks also moved generally higher.

Profits were taken by traders in some recent gainers. CBS and Bulova lost more than a point each while Xerox slipped more than 3. U.S. Smelting dropped a point.

IBM advanced more than 5 and Polaroid better than 2.

Active fractional gainers included American Photocopy, Tidewater Oil, Schick and General Time.

Also affected by profit-taking, Chrysler slipped nearly a point. Other leading auto stocks showed scant change. Steels were slightly lower on balance.

Airlines continued mostly higher although Eastern was down a fraction in further reaction to its reported nine-months loss. Pan American rose nearly a point.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off .21 at 753.56.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate and U.S. government bonds were irregular.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Alexander Hamilton Institute says that "with the market in a confused state and with sentiment on the outlook about evenly divided, investors would be wise to have some liquid assets and await developments."

The institute notes that the market—as represented by fair-to-good quality stocks — presents a curious situation. "On the one hand," it explains, "many blue chip issues that have led the market's advance appear to have discounted near-term prospects and, at present prices, provide mediocre yields. On the other hand, a large number of good quality issues among the chemicals, steels, tobaccos and papers provide better returns and appear headed for gradual earnings and price improvement. These could prove to be the market leaders in 1964, provided general business continues at a high level."

E. F. Hutton & Co. says that "all in all the market has taken a number of body blows over the last few days in a manner which suggests that it is quite healthy indeed and capable of moving forward in time. Business statistics continue to be most encouraging."

Investment adviser James Dines says that "the only thing one can be certain of is that while the market is currently treacherous, selective, and one in which it is very hard to operate profitably, it will again become reliable and predictable. This is all part of the cyclical nature of the beast we deal with. Also, the longer these stalemates last, the larger the subsequent swing. We are looking forward to some real excitement."

The Dow Theory Trader says he sees no reason to be anything but bullish for the vast majority of stocks into late this year and the first half of 1964.

L. O. Hooper of W. E. Hutton & Co. says that "it would be strange if the outstanding stocks of 1964 should be the same stocks which have led the market this year. Probably we face a change in leadership, if the rises to continue. But this change is more likely to come gradually rather than to develop over a few weeks. This is a time when it may be better to feel one's way along rather than to follow an assertive policy in either direction."

Racial Boycott May Hit Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The national director of the Congress of racial equality says his organization will launch a Christmas boycott of Los Angeles stores that practice discrimination in employment.

Boycotts of chain stores that practice discrimiation will begin on a national scale next Easter, director James Farmer told a news conference Monday.

He said CORE is also investigating the employment practices of public utilities, especially the Bell Telephone System.

Spending, Saving And Debt Are All Rising

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Spending and saving and debt are all rising. This neat trick is managed by consumers because personal incomes are still increasing and so is confidence in the future.

All three activies—spending now, saving for future spending, and taking on more debt—are of prime interest to business and industry. They have a lot to do in shaping today's profit and loss statements. And they influence future business plans.

The spending rise shows up in retail sales. They hit a record last month at $20.9 billion, up 5 per cent from the previous year. They are expected to rise still more this month, especially in the auto sector, and again in December in the stores.

Takers of the business pulse are especially impressed with the increase in sales at durable goods stores, up 7 per cent from October 1962, and 5 per cent better than in September this year. Soft goods advanced only 1 per cent from September, but are 4 per cent ahead of a year ago. Nondurables are supposed to stick closer to needs, but durables are affected more by the waxing or waning of confidence.

The consumer is still the main prop of the economy, in spite of the rise in government and business spending. And when consumers loosen up the purse strings, up goes the general feeling of well-being.

Confidence is even more reflected in the rising volume of consumer installment credit. Some of this taking on of debt is out of necessity. But much of it is out of belief, however soundly based, that future incomes can absorb it without pain.

Total outstanding consumer credit in September reached $66.3 billion, up $6 billion from the previous year. Installment credit was $51.6 billion of that, and $5.3 billion more than a year ago.

Since the September figures were compiled, auto credit outstanding has increased and this month many expect it to zoom. Auto dealers report more trouble in getting deliveries than in finding customers. If so, the need for credit will grow.

With all this spending and taking on of more debts, many Americans are still increasing their savings.

The various institutions — banks, insurance companies, and the many variety of funds—report increased totals of their holdings of the public's savings. At mid year savings were running at an annual rate of $29.4 billion, up $2.5 billion from the first of the year.

$100 in Change Stolen From Machine

Approximately $100 in change was stolen Monday from a pin ball machine at the Circle Bowl Lanes, 999 N. Circle Dr., the sheriff's office reported.

Deputy Sheriffs Bob Walters and Franklin D. Ripley said Sam Herman, operator of the machines, told them the machines had been broken into several times during the past weeks. He had replaced the wooden doors on them with metal ones and it must have taken a great deal of force to open them.

Damage to the machine is estimated at $57.

New Industrial Revolution Seen By Easterner

NEW YORK — The nation is on the threshold of a Second Industrial Revolution, and great opportunities await those industrial brokers who understand it, an opening meeting of the convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards was told here Saturday.

James O. Boisi, vice president-real estate, New York Central System, appearing on a panel of the Society of Industrial Realtors, an affiliate of NAREB, said this revolution — as the first one — is being brought about by the machine.

"In the First Industrial Revolution, machines were used to substitute for man's muscle. In this new industrial revolution, machines are being used to increase the effectiveness of man's mind and judgment-machines that in the course of seconds make computations men would require years to work out, machines which make it possible for man to explore space and outer space, machines which make it possible to use and evaluate masses of information for better management techniques," he explained.

"With the advent of this technology, certain changes in our industrial economy are bound to take place. These are changes which will undoubtedly require location of new plants, relocation of existing industries, expansion of others.

"It seems to me, therefore, we are on a threshold of a bright new future — the threshold of a Second Industrial Revolution. To industrial brokers, therefore, this means bright, new opportunities. These opportunities must be exploited, however.

"They can be availed of only by those who understand, those who are perceptive, perhaps even having intuition. In short, they must have a knowledge of what's going on around them."

Boisi said the Second Industrial Revolution was the beginning of a third phase in American history. The first occurred as the nation expanded territorially and increased its agricultural production. In the second phase, the Industrial Revolution, the nation developed economically and became a proud and strong influence in the world, the vice-president said.

Chief Space Designer Disclosed in Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Informed sources say the chief designer of Soviet space ships is Valentin Petrovich Glushko, 55, a member of the Soviet Academy of Sciences. Another top man in the program is Segei Pavlovich Korolyov, 57, also an academy member.

The Soviet Union has sought to keep secret the names of its top space scientists.

Glushko was credited with development of liquid-fueled rockets in the 1930s. He is now director of the academy's solid fuel institute.

Korolyov is credited with developing a glider in 1940 which got its initial push from rocket power. He is now director of the institute of machine studies.

Peru Students Hurt As Bomb Is Tossed

LIMA, Peru (AP)—Men identified as Communists hurled a five-bomb at Raul Haya de la Torre defeated presidential candidate in the last elections, while the political leader was giving a lecture at Trujillo University Monday.

Haya was unhurt but two students were wounded. Student followers of his Aprista party pursued the Communists and four were hurt in an ensuing fist fight.

Spaceship for Years Of Travel Planned

NEW DELHI (AP) — Soviet cosmonaut Andrian Nikolayev says the Soviet Union is planning a spaceship that will sustain life in outer space for three years — the estimated time required for a round trip to Mars or Venus.

Nikolayev told scientists at the Indian National Physical Laboratory Monday that the round trip actually would take 14 months, but spacemen would have to spend almost two years on the planets to wait for a proper orbital position for the return flight.

On Sunday, Soviet cosmonaut Valery Bykovsky told a news conference the Soviet Union is studying the possibilities of launching space ships in sections and assembling them in space.

"Future spaceships will have to be bigger and in all probability manned by an international crew," Nikolayev said.

American Wheat Sent To Yemen as Aid

SAN'A, Yemen (AP) — The Yemen government is trying to decide how to distribute 3,000 tons of American aid wheat.

Poor communications and lack of statistics make it difficult to assess the needs of the various districts and the absence of roads make delivery difficult.

The shipload of wheat arrived at Port Hodeidah last week. A committee formed yesterday will decide how it will be used.

RUTS REMAIN

Spending, Saving And Debt Are All Rising

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Spending and saving and debt are all rising. This neat trick is managed by consumers because personal incomes are still increasing and so is confidence in the future.

All three activies—spending now, saving for future spending, and taking on more debt—are of prime interest to business and industry. They have a lot to do in shaping today's profit and loss statements. And they influence future business plans.

The spending rise shows up in retail sales. They hit a record last month at $20.9 billion, up 5 per cent from the previous year. They are expected to rise still more this month, especially in the auto sector, and again in December in the stores.

Takers of the business pulse are especially impressed with the increase in sales at durable goods stores, up 7 per cent from October 1962, and 5 per cent better than in September this year. Soft goods advanced only 1 per cent from September, but are 4 per cent ahead of a year ago. Nondurables are supposed to stick closer to needs, but durables are affected more by the waxing or waning of confidence.

The consumer is still the main prop of the economy, in spite of the rise in government and business spending. And when consumers loosen up the purse strings, up goes the general feeling of well-being.

Confidence is even more reflected in the rising volume of consumer installment credit. Some of this taking on of debt is out of necessity. But much of it is out of belief, however soundly based, that future incomes can absorb it without pain.

Total outstanding consumer credit in September reached $66.3 billion, up $6 billion from the previous year. Installment credit was $51.6 billion of that, and $5.3 billion more than a year ago.

Since the September figures were compiled, auto credit outstanding has increased and this month many expect it to zoom. Auto dealers report more trouble in getting deliveries than in finding customers. If so, the need for credit will grow.

With all this spending and taking on of more debts, many Americans are still increasing their savings.

The various institutions — banks, insurance companies, and the many variety of funds—report increased totals of their holdings of the public's savings. At mid year savings were running at an annual rate of $29.5 billion, up $2.5 billion from the first of the year.

$100 in Change Stolen From Machine

Approximately $100 in change was stolen Monday from a pin ball machine at the Circle Bowl Lanes, 999 N. Circle Dr., the sheriff's office reported.

Deputy Sheriffs Bob Walters and Franklin D. Ripley said Sam Herman, operator of the machines, told them the machines had been broken into several times during the past weeks. He had replaced the wooden doors on them with metal ones and it must have taken a great deal of force to open them.

Damage to the machine is estimated at $57.

New Industrial Revolution Seen By Easterner

NEW YORK — The nation is on the threshold of a Second Industrial Revolution, and great opportunities await those industrial brokers who understand it, an opening meeting of the convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards was told here Saturday.

James O. Boisi, vice president-real estate, New York Central System, appearing on a panel of the Society of Industrial Realtors, an affiliate of NAREB, said this revolution — as the first one — is being brought about by the machine.

"In the First Industrial Revolution, machines were used to substitute for man's muscle. In this new industrial revolution, machines are being used to increase the effectiveness of man's mind and judgment-machines that in the course of seconds make computations men would require years to work out, machines which make it possible for man to explore space and outer space, machines which make it possible to use and evaluate masses of information for better management techniques," he explained.

"With the advent of this technology, certain changes in our industrial economy are bound to take place. These are changes which will undoubtedly require location of new plants, relocation of existing industries, expansion of others.

"It seems to me, therefore, we are on a threshold of a bright new future — the threshold of a Second Industrial Revolution. To industrial brokers, therefore, this means bright, new opportunities. These opportunities must be exploited, however.

"They can be availed of only by those who understand, those who are perceptive, perhaps even having intuition. In short, they must have a knowledge of what's going on around them."

Boisi said the Second Industrial Revolution was the beginning of a third phase in American history. The first occurred as the nation expanded territorially and increased its agricultural production. In the second phase, the Industrial Revolution, the nation developed economically and became a proud and strong influence in the world, the vice-president said.

Chief Space Designer Disclosed in Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Informed sources say the chief designer of Soviet space ships is Valentin Petrovich Glushko, 55, a member of the Soviet Academy of Sciences. Another top man in the program is Segei Pavlovich Korolyov, 57, also an academy member.

The Soviet Union has sought to keep secret the names of its top space scientists.

Glushko was credited with development of liquid - fueled rockets in the 1930s. He is now director of the academy's solid fuel institute.

Korolyov is credited with developing a glider in 1940 which got its initial push from rocket power. He is now director of the institute of machine studies.

Spaceship for Years Of Travel Planned

NEW DELHI (AP) — Soviet cosmonaut Andrian Nikolayev says the Soviet Union is planning a spaceship that will sustain life in outer space for three years — the estimated time required for a round trip to Mars or Venus.

Nikolayev told scientists at the Indian National Physical Laboratory Monday that the round trip actually would take 14 months, but spacemen would have to spend almost two years on the planets to wait for a proper orbital position for the return flight.

On Sunday, Soviet cosmonaut Valery Bykovsky told a news conference the Soviet Union is studying the possibilities of launching space ships in sections and assembling them in space.

"Future spaceships will have to be bigger and in all probability manned by an international crew," Nikolayev said.

American Wheat Sent To Yemen as Aid

SAN'A, Yemen (AP) — The Yemen government is trying to decide how to distribute 3,000 tons of American aid wheat.

Poor communications and lack of statistics make it difficult to assess the needs of the various districts and the absence of roads make delivery difficult.

The shipload of wheat arrived at Port Hodeidah last week. A committee formed yesterday will decide how it will be used.

and how to avoid them

Many of the estimated 17,000,000 Americans who are shareowners have acquired stock to have a second income from dividends. Others hope their money will grow over the years.

Whatever your goal, you can benefit from not making these easy-to-avoid mistakes:

Mistake No. 1: Choosing your broker at random.

How to avoid: Look up a nearby Member Firm of the New York Stock Exchange. Each Member Firm is different, with its own services and characteristics. But each has these things in common: It is subject to the many regulations of the Exchange. And its Registered Representatives had to measure up to Exchange requirements when they became Member Firm brokers.

Mistake No. 2: Setting out to get rich in a hurry.

How to avoid: Ask yourself what's important to you. Then with the help of your Member Firm work out a simple long-range investment program in keeping with your circumstances.

Keep in mind that stock and bond prices go both down and up. A company may not continue to pay dividends or interest. You'll want to look for companies you think will prosper.

Mistake No. 3: Investing hastily on a tip.

How to avoid: Base your judgment on facts. Such as the company's recent record. Its earnings. The dividends it pays. The price of the stock in relation to dividends. And inquire about the greater stability bonds often provide.

Will your broker's judgment or his firm's always be right? Nobody is always right. What they will gladly give you is help based on facts as they see them—so that you can make better judgments of your own.

Mistake No. 4: Investing all the money you can find.

How to avoid: For investing use only money you don't need for living expenses or emergencies. A lot of people find it wise to invest regularly. Through our Monthly Investment Plan you can acquire stock by investing with as little as $40 every three months.

You'll find much valuable information in our booklet, "INVESTMENT FACTS." Send the coupon for a free copy.

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home's new Conservative government embarked today on a crucial struggle for victory in next year's general election with a call for modernization of British industry to get the full productive benefits of the age of automation.

The government, in Queen Elizabeth's speech from the throne opening the new session of Parliament, also announced plans for sweeping improvements in social services.

The speech, written by Sir Alec's Cabinet, promised to strive for world peace and "to support the freedom of West Berlin."

The queen's speech was read to a joint session of the House of Lords and the House of Commons by the lord chancellor, Lord Dilhorne. The queen has canceled public appearances because she is expecting her fourth child.

As Parliament reopened, political expectancy was higher than at any time since the 1959 general election. A classic contest seemed in the making between Douglas-Home, 60, a Scottish aristocrat who shed an earldom to succeed Harold Macmillan, and the Labor party's rapier - tongued leader, Harold Wilson, 47.

Recent special elections and public opinion polls indicate strongly that if national elections were held today, the Conservatives would suffer a humiliating defeat and Britain would have a Labor government for the first time since 1954.

Douglas-Home is relying on a lavish program of housing and educational expansion and industrial reform to reverse the anti-Conservative trend. Wilson contends the government can't raise the money to make good on its promises.

In advance of the throne speech, Education Minister Sir Edward Boyle announced a four-year expended program of school construction costing 80 million pounds—$224 million—a year.

Boyle said building levels would be increased a third to handle Britain's growing primary and secondary school population and replace worn - out buildings.

Surgical Supply Company to Hold Open House

Rocky Mountain Surgical Supply Co., whose headquarters are in Pueblo, will hold open house for the public Wednesday and Thursday at its Colorado Springs outlet's new location, 318 S. Wahsatch Ave.

The Colorado Springs outlet is located in Wahsatch Plaza, constructed by Robert Von Engeln, and has about 3½ times as much space as at its former location, 21 E. Colorado Ave. The new location is 25 by 90 feet in size, whereas the old location was 25 by 25 feet in area.

With added space, Rocky Mountain Surgical Supply has increased its stock here. It services the area from Colorado Springs to the Kansas line bounded on the north by U. S. Highway 24 and on the south by U. S. Highway 50.

A strictly ethical house, Rocky Mountain Surgical Supply Co. only fits braces and garments on prescriptions of doctors. It handles only surgical and sick room supplies.

Rocky Mountain Surgical stocks an artificial hip prosthesis kit and cardiovascular banks. When a surgeon is in need of an artificial vein or arterie, a cardiovascular bank, or kit, is sent out, the surgeon returning the kit after using whatever is needed.

The company also has complete laboratory supplies and equipment. Among its items is the Iron Heart, a portable pneumatic pump unit for heart resuscitation developed by Westinghouse.

Rocky Mountain Surgical Supply Co. is six years old and is headed by H. Wayne Carlisle, Pueblo, president. It services the western slope as far south as Farmington, N.M., and the area east of the Rockies from Colorado Springs south to Santa Fe, N. M.

Eleven persons are employed in Pueblo and Colorado Springs. Ed Ragsdale is manager here, and Elaine Hansen secretary. Also employed here are Howard M. and Michael Carlisle.

The Colorado Springs branch was opened in June, 1962.

EAT & RUN DEPT.

Research nutritionists in the U.S. Department of Agriculture estimate that the average person spends 12 minutes at the breakfast table. They add that this meal should supply from one-quarter to one-third of the day's total caloric requirements.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

WASHINGTON, — The most intriguing recent political development was not Gov. Rockefeller's candidacy pronouncement but the solid report that Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Maine) is flirting with the idea of trying for the Republican Presidential nomination.

Both Gov. Rockefeller and Sen. Barry Goldwater know know that this is not something to laugh off, for if Mrs. Smith becomes a third force in the March 10 New Hampshire primary, the popularity contest becomes thoroly confused.

All the buildup on the significance of this first primary in the nation has been on the basis that it would be a dramatic two-horse race. New Hampshire GOP voters would choose between Barry and Nels. What happened in the Granite State could make or break either rival for the party's July nomination.

What tantalizes the experts is trying to figure out the impact in New Hampshire on the two male rivals should Mrs. Smith's name be on the ballot.

Mrs. Smith has been in the Senate since 1949, four years longer than Goldwater. Her voting record shows she is to the left of Goldwater and to the right of Rockefeller, or as she puts it, less liberal than one and less conservative than the other. In other words, she is real middle-of-the-road.

Her kind of Republicanism is not as important as her sex, obviously should she enter the New Hampshire contest. It is considered likely that for this reason alone she could hurt Goldwater more than Rockefeller. Republican women who would turn to Goldwater because of the second-marriage issue might turn to Mrs. Smith instead.

That estimate probably oversimplifies the effect of her candidacy, especially as it appears she would have the most to gain if the Arizona Senator received the party nomination, rather than Rockefeller.

A good showing in New Hampshire, and in other selected primaries, conceivably could result in her being considered for the Vice Presidential nomination if a Westerner like Goldwater headed the ticket. Because she is from the East like Rocky, she definitely could not hope to be his running mate.

LIKE GOLDWATER, SHE OPPOSED TEST BAN PACT

On one significant issue, at least, she and Goldwater agree. They both voted against the nuclear test ban treaty. At the time it was reported that Mrs. Smith had a political motivation, an eye on becoming the first woman to be chosen to run for national office, and that a Goldwater-Smith ticket looked like the best prospect.

The possibility of Mrs. Smith contesting New Hampshire against Rockfeller and Goldwater adds a dimension to that race which has long been needed. All sorts of ridiculous polls to determine Rockefeller and Goldwater strength in the state have been taken, just as if there were not a chance of another candidate gumming up the conclusions.

The primary has been exaggereated in importance as a result. The idea that either Rocky or Goldwater could kill the other off by winning in New Hampshire has always been nonsense.

Nonsense, at least if the defeated candidate received a respectable vote, which almost always happens in New Hampshire, where the party thru the years has been factionally split.

WHAT HAPPENED TO TAFT AND KEFAUVER!

In 1952, Taft was set back when Ike (still in Paris) won the preferential primary, 46,000 to 35,000. But Mr. Republican survived that defeat, came back in Wisconsin and other primary states and only lost the nomination by a whisker.

In that same year in the Democratic primary, the late Sen. Estes Kefauver won over Harry Truman 19,800 to 16,000 but lost the Presidential nomination to Adlai Stevenson.

The mechanics of the New Hampshire primary itself need to be explained, if for no other reason than that there is no sense predicting before Jan. 30 what is likely to happen on March 10 to Rocky and Goldwater. That is the date when it will definitely be determined how many other candidates are in the contest.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith
A Rocky-Barry rival?

If Mrs. Smith's name is there, so, too, there may be many others to confuse the Goldwater and Rockefeller forces. This is because under New Hampshire law a name can be put on the Presidential preferential ballot by 100 voters — 50 in each of the state's two congressional districts.

IN NEW HAMPSHIRE, ANY NUMBER CAN PLAY

Any Republican candidate thus proposed must formally withdraw his name, or it goes on the ballot. Silence is not enough.

This means in all probability that Richard Nixon, Harold Stassen, perhaps Michigan Romney and Pennsylvania Gov. Scranton, must take personal negative action or their names will go before the GOP voters on March 10. Stassen has already indicated that he could be tempted to take on Goldwater and Rockfeller, if not Mrs. Smith.

And before Rockfeller's forces, as well as Goldwater's, make too big a splash in the fight for New Hampshire votes, they should be reminded that the state law is most emphatic about how much money they can spend.

There is a $25,000 flat limitation on primary campaign expenditures, exclusive of travel expenses. New Hampshire voters have always been sensitive about this, inclined to vote against any one not practicing the required frugality in a campaign.

Cold Rockies Air Spreads to Midwest

CHICAGO (AP)—Brisk northerly winds fanned cool air from the northern Rockies into most of the north central region and the Northeast today.

The cold air picked up moisture from the Great Lakes, setting off snow and rain showers in many areas. Light snow was reported in the higher elevations in the extreme northern sections of New York and New England. Flurries of snow and rain showers also hit other areas in the Northeast and in the north central region.

Skies were cloudy in most of the cool belt and in most of the far Northwest, with rainfall along the western Washington coast. Showers sprinkled areas in eastern Oklahoma and Arkansas and in parts of Florida. Fair weather prevailed in most of the southern sections of the nation.

Temperatures dropped to the 20s and 30s in the northern areas of the Midwest and New England. The 30s and 40s were reported in most other areas in the central part of the country with the 50s and 60s prevailing in most southern sections.

Game Shows Are Featured On Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Network television, at this time, is devoting 40 hours per week to game shows, panel shows and audience participation shows.

That is much more time than is devoted to any other single category, including soap opera, medical dramas or Westerns. Within a couple of months the time will be increased by another hour — longer than the average person's work week.

NBC is the undisputed champ, with nine of such programs crowded into its schedules for a total of 4½ hours a day five days a week. It will add an evening, once-a-week edition to its schedule when "You Don't Say," now an afternoon fixture, expands to fill a hole left by the cancellation of "Redigo," a Western, at the end of the year.

ABC holds second place in the fun and games derby, with four daytime shows and two evening programs.

CBS has only two daily shows but each of these has a once-a-week evening program as well plus the perennial nighttime, "What's My Line?" Its total will increase after the first of the year when it adds "Alumni Fun" to its Sunday afternoon schedule to help fill the hole left by the end of the football season.

"Alumni Fun" is a late replacement for "College Bowl" the sprightly quiz show featuring teams of bright college students that moved to NBC this season. The new CBS quiz show, with competing teams of well-know old grads, was seen briefly on ABC last season.

Although some shows of this type seem to go on forever, there are occasional fatalities. NBC on Dec. 30 will replace something called "People Will Talk" for another game show called "Let's Make a Deal."

If the viewer wonders about the continued network enthusiasm for games and panels, there's a simple explanation: they are comparatively inexpensive to produce and they usually draw good, if not enormous audiences.

NBC reports that Sunday night's experimental special, 77 "That Was the Week That Was," satirizing current events, drew a record number of telephone calls — 639 — at its New York headquarters, including some from points as distant as Florida and Texas.

Katherine Cole, in charge of listener calls and letters, said that 406 calls were approving, calling the program new and brilliant.

Another 233 calls were unfavorable, with viewers protesting they thought it bad taste to poke fun at the President and the clergy.

ASSIGNED—Maj. Anthony B. Perkins has been assigned to the Personnel Management Division of the Adjutant General Section at Army Air Defense Command headquarters in Colorado Springs. Before coming here he was with the Eighth U.S. Army Support Command in Korea, where he operated the 43 officers' and non-commissioned officers' clubs of the command. The major is a combat veteran of World War II, having served with a chemical smoke generator company in the Mediterranean Theater of Operations. Among other assignments, he has been Operations and training officer at headquarters of the Chemical Corps Training Command at Fort McClellan, Ala., and post adjutant of the Dugway Proving Ground in Utah. Major Perkins, his wife, and their younger son are living at 2818 Pennsylvania Ave. An older son is attending Olympic College in Bremerton, Wash.

DISH GARDEN

During the winter children may be interested in making a dish garden. Take a small flat dish, add some water, and place in it some carrot top pieces from which the greens have been cut and the bottom of a celery stalk. Put the dish in a dark place and water every day. In a few days green sprouts will appear. Bring it into the light and continue watering.

Surgical Supply Company to Hold Open House

Rocky Mountain Surgical Supply Co., whose headquarters are in Pueblo, will hold open house for the public Wednesday and Thursday at its Colorado Springs outlet's new location, 318 S. Wahsatch Ave.

The Colorado Springs outlet is located in Wahsatch Plaza, constructed by Robert Von Engeln, and has about 3½ times as much space as at its former location, 21 E. Colorado Ave. The new location is 25 by 90 feet in size, whereas the old location was 25 by 25 feet in area.

With added space, Rocky Mountain Surgical Supply has increased its stock here. It services the area from Colorado Springs to the Kansas line bounded on the north by U. S. Highway 24 and on the south by U. S. Highway 50.

A strictly ethical house, Rocky Mountain Surgical Supply Co. only fits braces and garments on prescriptions of doctors. It handles only surgical and sick room supplies.

Rocky Mountain Surgical stocks an artificial hip prosthesis kit and cardiovascular banks. When a surgeon is in need of an artificial vein or arterie, a cardiovascular bank, or kit, is sent out, the surgeon returning the kit after using whatever is needed.

The company also has complete laboratory supplies and equipment. Among its items is the Iron Heart, a portable pneumatic pump unit for heart resuscitation developed by Westinghouse.

Rocky Mountain Surgical Supply Co. is six years old and is headed by H. Wayne Carlisle, Pueblo, president. It services the western slope as far south as Farmington, N.M., and the area east of the Rockies from Colorado Springs south to Santa Fe, N. M.

Eleven persons are employed in Pueblo and Colorado Springs. Ed Ragsdale is manager here, and Elaine Hansen secretary. Also employed here are Howard M. and Michael Carlisle.

The Colorado Springs branch was opened in June, 1962.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

WASHINGTON, — The most intriguing recent political development was not Gov. Rockefeller's candidacy pronouncement but the solid report that Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Maine) is flirting with the idea of trying for the Republican Presidential nomination.

Both Gov. Rockefeller and Sen. Barry Goldwater know know that this is not something to laugh off, for if Mrs. Smith becomes a third force in the March 10 New Hampshire primary, the popularity contest becomes thoroly confused.

All the buildup on the significance of this first primary in the nation has been on the basis that it would be a dramatic two-horse race. New Hampshire GOP voters would choose between Barry and Nels. What happened in the Granite State could make or break either rival for the party's July nomination.

What tantalizes the experts is trying to figure out the impact in New Hampshire on the two male rivals should Mrs. Smith's name be on the ballot.

Mrs. Smith has been in the Senate since 1949, four years longer than Goldwater. Her voting record shows she is to the left of Goldwater and to the right of Rockefeller, or as she puts it, less liberal than one and less conservative than the other. In other words, she is real middle-of-the-road.

Her kind of Republicanism is not as important as her sex, obviously should she enter the New Hampshire contest. It is considered likely that for this reason alone she could hurt Goldwater more than Rockefeller. Republican women who would turn to Goldwater because of the second-marriage issue might turn to Mrs. Smith instead.

That estimate probably oversimplifies the effect of her candidacy, especially as it appears she would have the most to gain if the Arizona Senator received the party nomination, rather than Rockefeller.

A good showing in New Hampshire, and in other selected primaries, conceivably could result in her being considered for the Vice Presidential nomination if a Westerner like Goldwater headed the ticket. Because she is from the East like Rocky, she definitely could not hope to be his running mate.

LIKE GOLDWATER, SHE OPPOSED TEST BAN PACT

On one significant issue, at least, she and Goldwater agree. They both voted against the nuclear test ban treaty. At the time it was reported that Mrs. Smith had a political motivation, an eye on becoming the first woman to be chosen to run for national office, and that a Goldwater-Smith ticket looked like the best prospect.

The possibility of Mrs. Smith contesting New Hampshire against Rockfeller and Goldwater adds a dimension to that race which has long been needed. All sorts of ridiculous polls to determine Rockefeller and Goldwater strength in the state have been taken, just as if there were not a chance of another candidate gumming up the conclusions.

The primary has been exaggereated in importance as a result. The idea that either Rocky or Goldwater could kill the other off by winning in New Hampshire has always been nonsense.

Nonsense, at least if the defeated candidate received a respectable vote, which almost always happens in New Hampshire, where the party thru the years has been factionally split.

WHAT HAPPENED TO TAFT AND KEFAUVER!

In 1952, Taft was set back when Ike (still in Paris) won the preferential primary, 46,000 to 35,000. But Mr. Republican survived that defeat, came back in Wisconsin and other primary states and only lost the nomination by a whisker.

In that same year in the Democratic primary, the late Sen. Estes Kefauver won over Harry Truman 19,800 to 16,000 but lost the Presidential nomination to Adlai Stevenson.

The mechanics of the New Hampshire primary itself need to be explained, if for no other reason than that there is no sense predicting before Jan. 30 what is likely to happen on March 10 to Rocky and Goldwater. That is the date when it will definitely be determined how many other candidates are in the contest.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith
A Rocky-Barry rival?

If Mrs. Smith's name is there, so, too, there may be many others to confuse the Goldwater and Rockefeller forces. This is because under New Hampshire law a name can be put on the Presidential preferential ballot by 100 voters — 50 in each of the state's two congressional districts.

IN NEW HAMPSHIRE, ANY NUMBER CAN PLAY

Any Republican candidate thus proposed must formally withdraw his name, or it goes on the ballot. Silence is not enough.

This means in all probability that Richard Nixon, Harold Stassen, perhaps Michigan Romney and Pennsylvania Gov. Scranton, must take personal negative action or their names will go before the GOP voters on March 10. Stassen has already indicated that he could be tempted to take on Goldwater and Rockfeller, if not Mrs. Smith.

And before Rockfeller's forces, as well as Goldwater's, make too big a splash in the fight for New Hampshire votes, they should be reminded that the state law is most emphatic about how much money they can spend.

There is a $25,000 flat limitation on primary campaign expenditures, exclusive of travel expenses. New Hampshire voters have always been sensitive about this, inclined to vote against any one not practicing the required frugality in a campaign.

Cold Rockies Air Spreads to Midwest

CHICAGO (AP)—Brisk northerly winds fanned cool air from the northern Rockies into most of the north central region and the Northeast today.

The cold air picked up moisture from the Great Lakes, setting off snow and rain showers in many areas. Light snow was reported in the higher elevations in the extreme northern sections of New York and New England. Flurries of snow and rain showers also hit other areas in the Northeast and in the north central region.

Skies were cloudy in most of the cool belt and in most of the far Northwest, with rainfall along the western Washington coast. Showers sprinkled areas in eastern Oklahoma and Arkansas and in parts of Florida. Fair weather prevailed in most of the southern sections of the nation.

Temperatures dropped to the 20s and 30s in the northern areas of the Midwest and New England. The 30s and 40s were reported in most other areas in the central part of the country with the 50s and 60s prevailing in most southern sections.

Game Shows Are Featured On Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Network television, at this time, is devoting 40 hours per week to game shows, panel shows and audience participation shows.

That is much more time than is devoted to any other single category, including soap opera, medical dramas or Westerns. Within a couple of months the time will be increased by another hour — longer than the average person's work week.

NBC is the undisputed champ, with nine of such programs crowded into its schedules for a total of 4½ hours a day five days a week. It will add an evening, once-a-week edition to its schedule when "You Don't Say," now an afternoon fixture, expands to fill a hole left by the cancellation of "Redigo," a Western, at the end of the year.

ABC holds second place in the fun and games derby, with four daytime shows and two evening programs.

CBS has only two daily shows but each of these has a once-a-week evening program as well plus the perennial nighttime, "What's My Line?" Its total will increase after the first of the year when it adds "Alumni Fun" to its Sunday afternoon schedule to help fill the hole left by the end of the football season.

"Alumni Fun" is a late replacement for "College Bowl" the sprightly quiz show featuring teams of bright college students that moved to NBC this season. The new CBS quiz show, with competing teams of well-know old grads, was seen briefly on ABC last season.

Although some shows of this type seem to go on forever, there are occasional fatalities. NBC on Dec. 30 will replace something called "People Will Talk" for another game show called "Let's Make a Deal."

If the viewer wonders about the continued network enthusiasm for games and panels, there's a simple explanation: they are comparatively inexpensive to produce and they usually draw good, if not enormous audiences.

NBC reports that Sunday night's experimental special, 77 "That Was the Week That Was," satirizing current events, drew a record number of telephone calls — 639 — at its New York headquarters, including some from points as distant as Florida and Texas.

Katherine Cole, in charge of listener calls and letters, said that 406 calls were approving, calling the program new and brilliant.

Another 233 calls were unfavorable, with viewers protesting they thought it bad taste to poke fun at the President and the clergy.

ASSIGNED—Maj. Anthony B. Perkins has been assigned to the Personnel Management Division of the Adjutant General Section at Army Air Defense Command headquarters in Colorado Springs. Before coming here he was with the Eighth U.S. Army Support Command in Korea, where he operated the 43 officers' and non-commissioned officers' clubs of the command. The major is a combat veteran of World War II, having served with a chemical smoke generator company in the Mediterranean Theater of Operations. Among other assignments, he has been Operations and training officer at headquarters of the Chemical Corps Training Command at Fort McClellan, Ala., and post adjutant of the Dugway Proving Ground in Utah. Major Perkins, his wife, and their younger son are living at 2818 Pennsylvania Ave. An older son is attending Olympic College in Bremerton, Wash.

DISH GARDEN

During the winter children may be interested in making a dish garden. Take a small flat dish, add some water, and place in it some carrot top pieces from which the greens have been cut and the bottom of a celery stalk. Put the dish ina dark place and water every day. In a few days green sprouts will appear. Bring it into the light and continue watering.

Gazette Carrier Prize Received 60 Years Ago

Harry B. Richter, 2324 W. Vermijo Ave., a resident of Colorado Springs since 1892, was 73 years old Monday. Long a widower, he sat down to dinner with his cat on the floor beside the table and, to celebrate the occasion, got out an old phonograph which as a boy carrier of the Colorado Springs Gazette, 60 years ago, he won in a subscription contest. He could find only one second for it, "The Preacher and the Bear."

The cat bent its head attentively, in the best manner of the ancient dog in the advertisement. But the phonograph let both the cat and Richter down. The sounding part of the machine was broken. The cog wheels that turned the record holder lacked seven teeth. Out of the horn came only, GER!R GERRER! and a run-down of Ger-er-er-er — in lower case. The cat didn't like it. Richter said he didn't think so much of it himself.

Richter remembers well the days when he carried the Gazette in old Colorado City. He worked in the Golden Cycle Mill, now a thing of the past, for 18 years. He has worked as a carpenter and followed other trades. He last worked in the West Side Welding Shop.

It was at 2018 W. Cucharras St., the old family home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Richter, where the squeaky phonograph had reposed for many years. That is now the home of a son, Orval Richter. Harry Richter recently took the phonograph down from a high shelf. He says he may try to repair it. He thinks it must be one of the first ever made.

He has two daughters, Mrs. Mabel Schneider and Miss Juanita Richter, both of Colorado Springs.

Recently the Gazette Telegraph in a subscription contest awarded one of its carriers a portable TV set. Some difference!

Man Injured In Three-Car Crash Monday

Max Martinez, 35, of 105 S. Black Forest Rd., suffered a possible broken nose and a concussion in a three car accident Monday evening, the State Patrol reported. Martinez was taken to Penrose Hospital.

Martinez was driving east in the westbound lanes of Fillmore St. when his car hit a westbound car and forced it into a third automobile, according to the report.

The drivers of the other two cars were not injured. They were identified as James D'Entremont, 42, Rt. 4, Box 334, and Wilson MacIntosh, 45, of Littleton.

Laundromat Coin Boxes Reported Stolen

Charles Wilbur of Toms Tubs Laundromat, 3009 N. Hancock Ave., reported to the sheriff's office Monday that four coin boxes on the washing machines had been stolen.

Deputy Sheriff Bob Snuggs said the boxes which contained $14.40 had been forced off causing $20 damage. The theft happened late Sunday night or early Monday morning.

Youths Admit Destroying Feeding Grain

Two teen-aged boys, one 10 and the other 11, admitted destroying 20 bushels of horse feeding grain worth $75, the sheriff's department reported Monday.

Deputy Sheriff Edward Oakenham said Dr. Rolofson of 69 Marland Rd. reported that the horse feed had been spilled all over the ground and destroyed.

Two boys had been seen in the area, but when they were contacted both denied it. One of them however had grain in the cuffs of his pants. Later they admitted destroying the grain and restitution will be made to the doctor.

Speaker Says Added Productivity Brings Farmers Greater Problems

Increased agricultural productivity is bringing more problems to farmers, Dr. Willard W. Cochrane, director, agricultural economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture, told the stockholders of the Federal Land Bank of Wichita Monday at their conference meeting in the Broadmoor International Center.

"The farm output has been outracing the market, as measured by population growth, during the past two decades," Dr. Cochrane said. "This is the big story of modern American agriculture.

"The increased productivity of agriculture," he went on, "is the result of a technological revolution.

"The principal components of this revolution in crop productin have been:

1. Greater use of fertilizer in combination with more plants per acre.

2. Improved crop varieties.

3. More power and machinery, leading to better timing of farm operations.

4. Better farm management."

With these improved cropping practices, Dr. Cochrane said, corn, wheat and cotton yields increased tremendously.

He pointed out that live stock reproduction has very nearly kept pace with crop production.

"Mechanization," he said, "has proceeded at a rapid pace. Between 1950 and 1962 the number of forage harvesters quadrupled, the number of corn pickers nearly doubled, and the number of tractors increased by 38 per cent."

Associated with these technological developments, Dr. Cochrane told his audience, there has occurred a basic restructuring of American agriculture. In the aggregate, total farm inputs have reamined about constant, while there was a 54 per cent increase in total farm output between 1940 and 1962.

"This represents a tremendous change in production efficiency," he said.

"But the stability in total farm inputs masks the dramatic changes in the input mix," he went on. "Farm labor has been replaced by farm machinery, purchased fertilizer, seed, feed, and other inputs."

The total man-hours of labor used decreased 40 per cent over the period 1950-1962, he said.

"Associated with these changes in the input-mix in agriculture," Dr. Cochrane went on, "there has been a rapid increase in farm size.

"Between 1949 and 1959, farms marketing products to the value of $20,000 and over increased 36 per cent; farms marketing between $10,000 and $20,000 increased 89 per cent; farm marketing between $5,000 and $10,000 decreased nine percent; farms marketing between $2,500 and $5,000 decreased 30 percent; and farms marketing under $2,500 decreased 50 percent."

Dr. Cochrane told the audience that the total number of farms has been decreasing at the rate of about 200,000 a year.

The effect of the technological revolution, he went on, is to create a downward pressure on farm prices, hence upon gross and net farm income.

This is the reason, he said, that the administration has adopted a policy of supply management. Supply management, he emphasized, is simply a means of keeping the growth of farm output in step with the growth in demand for farm products.

Dr. Cochrane cited for the land bank stockholders an implication for farm financing.

Individual farmers, and farmers in the aggregate, he said, are going to use increasing amounts of capital and will have increasing needs for credit.

The nearly 800 stockholders at the meeting were also addressed by R. B. Tootell, Governor of the Farm Credit Administration, who told them, "The success of the last half-century will not give all the answers as we plan for progress in financing our farms and ranches in the future."

Because the internal generation of capital on most farms has not been adequate to finance the rapid changes occurring, Gov. Tootell said, increased use of credit has become a necessity of most farmers.

"Farmers and ranchers of the United States," he went on, are using approximately twice the amount of credit they used only 10 years ago.

"An increasing proportion of it is being provided by the cooperative Farm Credit System," he reported.

The Federal Land Bank System hold about one-fifth of the long-term mortgage farm loans in the country, he continued. For the year ended June 30, 1963, nearly 362,000 farmers and ranchers nationally had a record of $3.2 billion outstanding in loans from the banks.

Gov. Tootell went on to say, "The Cooperative Farm Credit System, which is supervised by the Farm Credit Administration and which lent U.S. farmers and their cooperatives a total of $5.3 billion in the fiscal year just ended, will provide an increasing proportion of the even larger amount of credit which will be used in the years ahead."

Gov. Tootell expressed concern about the farms and ranches of the nation.

"Who is going to control agriculture?" he asked.

There are two possibilities, he said. 1. The very large farms, managed and owned by corporate groups of people. There could be 100,000 of these, producing 90 percent of all ranch and farm products.

2. Efficient family-operated ranches and farms. It would take about one million of these to produce 90 percent of the products.

The latter class would have the greater need for the lending facilities of the Cooperative Farm Credit System.

Hurt Soldier in Good Condition

Robert Cornell Hunt, 23, of Ft. Carson was in good condition this morning at the post hospital after having first been in critical condition due to injuries he received in a fight at a night club early Sunday.

Hunt was stabbed at Duncan's Cotton Club, 25 W. Colorado Ave. Police are holding two suspects in the case.

Hunt was admitted to the hospital suffering from lacerations and a collapsed lung caused by a stab wound in his left shoulder.

Texas Man Booked Into County Jail

Valentin Joe Salazar, 18, of Dallas, Tex. was booked into county jail Monday following a signed complaint alleging disturbance, the sheriff's department reported this morning.

According to Deputy Sheriffs Bob Walters and Bernard Barry, Salazar was a TB patient at the Cragmoor Sanitorium and left there Monday afternoon to return at 7:45 p.m. drunk and causing a disturbance.

A doctor at the sanitorium who wanted Salazar committed to county jail for the night, signed the complaint, and he was then transported there. By this time, the deputies said, he had passed out.

Arrangements are being made today to have him transferred to Denver General Hospital.

Police Checking Theft and Robbery Cases

Police this morning were investigating two cases of theft and one case of assault with intent to commit robbery.

A Ft. Carson soldier was being held after he entered the Nuggett Jewelry Store and attempted to hold up the clerk, Arthur Ray Haas.

Haas resisted and a man from a neighboring store heard noise when Haas and the man got into a scuffle.

He investigated and upon seeing Haas and the man fighting, he called to Police Officers Charles Davis and W. I. Finstrom, who happened to be across the street from the store. Nuggett Jewelry is located at 109 E. Colorado Ave.

Officers said the soldier admitted he was trying to rob the store. He was placed in city jail.

Cash in the amount of $232 was taken from a safe at the Underpass Texaco Service Station, 948 S. Nevada Ave., Sunday night or Monday morning.

The safe was not forced open. The owner of the station is C. B. Cram of 132 Rainbow Pl. Officers said that all employes at the station have consented to take lie detector tests.

Automobile parts and other items worth over $116 were stolen from the garage of J. W. Burks between Nov. 4 and 11.

Burks, who lives at 2412 W. St. Vrain, told officers the missing items included an impact wrench and an air compressor with spray gun.

PALMER PLAY REHEARSAL — Palmer high school students rehearse Arthur Miller's "The Crucible" which is scheduled to be performed Nov. 14 and 15 at 8:15 p.m. Left to right in front are Peggy Mola and Gerry Pierce. Behind them are Laura McCauley and Mike Neeley.

'The Crucible' To Be Presented At Palmer High

Curtain time for Palmer High School's Masque and Sandal production of Arthur Miller's "The Crucible" is 8:15 p.m. on Thursday and Friday.

A drama about the Salem witch trials of 1692, "The Crucible" was written following Miller's earlier successes, "All My Sons" and "Death of a Salesman."

Concerning the historical accuracy of the play, Miller says "This play is not history in the sense in which the word is used by the academic historian. The fate of each character is exactly that of his historical model and there is no one in the drama who did not play a similar, and in some cases, exactly the same role in history."

The construction of units to represent five different scenes in and about Salem have been supervised by Scott Matteson, scenery head.

Othr students assisting in the production aspects include: John Bassler, lighting; Jane Hey, properties; Lee Huffman and Kathy Heyse, make-up; Charlotte Crandall and Sandi Howard, costumes; Ann Gillespie and Sharon Howard, publicity, and Ellen Matteson, sound.

Margie Fenhagen is assistant director.

A forign exchange student at Palmer, Sema Ege, will play the role of Tituba, a slave in the household of the Rev. Mr. Parris, played by Chris McCauley.

Tickets may be purchased or reserved at the Palmer business office or by contacting Masque and Sandal members.

Cleave Mozley of the Olson Plumbing Co., 116 N. Weber St., reported to the sheriff's office Monday that eight electric flashers and eight stands were stolen from a site on the Garden of the Gods Road, west of the freeway.

Deputy Sheriff Al Moore said a ditch is being dug there and the flashers and stands were left by the side of it Friday night.

The flashers are orange in color with the name Olson on them, and the stands are red with silver stripes.

Fourth Offense Brings Youth $35 Traffic Fine

A guilty plea Monday to a signal light violation drew a $35 fine for Dennis Baker, 18, 2994 W. Fontanero St., when Municipal Court Judge Allan Asher pointed out that this was the youth's fourth traffic offense this year.

Baker volunteered the information that he had been driving without a license, when cited, explaining that his license had been suspended on Nov. 6.

A $25 fine was levied against Frank Elwood, 22, 214 S. Tejon St., who pleaded guilty to speeding. This was Elwood's third traffic violation this year.

David Shanks, 18, 2508 N. Cascade Ave., pleaded guilty to careless driving, which made his third violation this year, and Judge Asher imposed a $35 fine.

Fines were imposed against others Monday as follows: Kenneth Canfield, 24, 517 E. Kiowa St., displaying a for sale sign, $5, suspended.

Fred Garcia, 16, 2526 W. Broadway St., speeding, $15; Joseph Zedack, 22, Ent Air Air Force Base, speeding, $25; Ruby Burks, 36, 1216 W. Pikes Peak Ave., careless driving, $25; and Phillip Waggoner, 24, Ft. Carson, reckless driving, $50, and his right to drive in the city suspended for 20 days.

A charge of parking in an alley was dismissed against Tompy Cleveland, 46, 1202 W. Kiowa St., and a muffler violation charge against Lonnie Houtchens, 16, 703½ S. 8th St., was reduced to a warning ticket.

Danny Jernigan, 24, Fort Worth, Tex., was found not guilty on a charge of careless driving.

Leroy Clark, 25, Ft. Carson, was represented by counsel who requested a jury trial for Clark, charged with speeding. A trial date will be set today.

Friday: George Chambon, 42, 2821 W. Boulder St., careless driving; Lino Ramos, 22, 946 E. Moreno St., careless driving.

Gazette Carrier Prize Received 60 Years Ago

Harry B. Richter, 2324 W. Vermijo Ave., a resident of Colorado Springs since 1892, was 73 years old Monday. Long a widower, he sat down to dinner with his cat on the floor beside the table and, to celebrate the occasion, got out an old phonograph which as a boy carrier of the Colorado Springs Gazette, 60 years ago, he won in a subscription contest. He could find only one second for it, "The Preacher and the Bear."

The cat bent its head attentively, in the best manner of the ancient dog in the advertisement. But the phonograph let both the cat and Richter down. The sounding part of the machine was broken. The cog wheels that turned the record holder lacked seven teeth. Out of the horn came only, GER'R GERRER! and a run-down of Ger-er-er-er — in lower case. The cat didn't like it. Richter said he didn't think so much of it himself.

Richter remembers well the days when he carried the Gazette in old Colorado City. He worked in the Golden Cycle Mill, now a thing of the past, for 18 years. He has worked as a carpenter and followed other trades. He last worked in the West Side Welding Shop.

It was at 2018 W. Cucharras St., the old family home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Richter, where the squeaky phonograph had reposed for many years. That is now the home of a son, Orval Richter. Harry Richter recently took the phonograph down from a high shelf. He says he may try to repair it. He thinks it must be one of the first ever made.

He has two daughters, Mrs. Mabel Schneider and Miss Juanita Richter, both of Colorado Springs.

Recently the Gazette Telegraph in a subscription contest awarded one of its carriers a portable TV set. Some difference!

Youths Admit Destroying Feeding Grain

Two teen-aged boys, one 10 and the other 11, admitted destroying 20 bushels of horse feeding grain worth $75, the sheriff's department reported Monday.

Two boys had been seen in the area, but when they were contacted both denied it. One of them however had grain in the cuffs of his pants. Later they admitted destroying the grain and restitution will be made to the doctor.

Speaker Says Added Productivity Brings Farmers Greater Problems

Increased agricultural productivity is bringing more problems to farmers, Dr. Willard W. Cochrane, director, agricultural economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture, told the stockholders of the Federal Land Bank of Wichita Monday at their conference meeting in the Broadmoor International Center.

"The farm output has been outracing the market, as measured by population growth, during the past two decades," Dr. Cochrane said. "This is the big story of modern American agriculture.

"The increased productivity of agriculture," he went on, "is the result of a technological revolution.

"The principal components of this revolution in crop productin have been:

1. Greater use of fertilizer in combination with more plants per acre.

2. Improved crop varieties.

3. More power and machinery, leading to better timing of farm operations.

4. Better farm management."

With these improved cropping practices, Dr. Cochrane said, corn, wheat and cotton yields increased tremendously.

He pointed out that live stock reproduction has very nearly kept pace with crop production.

"Mechanization," he said, "has proceeded at a rapid pace. Between 1950 and 1962 the number of forage harvesters quadrupled, the number of corn pickers nearly doubled, and the number of tractors increased by 38 per cent."

Associated with these technological developments, Dr. Cochrane told his audience, there has occurred a basic restructuring of American agriculture. In the aggregate, total farm inputs have reamined about constant, while there was a 54 per cent increase in total farm output between 1940 and 1962.

"This represents a tremendous change in production efficiency," he said.

"But the stability in total farm inputs masks the dramatic changes in the input mix," he went on. "Farm labor has been replaced by farm machinery, purchased fertilizer, seed, feed, and other inputs."

The total man-hours of labor used decreased 40 per cent over the period 1950-1962, he said.

"Associated with these changes in the input-mix in agriculture," Dr. Cochrane went on, "there has been a rapid increase in farm size.

"Between 1949 and 1959, farms marketing products to the value of $20,000 and over increased 36 per cent; farms marketing between $10,000 and $20,000 increased 89 per cent; farm marketing between $5,000 and $10,000 decreased nine percent; farms marketing between $2,500 and $5,000 decreased 30 percent; and farms marketing under $2,500 decreased 50 percent."

Dr. Cochrane told the audience that the total number of farms has been decreasing at the rate of about 200,000 a year.

The effect of the technological revolution, he went on, is to create a downward pressure on farm prices, hence upon gross and net farm income.

This is the reason, he said, that the administration has adopted a policy of supply management. Supply management, he emphasized, is simply a means of keeping the growth of farm output in step with the growth in demand for farm products.

Dr. Cochrane cited for the land bank stockholders an inplication for farm financing.

Individual farmers, and farmers in the aggregate, he said, are going to use increasing amounts of capital and will have increasing needs for credit.

The nearly 800 stockholders at the meeting were also addressed by R. B. Tootell, Governor of the Farm Credit Administration, who told them, "The success of the last half-century will not give all the answers as we plan for progress in financing our farms and ranches in the future."

Because the internal generation of capital on most farms has not been adequate to finance the rapid changes occurring, Gov. Tootell said, increased use of credit has become a necessity of most farmers.

"Farmers and ranchers of the United States," he went on, are using approximately twice the amount of credit they used only 10 years ago.

"An increasing proportion of it is being provided by the cooperative Farm Credit System," he reported.

The Federal Land Bank System hold about one-fifth of the long-term mortgage farm loans in the country, he continued. For the year ended June 30, 1963, nearly 362,000 farmers and ranchers nationally had a record of $3.2 billion outstanding in loans from the banks.

Gov. Tootell went on to say, "The Cooperative Farm Credit System, which is supervised by the Farm Credit Administration and which lent U.S. farmers and their cooperatives a total of $5.3 billion in the fiscal year just ended, will provide an increasing proportion of the even larger amount of credit which will be used in the years ahead."

Gov. Tootell expressed concern about the farms and ranches of the nation.

"Who is going to control agriculture?" he asked.

There are two possibilities, he said. 1. The very large farms, managed and owned by corporate groups of people. There could be 100,000 of these, producing 90 percent of all ranch and farm products.

2. Efficient family-operated ranches and farms. It would take about one million of these to produce 90 percent of the products.

The latter class would have the greater need for the lending facilities of the Cooperative Farm Credit System.

Texas Man Booked Into County Jail

Valentin Joe Salazar, 18, of Dallas, Tex. was booked into county jail Monday following a signed complaint alleging disturbance, the sheriff's department reported this morning.

According to Deputy Sheriffs Bob Walters and Bernard Barry, Salazar was a TB patient at the Cragmoor Sanitorium and left there Monday afternoon to return at 7:45 p.m. drunk and causing a disturbance.

A doctor at the sanitorium who wanted Salazar committed to county jail for the night, signed the complaint, and he was then transported there. By this time, the deputies said, he had passed out.

Police Checking Theft and Robbery Cases

Police this morning were investigating two cases of theft and one case of assault with intent to commit robbery.

A Ft. Carson soldier was being held after he entered the Nuggett Jewelry Store and attempted to hold up the clerk, Arthur Ray Haas.

Haas resisted and a man from a neighboring store heard noise when Haas and the man got into a scuffle.

He investigated and upon seeing Haas and the man fighting, he called to Police Officers Charles Davis and W. I. Finstrom, who happened to be across the street from the store. Nuggett Jewelry is located at 109 E. Colorado Ave.

Officers said the soldier admitted he was trying to rob the store. He was placed in city jail.

Cash in the amount of $232 was taken from a safe at the Underpass Texaco Service Station, 948 S. Nevada Ave., Sunday night or Monday morning.

The safe was not forced open. The owner of the station is C. B. Cram of 132 Rainbow Pl. Officers said that all employes at the station have consented to take lie detector tests.

Automobile parts and other items worth over $116 were stolen from the garage of J. W. Burks between Nov. 4 and 11.

Burks, who lives at 2412 W. St. Vrain, told officers the missing items included an impact wrench and an air compressor with spray gun.

'The Crucible' To Be Presented At Palmer High

Curtain time for Palmer High School's Masque and Sandal production of Arthur Miller's "The Crucible" is 8:15 p.m. on Thursday and Friday.

A drama about the Salem witch trials of 1692, "The Crucible" was written following Miller's earlier successes, "All My Sons" and "Death of a Salesman."

Concerning the historical accuracy of the play, Miller says "This play is not history in the sense in which the word is used by the academic historian. The fate of each character is exactly that of his historical model and there is no one in the drama who did not play a similar, and in some cases, exactly the same role in history."

The construction of units to represent five different scenes in and about Salem have been supervised by Scott Matteson, scenery head.

Othr students assisting in the production aspects include: John Bassler, lighting; Jane Hey, properties; Lee Huffman and Kathy Heyse, make-up; Charlotte Crandall and Sandi Howard, costumes; Ann Gillespie and Sharon Howard, publicity, and Ellen Matteson, sound.

Margie Fenhagen is assistant director.

A forign exchange student at Palmer, Sema Ege, will play the role of Tituba, a slave in the household of the Rev. Mr. Parris, played by Chris McCauley.

Tickets may be purchased or reserved at the Palmer business office or by contacting Masque and Sandal members.

QUESTION: In the parable of the ten virgins were all ten saved at one time, or were the five foolish one lost? —I. J.

ANSWER: Jesus did not say that the five were saved and the other five lost. Read your own Bible. It is found in Matthew 25:1-13. In this Scripture Jesus is merely telling of ten young women who have been selected as bridesmaids for a wedding. When the time slipped by and it appeared that the wedding would not take place until long after dark, five of them were wise enough to put oil in their lamps. All ten of them had gone to sleep when the bridegroom came. According to the parable, only five were ready to go their way to the wedding feast. The other five went out to try to get oil, but were late for the celebration.

Like every other parable, it is a life situation that illustrates a spiritual truth. Jesus was simply illustrating that there are many people who outwardly appear to be Christians, but are not really prepared to meet the Lord because there is something lacking inside. Outward appearances alone do not prepare us to meet Christ in the day of Judgment. It is a change that takes place in the human heart—a change in which God gives a new heart and takes away the old one that makes all the difference. It is only when our motives and our attitudes are changed that we are sure something has really taken place. It is when the Holy Spirit comes into our lives and cleanses us that we are genuinely prepared. That is what Jesus was illustrating.

Police Search for Missing War Vet

CLOVERDALE, Calif. (AP) — Cloverdale police and a skin diving team from the San Francisco Bay area searched Monday for a missing World War II veteran whose wartime head injuries left him with continual severe head pains.

Police said Albert Lucchetti, 43, of Cloverdale was last seen Friday. He was reported missing on Saturday when two boys found his wallet by the Russian River.

Officers said Lucchetti had complained for 20 years about his head pains and last week Veterans Hospital officials told him they couldn't help him. His wife said he was despondent.

By the end of Veterans Day, Monday, no trace, other than the wallet, had been found.

'DOCTOR' JAILED

MONTE VISTA (UPI)— John R. Manjol, 70, of Center, Colo., was being held today on suspicion of practicing medicine without a license. Authorities said he posed as a "practitioner" in Del Norte, Colo., for two months. Henry Trujillo, an investigator in the district attorney's office, said Menjol had served a prison term in Nw Mexico for manslaughter after one of his "patients" died.

AWARDED MEDAL — Maj. Jack A. Nance, whose retirement from the Army on Oct. 31, has been awarded the Army Commendation Medal for duty in his final assignment. He was chief of the Data Processing Division, Adjutant General Section, at Army Air Defense Command headquarters in Colorado Springs. The medal was presented to him by Lt. Gen. Charles B. Duff, ARADCOM's commanding general. Major Nance's retirement came after 20 years o fservice, including combat duty in the Pacific Theater of Operations during World War II. He was an enlisted man with 71st Air Engineer Squadron of the 13th Air Force. He received a direct commission in 1949. The major was assigned to ARADCOM headquarters in the summer of 1962, after having served at headquarters of the Eighth U.S. Army in Seoul, Korea. He has left Colorado Springs to take up residence in Florida.

More Progress Alliance Work To Be Sought

By ROMAN JIMENEZ

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)— The Inter-American Economic and Social Council begins work today on proposals to spur the Alliance for Progress into more effective action despite opposition from Brazil.

President Joao Goulart of Brazil, in a speech Monday opening the 20-nation ministerial conference, continued to show coolness toward President Kennedy's multibillion-dollar aid program.

Goulart suggested that Latin-American countries could solve their economic problems by themselves through a united front. He bore down on the perennial Latin - American argument that the high cost of industrial imports and low prices for the continent's raw materials exports was a major cause of the area's financial troubles.

The Brazilian president referred only once to the Alliance for Progress. He said only that it had to be improved. Goulart did not refer to the United States as the chief supplier of aid to Latin America, including to his own country, nor to foreign investment as a factor in Latin-American development.

However, Brazilian Finance Minister Carlos Alberto Carvalh Pinto in a speech accepting the presidency of the conference, said a joint effort by all the countries—"including those who can give and those who can only receive"—is necessary.

Some Latin-American delegates believed Goulart's speech was aimed primarily for home consumption, with an eye particularly on leftist labor unions that are among the president's chief backers.

The conference, the second annual ministerial meeting of American countries since the Alliance for Progress was launched in 1961, has two key proposals before it.

One would create a seven-nation "Inter-American Committee for the Alliance for Progress" to act as the clearing house for alliance projects.

Police Search for Missing War Vet

CLOVERDALE, Calif. (AP) — Cloverdale police and a skin diving team from the San Francisco Bay area searched Monday for a missing World War II veteran whose wartime head injuries left him with continual severe head pains.

Police said Albert Lucchetti, 43, of Cloverdale was last seen Friday. He was reported missing on Saturday when two boys found his wallet by the Russian River.

Officers said Lucchetti had complained for 20 years about his head pains and last week Veterans Hospital officials told him they couldn't help him. His wife said he was despondent.

By the end of Veterans Day, Monday, no trace, other than the wallet, had been found.

'DOCTOR' JAILED

MONTE VISTA (UPI)— John R. Manjol, 70, of Center, Colo., was being held today on suspicion of practicing medicine without a license. Authorities said he posed as a "practitioner" in Del Norte, Colo., for two months. Henry Trujillo, an investigator in the district attorney's office, said Menjol had served a prison term in Nw Mexico for manslaughter after one of his "patients" died.

AWARDED MEDAL — Maj. Jack A. Nance, whose retirement from the Army on Oct. 31, has been awarded the Army Commendation Medal for duty in his final assignment. He was chief of the Data Processing Division, Adjutant General Section, at Army Air Defense Command headquarters in Colorado Springs. The medal was presented to him by Lt. Gen. Charles B. Duff, ARADCOM's commanding general. Major Nance's retirement came after 20 years o fservice, including combat duty in the Pacific Theater of Operations during World War II. He was an enlisted man with 71st Air Engineer Squadron of the 13th Air Force. He received a direct commission in 1949. The major was assigned to ARADCOM headquarters in the summer of 1962, after having served at headquarters of the Eighth U.S. Army in Seoul, Korea. He has left Colorado Springs to take up residence in Florida.

By ROMAN JIMENEZ

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)— The Inter-American Economic and Social Council begins work today on proposals to spur the Alliance for Progress into more effective action despite opposition from Brazil.

President Joao Goulart of Brazil, in a speech Monday opening the 20-nation ministerial conference, continued to show coolness toward President Kennedy's multibillion-dollar aid program.

Goulart suggested that Latin-American countries could solve their economic problems by themselves through a united front. He bore down on the perennial Latin - American argument that the high cost of industrial imports and low prices for the continent's raw materials exports was a major cause of the area's financial troubles.

The Brazilian president referred only once to the Alliance for Progress. He said only that it had to be improved. Goulart did not refer to the United States as the chief supplier of aid to Latin America, including to his own country, nor to foreign investment as a factor in Latin-American development.

However, Brazilian Finance Minister Carlos Alberto Carvalh Pinto in a speech accepting the presidency of the conference, said a joint effort by all the countries—"including those who can give and those who can only receive"—is necessary.

Some Latin-American delegates believed Goulart's speech was aimed primarily for home consumption, with an eye particularly on leftist labor unions that are among the president's chief backers.

The conference, the second annual ministerial meeting of American countries since the Alliance for Progress was launched in 1961, has two key proposals before it.

One would create a seven-nation "Inter-American Committee for the Alliance for Progress" to act as the clearing house for alliance projects.

Reactor Experiment Reported Success

LEMONT, Ill. (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission announced that an experimental reactor which makes its own nuclear fuel achieved its first self-sustaining chain reaction today. The reactor is near Idaho Falls, Idaho.

Successful operation of the new fast-breeder reactor was hailed by Dr. Albert V. Crewe, director of the AEC's Argonne National Laboratory, as "economically attractive" for production of electricity.

The new reactor, called Experimental Breeder Reactor II (EBR II), started its activity with expensive nuclear fuel, Uranium 235, but produces more of a different fuel, Plutonium, that it consumes, and can be operated later on the self-produced Plutonium, Dr. Crewe said.

Argonne laboratory which designed and built the $35 million facility, operates it for the AEC at the commission's National Reactor Testing Station west of Idaho Falls.

Liver Transplant Attempt May Be Abandoned

DENVER (UPI)— A Denver Veterans Administration Hospital spokesman said today it was doubtful whether physicians would attempt a rare liver transplant operation on an Illinois man.

The official said the 21-year-old former Air Force man from Scott Air Force Base, Ill., was in poor physical coudition. He said the unidentified man was suffering from cancer of the liver and that the disease was in advanced stages.

The man was expected to die unless he receives a new liver. But doctors said they doubted his condition would permit the operation.

There have been six known previous attempts at a liver tranplant. All six persons died. Mrs. Marie Goodfellow of Arvada, Colo., the last patient to undergo the operation, lived a record 23 days following surgery.

Meanwhile, a 20-year-old San Antonio, Tex., student was reported in satisfactory condition at Colorado General Hospital this morning after undergoing a weekend kidney transplant operation.

The student, who asked to be unidentified, received a kidney from his 44-year-old mother, also from San Atonio, Tex. Doctors said the youth's kidneys had failed.

The woman is also reported in satisfactory condition. Only 14 of the 42 kidney transplant patients here have died following the operation.

Surgeons said a rejection period — during which time the body might reject foreign tissue —will last up to three weeks.

COMMANDS BATTERY —Capt. Dean D. Johnson, who was assigned to Army Air Defense Command headquarters in Colorado Springs in September, has been named commanding officer of the headquarters battery. He succeeds Capt. Arnold R. Pollard, who has transferred to the Aviation Section as a command aircraft pilot. Capt. Johnson, before being recalled to active duty in October and subsequently becoming a member of the Regular Army, was employed for three years by the System Development Corporation at Arlington Heights, Ill. He is a graduate of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y. He, his wife, and their three daughters live at 520 Leta Dr., Security.

Mrs. Nhu Said To Be Battling Exhaustion

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu, battling exhaustion, has delayed a flight to Rome and a reunion with her three younger children.

Mrs. Nhu had planned to leave today for Rome, then either return to South Viet Nam directly or via Los Angeles, an informed source said.

South Viet Nam's former first lady had said in private that she believes many of the ruling junta which overthrew her family's regime are still on her side, according to a source close to her.

Mrs. Nhu had been vacillating for days over whether to bring the children, ages 15, 11 and 4 to Los Angeles or to meet them in Rome, said an aide.

She had finally decided to leave for Rome at 11 a.m. today, but Monday night found herself unable to go on, the aide said, and a doctor said she was suffering from excessive fatigue.

An informed source said that Mrs. Nhu, who had been planning to remain for at least six months in Los Angeles, may now settle her younger children in Rome and her oldest daughter, Le Thuy, 18, in medical school in Paris and return only briefly to the United States.

Mrs. Nhu, her daughter and a secretary have been living for several days at a palatial mansion in the wealthy Bel Air district of Los Angeles.

Goldwater May Invite Attacks On Civil Rights

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—If Sen. Barry Goldwater pitches his expected Republican presidential nomination campaign on a 1962 statement of GOP principles, he may invite fresh attacks on his civil rights stand.

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, an announced candidate for the nomination, recently said he could support the Arizona senator as the party's standardbearer only "if he ran on a party platform like the one in 1960."

Goldwater, who has advocated that the Republicans go before the voters in 1964 with a general statement of principles instead of a detailed platform, replied that the 1962 statement superseded the 1960 platform. He indicated it was more to his liking.

In a 2,500-word summary of views hammered out by a 12-member Senate-House committee headed by Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., the stand on civil rights was put this way:

"We believe that government must act to help establish conditions of equal opportunity for all people and to help assure that no one is denied the requisites for a life of dignity."

The broad declaration approached the type of statement Goldwater has been advocating that the Republicans make in 1964—one that could be interpreted by each individual candidate as he chose.

This kind of statement could be extolled in the North as a forthright civil rights declaration. It could be dismissed in the South as little more than a platitude.

The 1962 declaration was in sharp contrast to the detailed 1,000-word statement on civil rights the Republicans wrote into their 1960 platform on the insistence of former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, after he had conferred with Rockefeller on this and other issues.

In that statement, the GOP called civil rights "a national problem and a national responsibility."

The 1960 Republican platform called for abolition of literacy tests in voting, broader authority for the attorney general to act in school integration suits and withholding of federal aid for the construction of segregated schools.

It favored making the equal job opportunities committee a statutory arm of the government and called for appropriate legislation to force local unions to desegregate. It urged the banning of discrimination in all federal facilities and action to eliminate segregation in housing.

The Republicans stopped short of advocating legal action to force desegregation of businesses that serve the public, a proposal made by President Kennedy which Goldwater flatly opposes.

The Arizona senator has said he thinks there are adequate laws on the books to take care of voting abuses. He thought another proposal to give the President authority to withhold aid funds from states which fail to desegregate was interesting but doubted that it was "either constitutionally correct or morally correct."

■ Most folks today realize that a periodic physical check-up can help keep them in shape, and hopefully ward off illness and big medical bills. "It's the same with houses," says home-planning authority, A. M. Watkins, author of "The Complete Book of Home Remodeling, Repair and Improvement," and other books and articles in his field. Mr. Watkins has now prepared a booklet especially for the New York Life Insurance Company entitled "How To Hold Down Home Maintenance Costs."

Avoid Unnecessary Repair Bills. "Certain stitch-in-time maintenance checks can pay off in handsome dividends," he points out. "They can sharply cut your annual house operating bills, as well as forestall a major repair bill." By keeping a home in tip-top shape, you preserve its resale value, and also reap the most living enjoyment.

In a detailed, easy-to-follow analysis, Mr. Watkins lists the key problem areas to look out for in plumbing, electricity, heating and such—and what to do about them.

When to "Do-it-yourself." Many major repairs and emergency service calls stem from a few basic causes, the booklet explains, and so a check-up plus preventive maintenance can often help you stave them off. The average person can take care of numerous small difficulties himself. Mr. Watkins tells you the type of repairs you generally should not attempt to handle yourself, and how to hold down costs when you do hire specialists for repairs and improvements.
